CLOSING THE CAMPAIGN.

With the city campaign practically ended, but for the final alignment of forces today and tomorrow, the voter has all the issues clearly before him.

Opposed to the Democrats are the Republicans and "Americans." The Republicans have won power in the state and county largely by an appeal to the fears and prejudices of religion.

Both have helped to establish and maintain political conditions that have become intolerable to the masses, Gentile, Jew and Mormon.

No possible result could so chagrin and alarm both Republicans and "Americans" as the election of the Democratic ticket.

About $100,000 more has been spent for water and sewer purposes, which has to be met in some way.

It is plain that no peace can come to Salt Lake or to Utah by continuing either the Republican machine or the "American" faction in power.

lean success would only be an added reason for renewed reprisals and attacks on the state by the "Americans."

On the other hand, it must be evident that Democratic victory would go far toward compelling something like defecant methods, some regard for the welfare of the whole people in politics.

Entirely apart from these reasons, the Democratic ticket appeals to the common sense of the voter. It promises good administration, careful handling of the city's finances; efficient men in every department of the public service.

Whether as a means of settling the strife that has rent the state, or as the best way of securing efficient city administration, the election of the Democratic ticket must appeal to the sound judgment of voters.

As in the election of two years ago, the Republicans are urging support of their ticket solely on the ground that "Plummer can beat Bransford."

The one hope of defeating the "Americans" is in the Democratic party. Morris is incomparably stronger as a candidate than Plummer, for perfectly obvious reasons.

The people of Salt Lake will have their choice on Tuesday of electing Morris or Bransford; of having two more years of "American" administration, or two years of the business-like management of municipal affairs which the Democrats are qualified to give them.

Taking official figures for it, the city administration has now an overdraft in the general funds amounting to over $400,000; and this does not include any part of the huge outstanding indebtedness due Moran and other contractors.

Against the $400,000 overdraft, the administration claims an offset of about $225,000 held in special funds. These funds belong to the property owners, who have paid them as assessments for sidewalks and other public work.

With $400,000 of this year's taxes already spent; with probably another $100,000 which will be required to pay outstanding indebtedness, and with two months of the year yet to be paid for, the taxes now being collected will be exhausted as fast as they are paid.

No matter who is elected or what is done between now and the first of the year, the city's finances are in bad shape and the utmost care will be needed to meet the most economical requirements of the next two years.

Whether the men who are responsible for this condition shall be entrusted with the city's finances for another two years or not, is to be decided by the voters next Tuesday.

That is the main question to be settled; and it ought to have serious consideration at the hands of every voter.

In considering the present money stringency prevailing in the city of New York, it should be remembered that in reality this situation does not in any way affect the country at large.

A canvass among the bankers of this city shows that there is not the slightest reason for an uneasiness on the part of anyone, as they show not only strength in their financial condition, but also enjoyment of a steady increase of patronage.

By the "American" standard, John D. Rockefeller is an eminently desirable member of the nation—that is, if he pays taxes on everything he owns.

Still, a good many foolish taxpayers are puzzled to know how an overdraft of $400,000 in the city's general funds is to be figured out as an asset.

Still, a good many folks will vote who don't happen to own large blocks of real estate, and they won't vote the "American" ticket either.

Pe-ru-na as a November Remedy.

The month of November, in temperate regions especially, requires of the human body a very radical adjustment to climatic conditions.

It is not so generally known, however, that the inside of the body also needs protection. THE MUCOUS MEMBRANES OF THE BODY, that line every passage and cavity and duct, also suffer from the change from hot to cold weather.

Whether Peruna is a medicinal compound that meets these requirements is judged by a hasty glance at some of its principal ingredients.

Another ingredient of Peruna which is of manifest benefit is cubeba Bartholow, in his excellent work on therapeutics, states that cubeba PROMOTES THE APPETITE, ASSISTS DIGESTION, and increases the circulation of the blood.

These are some of the principal ingredients of Peruna compounded into a single remedy by skillful and experienced pharmacists.

People who pass through the month of November safely and find themselves acclimated to winter weather, generally pass through the remainder of the cold season without any serious difficulty.

No safer or more appropriate remedy than Peruna could be found. Taken according to the directions on the bottle, not only would catarrhal ailments be ward off but catarrh already acquired be corrected.

The truth of the above statements is absolutely unassailable, and the knowledge concerning Peruna which they convey places this remedy beyond all cavil as a great family medicine.
