SAME OLD GAME.

Professing to believe they have more votes than the Democrats in Salt Lake, the Republican managers have practically confessed the speciousness of their own claims, abandoned their council nominees and appropriated Democratic aldermanic nominations for most of the wards. If it were possible they would like to abandon more candidates on the main city ticket and force fusion all down the line in spite of Democratic opposition.

Nominally the fusion effort to save the city from "American" rule; really it is designed by the Republicans to give them a chance for some of the offices and, if need be, to trade off the heads of the ticket for council votes.
If it were carried out in the fulness hoped for by James Devine, former "American" and now chairman of the Republican party, it could have but one result—the same result achieved by the tactics of the Republicans two years ago, when they succeeded in electing the "American" ticket at the eleventh hour by detaching voters who meant to support Morris but were persuaded that Lynch was "the only man who could beat Thompson."

In that election Lynch carried one election district, Thompson won, the city was afflicted with the two years of "American" rule, loaded down with a treasury deficit and given two increases in the tax rate—all because the Republicans pursued exactly the same tactics they are following now. In that election they achieved their main purpose—the defeat of Morris; and in this their only purpose is exactly the same —to defeat the Democrats at any cost, even at the cost of "American" victory.

Why should the Republicans prefer an "American" triumph to Democratic victory? Nothing could be simpler: if the Democrats won the Republicans would be left without any excuse for appealing to religious prejudice in political affairs; they would have to face the possibility of a dissolution of the "American" party and a return to the Republican ranks of the men who deserted the party to form the "American" wing of the same political faith; they would be brought into a presidential year with a fight on their hands for control of the Republican machine —and that is the last thing the present faction in control of federal offices desires. It has easy sailing now with a large and influential faction of the Republican party taking no part in its affairs; if the "Americans" went back into the Republican party—where they belong—the Smoot crowd would no longer have undisputed sway and they might be ousted from control.

On the other hand, if they can insure two more years of "American" control, two more years of Republican division in the state, they are certain of their pickings in state and federal offices.
The city is of minor importance as compared with the state and national patronage; and so long as the "American" organization is kept up, Smoot and his federal office-holders are assured of their control in state and federal affairs.

The movement for fusion in the First and Second municipal wards originated before the conventions and was due to a desire to get the best men possible to displace "American" councilmen who had abandoned their own party lines after accepting nomination and election as partisans. But in the other wards no such condition existed. In the Fourth, particularly, the Democratic candidates were men whose character justified support from all the parties. Fusion was not needed nor was it desired by the Democrats; and the Republican effort to steal Democratic votes by stealing one of the candidates without the approval of his party was simply a strategic move to establish a trading basis with which to deprive Morris of the independent vote which would otherwise be his. In other words, it was a Republican move to help the "American" candidates and split the Democratic vote.

The scheme will fail in its purpose, though it may prove of material benefit to the "Americans" whom the Republicans affect to oppose. If the Democratic campaign management could be induced to join the game and approve fusion in all the wards on all the candidates, it would inevitably result in defections from both the Republican and Democratic ranks to the "Americans." Apparently the Republicans have not counted the cost to themselves, possibly they do not care what it costs, but large numbers of their own voters in the Fourth and elsewhere will not tolerate any such trading as is proposed.

If the Republicans are anxious to elect the "American" ticket they have taken exactly the right road to that destination, but the Democrats will not join them, and if Morris is defeated by Bransford the Republicans alone will have to shoulder the responsibility—just as they had to bear it two years ago, when the same ruse elected Thompson.

The Herald believes Morris has a most excellent chance to win, even with the double handicap of a combination of effort by the "Americans" and Republicans, who are both working for the same end, though with different methods. It believes the "Americans" will lose control of the council in spite of the Republican attempt to job the Democrats in the wards. Nothing can defeat Morris except the success of Republican plans to demoralize the supporters of Morris by trading him off in the fusion game. Do the Republicans care to assume the responsibility for another "American" victory?

THE HEINZE EPISODE.

Detailed reports of the crash in New York occasioned by the failure of the Otto Heinze firm and the collapse of a corner in Heinze copper stocks, show that the difficulty was due to a vicious case of bad faith in stock manipulation and the consequent repudiation of trades in stocks which the Heinze firm had ordered brokers to buy but refused to pay for when delivery was offered.
Just how serious the bad faith is regarded by the stock exchange is shown by the suspension for one year of the board member of the Heinze firm—a mark of disgrace that few men would face willingly, and none can have without loss of honor.

