

SALT LAKE CITY ON SAFE GROUND

Local Bankers Unperturbed by Evidences of Financial Unrest Elsewhere.

KNOX VOICES CONFIDENCE PREDICTS EASIER MONEY IN NEXT NINETY DAYS.

The unsettled condition of the eastern financial market and the day's developments in New York and in Butte, Mont., where the State Savings bank closed its doors, formed the main topic of conversation in Salt Lake business circles yesterday.

Salt Lake is on safe ground was the verdict heard on every side, and in spite of the shaky situation, no panic symptoms are evident here in any form. Bankers and business men express an unqualified belief that Salt Lake is in a better shape to withstand a short-lived financial scare than are people in any other part of the west.

The attitude of the local bankers was voiced last night by Frank Knox, president of the National Bank of the Republic, when asked if there is a possibility of a financial scare affecting general conditions in Salt Lake in any way.

"I don't care what happens in the eastern financial market, Salt Lake is high and dry above it all, and they can't hurt us," said Mr. Knox. "If money gets scarce, of course, it will cause some little stringency here, but it will not be serious nor prolonged. Salt Lake has invested their money and have made conservative investments. Property values are on a good, sound level and the shrinkage in stock values was in the way and isn't going to hurt anything. In ninety days money will begin to arrive from Europe in payment for our grain exports; crops will have been moved and the situation should ease off.

"A month ago there was considerable demand for money for speculation in stocks. For the past four weeks this demand has greatly diminished until now there is very little call for this class of accommodation.

"This country has reached a state where the fall or rise of a few millionaires doesn't affect the general condition of the country as it does Wall street. The country is too big for it and for that reason as much as anything else I have the utmost confidence in the ultimate outcome of the present uneasiness.

Other bankers voiced President Knox's statements and it is very evident that it will take a good deal more of a scare than has been so far promulgated to frighten the local bankers. F. A. Heine's alleged reverses in New York and elsewhere caused talk in Salt Lake and elsewhere.

He is heavily interested with W. S. McCormick in the Utah National bank here, and is said to have large cash deposits in that institution.

Developments are being anxiously watched by the public, the only tangible development being the fact that the investments until the atmosphere clears up again.

TAMPICO FORGING AHEAD

Land Values Are Going Up and Region is Becoming Americanized, Says Alexander Smith.

Alexander Smith of Tampico, Mex., in Salt Lake, a guest of H. C. Mortensen, secretary of the Montezuma-Oaxaca & Isthmian company, Mr. Smith has had the active management of the company's plantation near Tampico for the past year, and says work on the place is running smoothly, clearing, plowing and planting being done by native labor under expert managers. Mr. Smith reports an abundance of labor, and says the health conditions in the vicinity are good. The work on the Mexican Central Short Line to Mexico City is reported to be progressing rapidly. Mr. Smith says a preliminary survey is now being made for a line from Brownsville, Tex., to Tampico, along the coast line. The fourth line running into Tampico.

DEATH REMOVES ISAAC C. GREGG

Reputed to Be the Oldest Odd Fellow in the World.

LEAVES AN AUTOBIOGRAPHY IN QUIANT STYLE TELLS STORY OF HIS LIFE.

Isaac D. Gregg, reputed the oldest Odd Fellow in the world, died yesterday afternoon at his home at 62 Rosella avenue. Mr. Gregg was 83 years old at the time of his death and had belonged to the Odd Fellows lodge for sixty-one years, having joined the order in 1846 in Philadelphia. He was the father of St. Paul, Neb., and for years has been prominent in the order.

Mr. Gregg was well known in Salt Lake, where he has lived for 25 years. Two years ago he entertained the local Odd Fellows at his home in this city. On June 11, 1905, the occasion of his wife's seventieth birthday, he wrote a short autobiography of himself and family, which in its quaint style tells the story of his life and the events of his life, and is placed in a sealed envelope, not to be opened until after Mr. Gregg's death. The chronicle, which reverts oddly from the third to the first person, reads as follows:

"Isaac D. Gregg, sr., was born in Chester county, Pennsylvania, on June 4, 1824. Mrs. Caroline Gregg was born in Newcastle county, Wilmington, Delaware, near the bank of the river Brandywine, on June 11, 1825. Her maiden name was Caroline Comfort. Mr. and Mrs. Gregg were married on May 5, 1847, by the Reverend Mr. Clark in Philadelphia. At that date they have thirty-five grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren living. Mrs. Gregg is today 78 years old, and Mr. Gregg is 79 years past. Mr. Gregg's grandfather was in the Revolution and in the battle of the Brandywine, at Valley Forge and at Chad's Ford.

