

This from an eastern paper will be duly appreciated by the observant ones who have wondered just how it happened:

"The up-to-date and enterprising milliner was standing dejectedly on a street corner in Salt Lake City.

"She had come west to find something suggestive of a new hat shape. "She had already copied in headgear the Grand canyon, Pike's Peak, the Golden Gate, the Bad Lands and the Devil's Slide. She had put the Garden of the Gods into a chapeau confection so popular that she had worked her assistants day and night.

"Now she was at her wits' end. Not another hatterable thing could she see. "But the darkest hour is just before time to get up and go to work.

"Just as she had given up in despair her eyes encountered the dome of the Mormon tabernacle.

"The very thing," she exclaimed, joyously. Leaping upon a train, she hastened home and began constructing the inverted chopping bowls that are now so hideously prevalent.

"There's a preacher in Missouri who's making a strong bid for popularity. He has established Wednesday evening classes on love, courtship and marriage, and calls the series he is giving "Vital Lessons on Love."

It must be remembered that he deals with young people from Missouri, who have to be shown. He follows his classes with a practical demonstration called a social hour, for which hour he gives proper credit marks.

Another expert on the subject, one Herman Meaders, hails from Chicago and advertises that he knows all about making love. He avers with such vehemence his absolute familiarity with the feminine mind that one can't but suspect him of a certain degree of effeminacy, to say the least.

Surely, the following could be from nothing but personal experience. "Flattery is like morphine—the more you have the more you want and must have. So be liberal." Some one must have flattered this poor man.

What promises to be a most novel and interesting affair will be the leap year dance to be given New Year's eve by the ladies of Fort Douglas. Hitherto most of these affairs have been given early in the year in order to give the girls plenty of time to follow up the suit, but this will no doubt be either a starter for the new year or a hurry-up last call sort of affair. Then, too, the men who have shown symptoms of needing a lesson or two will doubtless be treated by the absent method.

There was a very unique condition at the delightful dance early in the week, when at least ten more men were to be seen acting the part of wall flowers than there were girls to supply the demand. Never before has this condition existed, and while the men seemed to have a good time, the fact remains that they were unable to secure as many dances as they wanted, while the girls—well, they had sometimes to divide a dance into three pieces.

Think what a convenience it will be now that Uncle Sam will allow no mailing of card party invitations when prizes are offered. The long-suffering hostess will be relieved on either count. She must send her invitations by phone on the one hand, or if she mails them, she must give no prizes. A blessed relief in either case except for those who never entertain and always win at cards.

Isn't it a funny thing how a beautiful and attractive girl will go out of her way to secure for a youth the favor of a bid to a function in order, of course, that she may not slight him by accepting the escort of another chap, and then how the youth will forget to return the favor by escorting her? Perhaps you'd doubt it, but that really happened. He didn't have a good time, though.

Mrs. J. C. Hooper, whose verses are attracting the attention of her friends, read two of her poems at the Walker musicale Wednesday evening, which were greatly enjoyed—"Springtime" and "St. Mark's in Venice."

CURRENT EVENTS IN SALT LAKE SOCIETY

Lieutenant and Mrs. Gustav A. Wieser entertained a party of friends at dinner on Thursday evening, eight tables of the game being played. The house was all in green, every appointment conforming to this color scheme. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Willis Ulline and Mrs. Paul C. Potter. At the supper following the game a unique dish was enjoyed—the real Spanish chili con carne, made by the hostess herself. The prizes were won by Mrs. John S. Upham, Mrs. Buckner, Mrs. Walthall, Frank Moore, Lieutenant Huddleston and Lieutenant Ellis.

Mrs. Benner X. Smith entertained a dozen of the young girls yesterday at a luncheon at her home for Miss Katherine Baker of Everett, Wash. The table was gay with pink roses, a great silver basket of them filling the central part. Place cards with the monogram of the guest of honor were at each place. The other guests were Mrs. Leslie L. Savage, Mrs. J. J. Campbell, Miss Edna Dunn, Miss Mary Smedley, Miss Mary Moore, Miss May Kervin, Miss Minette Baer and Miss Elizabeth Niles.

Mrs. T. B. Beatty entertained again yesterday at a bridge tea at her home for her guest, Mrs. Charles Shepherd. The table was filled with the play-ers, and a number came in later for tea. Pink decorations brightened the dining room, and here Mrs. William Igleheart and Mrs. Ledyard M. Bailey poured. Prizes were won by Mrs. Will L. Ellerbeck, Mrs. William F. James, Mrs. Ellsworth Daggett and Mrs. Gilbert B. Pfoutz.

Word comes from Paris that Mrs. Leah Hill has been made a member of the Lyceum club there, a branch of the London Lyceum. The club is a splendid institution, more like the men's clubs of this country than the women's clubs. Membership to it is obtained through some journalist, work, and Mrs. Hill has been engaged in some of that work during her stay abroad. Membership carries with it residence privileges, as the club is equipped with every convenience of an up-to-date institution.

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Zane will give a dinner at the Alta club tonight to a number of friends, when their guests will be Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Newhouse, Mr. and Mrs. O. Howard, Dr. and Mrs. Union Worthington, Mr. and Mrs. Benner X. Smith, Dr. and Mrs. D. Moore Lindsay, Mrs. Arthur Bird and F. J. Fabian.

The senior dance to be given next Friday evening at the university museum building promises to be a very enjoyable affair. The patrons are, besides President and Mrs. Kingsbury, Professor and Mrs. W. M. Stewart, Professor and Mrs. F. W. Reynolds, Professor and Mrs. Vorhies and Miss Lucy Van Cott.