This was the origin of the demoralization in the Heinze stocks, and it was followed by the retirement of F. A.
Heinze from the presidency of the Mercantile bank, an institution which he had helped to found. The reason assigned for his retirement is that his brothers' financial affairs will require a good deal of his time, and he cannot devote himself to bank business as he should; probably another reason is that the failure of the brokers makes it desirable to have a change in the bank's head, since speculative prominence and banking management nowadays do not work well for the bank.

In any event, while the episode has caused considerable excitement in financial circles all over the country, its effect will be limited largely to the securities associated with Heinze's name. The bank in Butte which closed its doors is reported solvent, and the names of its controlling owners is assurance that it will pay out. General commercial finances are not likely to be affected seriously, and the breaking of the storm, which has been brewing in coppers for months, may clear the atmosphere to the benefit of the whole situation.

Viewing the trend of the securities market since last March, and figuring the enormous depreciation in prices, running up into the billions, the wonder is that no more failures have been recorded in the stock market. In three weeks of this fall the loss in stock market values amounted to three billions; and yet the commercial world has reported only two great failures, the Pope company and one independent iron and steel concern, neither of which was unexpected, and both of which will ultimately meet a large part, if not all, of their liabilities.
In manufactures, trade, conditions everywhere are good, and one of the pronounced optimists of the country is the president of the National Manufacturers' association. Traffic on the railroads is still greater than the facilities; the cotton crop alone promises to yield close to $750,000,000; wheat has a big yield and is bringing big prices; corn is going to bring enormous returns in cash. Indeed, the great crops and the activity in manufactures are in a way responsible for the tightness of money, since the banking interests prefer to lend on such security rather than invest in or lend money on stocks and bonds which have depreciated.

Bankers are unanimous in their opinion that the beginning of crop movements to the seaboard for export and the resultant influx of money from abroad will ease the money market within three or four weeks, and they believe, too, that the liquidation of speculative accounts which has been going on for months has nearly reached its end.
On the basis of present prices substantial stocks and bonds yield a larger rate of interest to purchasers than they have in years, and such a condition is invariably followed by purchases on the part of men who have money for such operations.

Altogether the conditions need occasion no alarm among men whose operations are along legitimate lines. The speculative movement had reached a speed that was dangerous, and putting on the brakes, while it jarred some of the men who were involved, has been for the safety of every legitimate interest in business. From gambling with borrowed money, the average citizen who had caught the mania has come down to substantial earth again; the sensational may have been unpleasant for him, but it has been a relief to the commercial and financial interests that saw the danger with which the whole country was threatened.

ing the main decoration. The affair was chaperoned by Miss Ella Dukes,

A GOOD CUSSER.
(San Antonio Express.)
"I have often interviewed John D. Rockefeller during a game of golf," said a New York reporter, "and a milder tempered golfer I have seldom seen. No matter what hard luck he plays in, Mr. Rockefeller never loses his equanimity."
"He told me one day that he despised a golfer who got angry and profane on the links. He said he knew a broker of that abominable type."
"The broker, on a sunny autumn afternoon, set out to play nine holes. Looking back after he had driven off he saw a great crowd following. There were young men and old, good players and bad, all trailing close behind with looks of interest and expectation.

"The broker paused and turned. He smiled politely and nervously.
"Really, gentlemen," he said, "this is very flattering. I hope I am in good form this afternoon. I trust I shall play well enough to reward all this kindly interest."
"An elderly lawyer laughed.
"Oh, it isn't that," he said. "We came out to listen."
FIXING THE BLAME.
(Exchange.)
A Washington physician one morning was summoned by a patient whose eccentricities of diet had required calling him many times before, but on this occasion the patient was unusually frank about the cause of his trouble.

"It's my own fault, doctor," came from him in lugubrious tones. "Experience teaches one what he can eat and what he can't eat. Last night I ate three cucumbers, a few radishes, a saucerful of strawberries and drank a glass of ice water. Then I went to bed. However, I've learned one thing: a man has no right to drink ice water before retiring."