On Jackson's Knee.

"My father, John D. Gregg, was in the war of 1812, and I well remember his uniform was preserved for years after my father died, by my mother. My father and mother lived in the village of Brandywine, at the Green Tree hotel, on the main stage line between Baltimore and Philadelphia. In the year of 1833 or 1834 Andrew Jackson and several other gentlemen took dinner at my father's house. Andrew Jackson took me on his knee and gave me a silver dollar. I was a Democrat then, but that incident made me a still stronger Democrat.

Mr. and Mrs. Gregg are the parents of seven children, four sons and three daughters, six living and one daughter dead. One son is in Philadelphia, Kas., one in Iowa, a daughter in St. Joseph, Mo., a daughter in Grand Island, Neb., and two sons in Utah, one in Salt Lake and one, our youngest, in Park City. Mr. Gregg was attached to the quartermaster's department in the field in General McDowell's division, in front of Richmond in McClellan's army. He was transferred to General Pope's army, where he fought at the Rapidan, where a stand was made and the second battle of Bull Run. With his division Mr. Gregg fell into the hands of the rebel army at South Mountain.

Concludes War Record.

"Little War" as the boys called McClellan, drove out the rebel army to Antietam yesterday, but was called off at that point, on account of hard work, night and day, I was taken sick and had to resign my position in the department for good. After I recovered I joined the Fifth Delaware regiment of infantry, then in the army of the Potomac, and went on for nine months' service, not to be called out of the state except in case of insurrection, but was called out by the government to do guard duty at Haverrdass, Maryland, till our time expired. Then I was appointed enrolling officer in Philadelphia, Pa., and was the first man drafted in the state. I being an enrolling officer of the enrolling board, had not as yet to stay in the state and pay $100 toward the commutation act. This is written as my war record and family record up to date.

LEARN TO EAT.

Few People in Salt Lake Really Know How.

This is not an essay on table manners, but a little good advice about one of the great American defects—too rapid eating.

Nothing makes life so miserable, or interferes so widely with the usefulness of the average American, as indigestion.

The quick-lunch counters and the great majority of restaurants, even the home dining rooms, are simply manufacturing factories of stomach troubles.

Slow eating will solve one-half the problem of ill health. Those who suffer already with indigestion and weak stomach can with care and the use of Mi-o-na stomach tablets restore their digestion to a healthy condition, so that they can eat what they want at any time without fear of distress or suffering.

After a few days' use of Mi-o-na stomach tablets, the headache, dizzy feeling, drowsiness, bad taste in the mouth, coated tongue, nervousness, sleeplessness, distress after eating—all these symptoms of a weak stomach—will disappear, and perfect digestion and a good skin will show that the vital machinery is once more running smoothly.

Take a little Mi-o-na tablet before each meal so that it will stimulate the digestive juices and give strength to the stomach, and then it will take care of the food that is eaten, without indigestion and the unpleasant flat feeling with which so many suffer after meals.

F. C. Schramm has so much confidence in the power of Mi-o-na to cure indigestion and all stomach ills that he gives a guarantee with every 50-cent box to refund the money if the remedy fails to give satisfaction. Corner First South and Main streets, "Where the Cars Stop."

TYPHOID BRAVAGES ARE UNCHECKED

Thirty-four Cases Reported in Salt Lake Since Oct. 1.

AUTHORITIES STAND IDLE LARGELY QUESTION OF WATER AND SANITATION.

The same distressing condition with reference to the prevalence of typhoid fever in Salt Lake which existed last year is reported again this fall. There is an amazingly large number of cases of this dread disease. With the month of October only a little more than 300 cases were reported. The records of reported cases show a total of thirty-four. The city health authorities content themselves with comparison showing the situation is no worse than last year.

This year the disease prevails more extensively in the northwest portion of the city and in the western part generally, although there have been a number of cases on the east side, both on the rise toward the bench and on the lower ground toward the southwest.

