

BRYAN TALKS TO GREAT CROWDS

People Come Hundreds of Miles to Hear Address of Nebraskan.

NON - PARTISAN MEETING

"THE PRINCE OF PEACE" SUBJECT OF LECTURE.

Valentine, Neb., May 31.—There was little rest today for William J. Bryan on his week's tour of Nebraska. Notwithstanding this trip is within his own state, Mr. Bryan is meeting many people who are strangers to him, and his presence here today brought nearly 2,000 persons to this frontier town to hear two addresses, both on religious themes.

Mr. Bryan arrived in Valentine long after midnight from a sixteen-hour trip along the northern boundary of the state, but was up by 8 o'clock. He was the guest while here of A. M. Morrissey, who is a district delegate to the Denver convention.

Services in the Tent. Introducing Mr. Bryan in the morning, Rev. Beale said: "This occasion brings to my mind a great picture I once saw in a large eastern gallery. It depicted the Saviour, his face radiant, in the midst of a host of worshippers. They were all doing homage to the Lord, bowing down before him in humility. It pleases me to introduce to you today one well known to and honored by all the world for his fame in politics, but who is still willing to bow down to the Prince of Peace."

A ripple of applause greeted Mr. Bryan as he stepped to the front of the platform, but he quickly waved the audience to silence. He apologized for not being able to get his state trip into six days, and remarked: "But I have no apology to offer for following my usual custom of speaking on religious subjects on Sunday. As is well known, I am greatly interested in the science of government, but I want to say that I am much more interested in religion, and I am sure it is not too much to say that I would rather make a religious than a political speech. I made religious speeches six years before I began to talk politics, and I expect to make them for many years after I am out of politics."

Mr. Bryan addressed himself particularly to young men, and at times varied from the set text of his address to say a word of warning concerning unbelievers and scoffers at religion. Traveling Men Active. One feature of the day's happenings was the songs of a party of traveling men who were in the town over Sunday. L. P. Bauderman, jr., was made spokesman for his fellow travelers, who greeted and were received by Mr. Bryan, following which they formed themselves into a male chorus, under the leadership of J. W. Herman, and entertained the crowd with several campfire songs.

Despite Mr. Bryan's efforts to pass the day in as dignified a manner as possible, he was greeted with applause whenever he appeared. The meetings today were entirely non-partisan, the afternoon meeting being presided over by W. S. Barker, editor of the oldest Republican paper.

HOW TO COOK A HUSBAND AS TOLD IN THE HIGH ALTITUDE COOK BOOK

The "High Altitude Cook Book," issued by the Utah Federation of Women's Clubs, is out, and is well worth publishing. It was compiled and published by the federation, each club contributing some favorite recipe for its pages. It is an attractive little booklet, whose pages are indexed, making it a most convenient article to the kitchen mechanic, whether she be maid or housewife. Everything from soup to confections with a special chapter on chafing dish dainties is included between its covers, and all the recipes are "tried and true" to the high altitude, which, as every housewife knows, makes a difference in cooking.

OIL COUNTRY IS SHOWING WELL

Advices From Bluff Indicate an Unusual Amount of Activity.

Bluff, San Juan county, May 28.—Everything is running smoothly at the Goodrich oil well. Seventy-five feet of six-inch pipe has been driven during the last two weeks and the machinery is in excellent condition. It is expected that the oil will be reached in the 210-foot sand, the same strata in which the other well is fed. The well now under way is some miles from the completed one in January and, if a success, will prove a large tract of land to be of immense value. Progress is being noted carefully and the climax anticipated with unusual interest from many quarters.

The money arrived on Sunday which was the result of a deal between a Hanson, representing New York and Chicago capitalists and the Hyde-Raplee people, will be used to study the feasibility of an auto road, which will best accommodate the oil country. He has just come in over the country from Thompson, Utah; has also been over the road between Bluff and the oil wells, and is now, with a number of men, cutting a road through the Blue mountains near Monticello, Utah. Since Sunday Mr. Hanson and party arrived and are now on the field, looking over the situation.

George Turner is here in the interests of the Callaway Brook of Ouray, Colo. His purpose is to study the feasibility of an auto road, which will best accommodate the oil country. Taft Sorry He Made the Break

Reference to Gen. Grant's Alleged Weakness for Drink Causes Uproar.

Washington, May 31.—Secretary of War William H. Taft, when apprised tonight that comment had been caused by his reference in his Memorial day address in New York to General Grant's resignation from the army before the civil war, made the following statement to the Associated Press: "I am very much distressed that anything I have said should be construed to be an attack upon General Grant's memory. I yield to no man in my admiration for General Grant, in my high estimate of his remarkable qualities and character, and of the great debt that the nation owes him. In my memorial address I attributed his resignation from the army in 1854 to his weakness for strong drink, because from Mr. Garland's life of General Grant, and the evidence he cites, and from other histories, I suppose it was undoubtedly true."

