

QUIET DAY FOR CALHOUN TRIAL

Attorneys Forgot to Call Each Other Names During Examination of Witnesses.

C. S. WHEELER ON STAND

ALSO A DETECTIVE WHO SHADOWED ABRAHAM REUF.

San Francisco, May 14.—Charles S. Wheeler, attorney for Rudolph Spreckels, was called to the stand by the prosecution in the trial of Patrick Calhoun today. His testimony, like that of former state James D. Phelan, who spent a day and a half on the stand during the week, was unimpressive, according to the statement was filed in District Attorney Francis J. Keenan's report of the day's proceedings. Mr. Wheeler's testimony was that Mr. Calhoun and others had conspired to obtain the franchise for the street railway from the San Francisco Board of Supervisors in 1905, in relation to the street railway franchise on Sutter street.

Under the interrogation of the board of supervisors in 1905, in relation to the street railway franchise on Sutter street, Mr. Wheeler's legal argument was that the franchise was obtained by Mr. Calhoun and others, and that the franchise was obtained by Mr. Calhoun and others, and that the franchise was obtained by Mr. Calhoun and others.

Motives of the Company.

The cross-examination was conducted by Earl Rogers, of counsel for Calhoun, and was conducted by Mr. Henry as a challenge of the motives of the company. Mr. Wheeler declared that he had taken no part in any discussion of the project until after Mr. Calhoun had intimated his intention of "trading" Market street.

Big Fire Stopped Everything.

"We fixed upon the cost of construction, the actual outlay, plus 4 per cent interest, as the price at which the city could secure the property of the corporation at any time," said Mr. Wheeler. "Then the fire came. The United Railroads procured its franchise and we did not see our way clear to going ahead. The examination earlier in the day of Robert H. Perry, one of the detectives under William J. Burns, whose business it was in 1906 to "shadow" Abraham Reuf, bore more directly on the case at hand, as Perry told of having trailed Reuf from the mint by "Trey L. Ford, general counsel for the company, was paid over to be divided among the supervisors."

MICHIGAN LUMBERMEN VISIT SALT LAKE CITY

Are on Their Way to Inspect Immense Holdings on Vancouver Island.

Salt Lake City was visited yesterday by a party of eastern men, who expressed themselves as very much impressed with the beauty of the city, and also with the enterprise shown here, the activity of building operations and the general bustle and hustle they saw. The party comprises officers, directors and stockholders in the Michigan-Pacific Lumber company as follows: E. B. Cadwell, Detroit; C. A. Phelps, Grand Rapids; Charles W. Sikes, Searsville; W. E. McKnight, Grand Rapids; Guy S. Brown, Central Lake; J. E. Beal, Ann Arbor; W. C. Brown, Lansing; Professor Filbert Roth, forestry expert of the Michigan university; Ann Arbor; Boyce Dansard, Monroe; Dr. R. J. Hyde, Eaton Rapids; Thomas F. Doyle, Lowell; George W. Morse, Grand Rapids; Charles E. McCrone, Grand Rapids; James T. McAllister, Grand Rapids; Charles L. Stacey, Toledo, O.; C. W. Newton, Toledo; A. Gilmarin, Detroit, representative of the Detroit Free Press.

"The Michigan-Pacific Lumber company," said Mr. McKnight, one of the directors of the company, "owns 11,000 acres of timber land on Vancouver island, and we decided to get up a party of the officers and stockholders, most of whom are Michigan men, and make a personal inspection of the property. It was suggested that while we were at it we might as well make the trip a general one throughout the west, so we got a special car and are taking in all the big things to be seen. We have been having a hilarious good time. We left Chicago Tuesday, got in here from Denver today, and leave tonight for Los Angeles. We are going to see the whole west before we return. We have a newspaper man along to chronicle the party and to keep our wives posted in a Michigan paper on our conduct. We are greatly pleased with Salt Lake. It's a humming good town to all appearances."

IDAHO POLITICS NOW A DELICATE SUBJECT

Manse Coffin of Boise Proves to Be a Clever Ducker and Sidestepper.

Manse Coffin of Boise, Ida., is registered at the Cullen hotel. He came down for a short visit with his brother, Ed. C. Coffin, superintendent of the Lower Main-moist mine in the Tintic district, and is now spending a few days here. He is one of the solid Republicans of Idaho and is one of the kind who won't squeal no matter how muzzed up the party's organization is in his state.