Cards have been issued by Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Stuart for the marriage of their daughter, Hazel, to Thomas W. Nicholl. The wedding is to take place at Sandy, Dec. 14, and the young people will be at home there after the first of the year.

Mrs. W. C. Lockington entertained Wednesday at a luncheon at her home for Mrs. C. O. Ellingwood of Boston. Covers were laid for eight, and red roses were used in the decorations. Mrs. Harry Teasdel assisted the hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. William P. Kiser will entertain a party of a dozen friends at the Orpheum tomorrow evening for their brother, Lyster Chambers, who opens tonight at that playhouse.

Mr. and Mrs. George Gastrell announce the marriage of their daughter, Lucy Horwood Gastrell, to Elmer Gardner Steiner of Seattle, by the Rev. M. A. Matthews at the First Presbyterian church, Seattle, Wash.

A recent issue of the Los Angeles Examiner has a picture of Mrs. Lulu Mayne Windsor, formerly of Salt Lake, together with a very complimentary notice in regard to her musical work.

Mrs. C. R. Pearsall will entertain at a bridge tea at her home on Tuesday.

Dr. and Mrs. W. D. Donohoe entertained a few friends at a supper Friday evening, following the theatre.

Mrs. George Savage gives two bridge teas on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week at her home on Fourth avenue.

her little daughter, Naomi Hoffman, in honor of Miss Olive Wall, who will leave for New York Monday, Dec. 14.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Leonard passed through the city Saturday from Butte en route to Los Angeles, Cal. While here they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Folsom.

The marriage of Miss Gertrude Maud Hanson and Frederick John Herman took place yesterday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Richards, 525 South Fifth East street, Rev. P. A. Simpkin officiating. The bride was attended by Miss Dot James, and M. H. Longnickle was the best man. Only a few friends and relatives were present. The young people will shortly be at home in Bingham.

Women's Clubs.

At the next meeting of the Ladies' Literary club, to be held next Friday, a unique program will be presented, consisting entirely of the work of Utah's talented people. Mrs. C. E. Richards will read a Christmas story written by Mrs. Morris L. Ritchie. Mrs. Russell Schilder will read two of her own poems. Miss Allen will read some of Mrs. Florence Allen's poems from "Patriot," and Mrs. Richards will read, with musical accompaniment by Mrs. Martha Boyle King, poems by Mrs. Frank C. Keiser and by Edwin Milton Boyce. Mrs. Plummer will sing Mrs. Thomas Weil's lullaby with a violin obligato by Mr. Skelton, Fred Graham will sing Annie Pike Greenwood's "Dream Visions" to music of Mr. McClain's composing. Mrs. Plummer will play a composition by Stagner, and Miss Edna Evans will sing one of Edward Kimball's. M. J. Brines will sing a song by Arthur Shepherd, with Squire Coop accompanying, and Mr. Coop will play another composition for the piano by Shepherd. The meeting will be the last till after the holidays.

The Woman's club will meet on Tuesday with Mrs. Thomas Pitt, when the hostess will give a talk on "Juvenile Organizations."

ORIGIN OF DANCES.

The social dance among people of refinement is traced from the year 1765, when assemblies were held in King street, St. James, London. A man named Almack had three commodious rooms which he kept in order for the first club dances spoken of in history. These dances were rather exclusive and cost a sum of money equivalent to $50 for a series of twelve, one being given each week.

The balls at Almack's made and ruled the fashion in dances from 1765 until about 1840, when they seemed to drop out of history entirely. The lady patronesses of this social institution were absolute in their rule, and an admission to the sacred portals was an entrance to good society.

In 1814 Lady Jersey became the social star of the London smart set, and so rigid were her demands that fully three-fourths of the nobility of London knocked in vain at the portals of Almack's. A stern rule also forbade the admittance of anyone after midnight, and it is related that the Duke of Wellington was once denied admittance because he came after the prescribed hour.

The first dances were Scotch reels and jigs. Introduced into continental Europe, Duchesse of Gordon. In 1815 Lady Jersey ventured to introduce the quadrille from France. Because the quadrille was danced at Almack's it became popular. The figures were intricate, and a great number of steps were essential to the correct interpretation of the new dance. The giddy habit of romping through the figures of a quadrille was utterly unknown when the dance was first introduced.

Queen Victoria in her youthful days was said to be extremely graceful in the quadrille, and held her hands in the exact position taught by the dancing masters of the time. She dropped her skirts and would chase across from side to side, each figure in its turn being danced with the same careful attention to detail, as well as with the music.

The "mazy waltz" was brought from Vienna in 1816 and danced at Almack's by a few bold spirits. Among those who waited well we find the names of Lord Palmerston and Madame de Lieven, Princess Esterhazy and Baron de Neumann. By degrees the assemblies became less fashionable, and society

Perhaps you were not at our opening display Saturday and perhaps you haven't been in at all since our holiday goods have arrived and if so we are both losers. We are not given to extravagant speech in our advertisements, except as it is required to state facts, so when we state that this season's stock far outclasses any we or any other jeweler has ever shown before in Salt Lake, we want the people to prove it by personal investigation if they intend to buy anything in our line this season, as it will be a profit to both of us. ONE PRICE, which means LOW PRICE, is known to be our standard for all buyers and good goods for the wage earner and magnificent wares for the wealthy, characterizes our stock. A Leyson box carries a splendid sentiment with the gift and costs nothing.
