DOES NOT WANT THE POSITION

J. H. Richards of Boise Would Not Accept Place at Head of Mining Bureau.

NOT QUALIFIED, HE SAYS

SOME INTERESTING TESTS MADE AT THE CONGRESS.

(Special to The Herald.)
Pittsburg, Pa., Dec. 3.—The delegates to the American Mining congress, in session here, were assured today that the bureau of mines, so much sought after, will be established by the government. This assurance was given by Senator Dick of Ohio, Congressman Burke of Pennsylvania and by other statesmen. Judge J. H. Richards of Boise, president of the congress, said he has been informed he is to become head of the bureau. This, he said, would be a fatal mistake, as he is not qualified and the position needs a genius at its helm. He will refuse the position if tendered him.

The Day's Proceedings.

Today's sessions were occupied by speeches and by the opening of the government testing station here. In the presence of mining experts, several manufactured explosions were pulled off and the general effects were noted afterwards. During the afternoon John Mitchell made an eloquent appeal on behalf of the miners of the country. Secretary of the Interior James Garfield also spoke. The fight for permanent headquarters will come up tomorrow. There have been as yet no open declarations on this subject, but it is understood those cities wanting the honor have been quietly marshaling their forces and the fight is certain to be a hot one.

Explosion Tests.

Today's tests were made at the artificial mine. The first test was a safety powder, dry fire clay and bituminous coal dust, the latter placed on shelves representing ledges in real mines. The powder was ignited for the blast and did not explode the dust.

There was a terrific explosion during the fourth test, when 1.1 pounds of black powder and twenty ounces of road dust (actual mine dust) were used. The recoil was strong and the flame covered the full length of the artificial mine. The test proved the combination to be exceedingly dangerous.

At this point experts of the station appeared wearing the Draeger oxygen apparatus, including metal and glass hoods, chemical chamber, and air helmet, designed to render breathing normal or nearly so while the operator is surrounded by the most deadly gases and vapors. The men hurried into the gallery still filled with fumes of the explosion and apparently were not affected by any of the gases. This device is designed for emergency rescue work, and was used with good result at Marianna.

A number of other tests were merely technical.

UNIVERSITY NOTES.

Editor James Alley of the Usonian, the university year book which is published annually by the junior class, selected his staff yesterday. He has made the appointments early so that the students could work during the Christmas recess. The following compose the staff: A. A. Anderson, photographer; Hugh Lewis, artist; A. D. Taylor, cartoonist; George Roberts, school editor; H. Johnson, debating and dramatic editor; L. Blackner, manager; Nora Schekles and Erma Pendleton, associate editors.

The freshmen must take the "U" off their class caps. The student executive committee decided that this was against the college ethics and the rules of the student body and have informed the freshmen to remove the school emblem from their headgear. This will affect about 300 freshmen, who are required to wear the class cap by the recent campus rules.

The Utah Biological society meets at the university today. Dr. Charles Veriles will lecture on "Infection Experiments with Milderew." Frank Forbush will also give a paper before the society.

The medical society held its regular meeting yesterday. Dr. W. W. Stookey addressed them. His subject was "The Specialist." The medical society has adopted a pin to distinguish them from the students of the other schools. It is a skull with the eyes set in emeralds with the word "Medics" across the forehead.

The students' executive committee decided to extend the yell contest to Jan. 15. A gold medal will be awarded to the person who writes the best university yell and song. The students have opened the contest to the public and invite everyone to participate.

The preparatory students at the university are making a remarkable scholastic record this year. Principal Levi Edgar Young of the preparatory school reports that out of 174 students only fourteen were reported deficient. The engineers have received notices of the subjects in which they were deficient, and at the close of the semester those who have not a passing grade in two-thirds the work for which they are registered are dropped from the institution.

H. F. Hanks of Heber, who lost his hands and his eyesight in a mine accident, will give an address to the university students Friday morning.

The members of the glee club are planning an extended trip throughout the state during the Christmas holidays. They will give concerts at the small country towns and take part in numerous entertainments. The glee club last year took a similar trip, which was extremely successful.

The co-eds at the university are busy arranging their leap year dance, which will be given Dec. 18. The proceeds of the dance this year will be used in remodeling and furnishing the new girls' rest room in the library building.

The try outs for the "Cabinet Minister" play to be produced by the dramatic club, will begin this week. This is the third show that the club has tried this year. It has thirteen balanced parts and the setting is in England and Scotland.

Leyson's Christmas Opening

Saturday, Dec. 5th, from 2 to 10 p. m., we invite everyone to our opening display of exquisite wares. It is needless to state that if we did not have something unusual and exclusive to show we would not invite you.

Our invitation is to the people and not to any class. Our wares are all of a high standard in every department, but our departments cover lines bought for the wage earner as well as for the carriage trade.

Carnations will be given all lady callers, and from 6:30 to 10 p. m. an orchestra will add charm to the brilliancy.

The name Leyson's stands for CLASS and not PRICE, and those who assume that it costs more to buy jewelry and kindred lines from a beautifully equipped store like ours than from any old shop are deceiving themselves.

The quantity of goods we handle and our constant search of the markets for the best lines for the least money for cash, makes it possible for us to sell many lines at a profit as low as some of our competitors can buy them. This statement is not an idle dream, but a convincing fact to the shopper who investigates. The name Leyson's on a box costs nothing, but rather guarantees the quality of the contents and makes happy the recipient.