The reason assigned by numerous doctors who were asked about the situation yesterday is that the greater number of cases of the disease exist in the northwest western part of town because of the low lying character of the land, the natural seepage of the water, and the fact that the great majority of the people pay no attention to sanitation. Suggestions for the prevention of a recurrence of the epidemic, if such it might be called, resolve themselves into this: Better water. If the city mains were extended to the district where the greater part of the cases occur and the people connected with the city supply pipes instead of using the flowing wells as they are at present doing, it is said the number of typhoid fever cases would be minimized.

Carried by Infection.

Typhoid fever cannot be transmitted by contact with the person afflicted. If one becomes a victim of the disease he must have swallowed water or food containing the germ. The germ is present in water contaminated with sewage or in water that does not main and flow in volume sufficient to dilute the infection and thus, with the aid of oxidation, remove the danger. Still, or sluggish water, however, is a menace at all times, and in the western part of the city is a section suffering topographical disadvantages in this respect. It is a natural consequence, say the doctors, that typhoid fever cases should be more numerous there than in districts where the water supply is perfect and where the water supply is pure.

One of the chief causes of typhoid in the low area referred to is the use there of artesian wells or wells of the old-fashioned kind. The water obtained from these wells is saturated uniformly in its nature to the surface as to be little better than drainage.

Typhoid germs, as has been stated, communicate themselves by means of entrance to the human system through the mouth. The most common means of infection is through the water supply, although there are not infrequent cases that can be traced directly to the milk supply. Salt Lake doctors, however, say that the milk furnished consumers is up to the standard of purity, with rare exceptions.

If water and milk and food are boiled or cooked there can be no presence of the germ. The use of boiled food, it is said by the doctors, is responsible for a large number of typhoid fever cases.

List of Cases Reported.

The cases reported to the health board from the first of the month to the present time are: Helen Boy, 18, 408 East Second South; Carlyle Tanner, 12, son of Mrs. Jennie Tanner, 42 North First West; Aretta Young, 18, daughter of Richard Young, 205 First avenue; Arta Kimball, 13, daughter of A. Don't Get Excited

Don't get pessimistic, either. Is copper all we have? Is silver all we have? Is lead all we have? Is gold all we have? Is climate, fertile soil, oil, salt, hot springs, sulphur, oyx, asphalt, lime, clay, building stone, coal, iron and location all we have? Not much. It would require a volume to enumerate the resources of our city and its surrounding territory. Of course, we have a few calamity howlers; every community is afflicted with them. Now is the time to sit up and take notice. Do some figuring and you can't help being convinced that nothing can head us off or even stop our growth and prosperity. You can't keep a good town down. You will not lose any money if you invest in any of the following:

$2,000—Pressed brick home of 5 rooms near both depots.

$3,500—Handsome cottage of five rooms. Modern. North bench.

$4,500—New colonial house, 6 rooms. Modern throughout. North bench.

TO REPRESENT OPERATORS

Telegraphers' Union Elects Delegate to Milwaukee Convention—Support of Federation.

Local No. 39, Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, was given assurance by the Utah Federation of Labor last night that the striking operators need have no fear about support from the central labor body. Dan I. Elton, secretary and A. E. Gregory made stirring speeches, in which they advised the strikers to fight their battle to a finish. Both talked trade unionism of the strongest kind. The remarks of the labor leaders were received with applause.

The principal business of the evening was the election of a delegate to the national convention to be held in Milwaukee next Wednesday. The local will be represented by C. N. Smith, one of the most prominent of the men on strike here, and one of those most thoroughly familiar with conditions. Mr. Smith will take part in a gathering that, coming as it does at this time, will be unique beyond precedent. Mr. Smith will have a voice in deciding the future policy of the telegraphers, both with reference to the strike situation and the course to be pursued by the order in respect to all of the important matters which will arise either during the pendency of the strike or following its settlement.

The convention at Milwaukee will elect a successor to Sylvester J. Small, the man who has been at the head of the organization until he was deposed by the executive committee recently. Mr. Small goes untriumphed with regard to Small's successor.

Salt Lake's delegate will be expected to advocate the closer affiliation of the railroad and commercial telegraphers and also to bring about, if possible, the long cherished hope of the operators, an understanding with the Typographical union.