TYROT TALKS ON THE FILIBUSTER

Counting a Quorum. "First, the vice president announced that it was within the province of the chair to count a quorum and that he would not order a roll call if a quorum was actually present."

Comment by Burkett.

Commenting on the effect of these changes, Mr. Burkett said: "The present senate filibuster has been productive of the greatest evil in the history of the republic since the days of the Fifty-first congress, when Speaker Thomas B. Reed announced in the house of representatives that gentlemen in their seats could not be as well heard as those on the floor. The result of this filibuster, and came after a roll call where the Democrats sat mute when their names were called and thus disclosed by the roll call the lack of a quorum. Until Reed's decision it was possible for the minority to keep the majority party from having enough of their members present all the time to equal a quorum of the house. But Reed decided that if a man continuing until the legislation shall be enacted, it is only a matter of time until any filibustering contingent can be successfully worn out."

Coronation of Blessed Virgin

Two Hundred Children Take Part in Impressive Services at St. Mary's. "Suffer the little children to come unto me." The touching and beautiful sentiment of the Man of Galilee was the spirit that predominated in the pretty and impressive ceremony of the coronation of the Blessed Virgin Mary with a wreath of roses by the little children at the chapel of St. Mary's pro-cathedral last evening. Two hundred and ten little children ranging in ages from 3 to 15 years bore garlands of sweet flowers to the statue of Mary and closed the month of May with the sweetest of tributes to the mother of the Saviour.

Impossible to Prolong Debate.

Can Only Delay.

"The house of representatives, through the tightening up of its rules of limitation of debate, has made it almost impossible to defeat legislation by filibuster. Burkett may of course delay it, they cannot defeat it."

IF YOU are advertising ice-cream, study the product and its purchasers. To announce merely that the ice cream is "the best you ever ate" isn't strong advertising. Find if there are any good features in the making of the ice cream. Find where the cream comes from, whether it comes from the milk of any good breed of cattle or is handled with unusual care for cleanliness. Is it all pure cream—no condensed milk? Is superfluous flavoring used? Is the ice cream made by experts? It put up in a form that is very convenient for giving suppers or parties? Does it keep in form? How many flavors are made? Does it have a delivery service courteous and never-failing? The kind of investigation to make of any business or article that you are trying to advertise.

If you are advertising farm wagons, don't make the time-worn claim that the wagon is made of the best material; if the material is thoroughly seasoned, hickory, say so. Instead of claiming that the wagon is strong, say—if you can do so truthfully—that it has stood a dead-weight test of four tons. Don't merely claim that a refrigerator is "germ-proof." Why is it germ-proof? Explain that the porcelain lining is in one piece—that there are no cracks into which food can get and decay. Instead of asserting that things are durable, convenient, time-saving, or money-saving, give the facts that prove them to be durable, convenient, time-saving or money-saving.

CONSECRATION OF THE BISHOPS

Hall at Baltimore Crowded by Friends of Methodist Churchmen. Baltimore, May 31.—The newly elected bishops of the Methodist Episcopal church were consecrated today, the exercises taking place in the Lyric, which was crowded. In the rooms reserved for the use of the bishops a procession was formed, and promptly at 4 o'clock it was led by the bishops-elect, Rev. Drs. William E. Anderson of New York; John L. Nuelson of Berea, O.; William C. Quayle of Chicago; Charles L. Smith of Pittsburgh; Wilson S. Lewis of Sioux City, Ia.; Edwin H. Giles of Greenacres, Ind.; Robert McIntyre of Los Angeles, and Frank M. Brasol of Washington, D. C., each accompanied by his two presbyters. Following these came the bishops Warren and Goodsell and the other consecrating bishops, the first named, as senior bishop, presiding and acting as chief consecrator. The candidates for ordination were examined by Bishop Warren, who pronounced them eligible, and this was followed by the declarations and oaths of the candidates. Then, after another brief prayer, Bishop Warren pronounced the words of consecration over Dr. Anderson, and seven other bishops performed the same office for the other candidates.

THE IRRITATING SOFT ANSWER.

Senator Thurman, at a banquet in Washington, said, in humorous defense of outspoken and frank methods: "These people who always keep calm fill me with mistrust. Those that never fill their temper I suspect. He who wears under abuse an angelic smile is apt to be a hypocrite. An old South Carolina deacon once said to me, with a chuckle: "'Keep you' tempah, son. Don't yo quarrel with no angry pussion. A soft answah an allus best. Hit's commanded
