

DREW BLANKS IN LOTTERY OF LIFE

Madeline Herwick and Elizabeth Booth Awarded Decrees of Divorce.

Judge M. L. Ritchie presided at a rather uneventful divorce matinee yesterday afternoon and granted two divorces to wives one of whom had been deserted and the other not supported properly.

The remainder of the afternoon was taken up with the application of Rosetta J. Brown to compel her husband, Oscar D. Brown, to pay temporary alimony. Madeline E. Herwick, a buxom young woman, testified that her husband, Fred Herwick, had only lived with her a week after they came to Salt Lake from Glenwood Springs, where they were married February 8, 1908. When he left her he went back to Colorado Springs, and she believed he was still in the state of Colorado. She has been earning her own living by working for the Merchants' Protective association. She has heard of her husband was at Shoshone, Garfield county, Colorado. Her story was corroborated by Clara Olsor, who is a clerk in the justice's office, and an intercountry decree was granted without trimmings, except that she may resume her maiden name of Madeline E. Herwick.

Mrs. Elizabeth Ann Booth obtained a decree of divorce from Christopher S. Booth, who works for the Rock Mountain Bell Telephone company, on the showing that he has not supported his family for three years. With the decree goes the home at 222 Fourth avenue and $2 a month for support of the son, now 12 years of age.

Mrs. Rosetta J. Brown told the court that her husband had not paid her any money since she had filed suit for divorce, and that it would take at least a month to support herself and daughter properly. She was compelled to admit, however, that Oscar Brown, who is a clerk in the justice's office, had paid all the bills, including rent, dentists and doctors, and had given money to the daughter. Judge Ritchie took the case under advisement.

These Want to Be Freed. Two wives applied to the district court for divorce Friday, and both charge desertion, drunkenness and non-support. Lisle Woodhaye, the first of these, says her husband, Ed. W. Woodhaye, deserted her in November, 1907. She was married to him in Denver, Colo., February 16, 1902. For the past six years, she has been an habitual drunkard, and that his idleness and dissipation have led to failure to provide for his family of herself and three children, two boys, aged 12 and 9 years, and a girl of 6 years. She asks for the custody of the children and reasonable alimony.

Verona Denison says that her husband, Owen, deserted her about a week ago, but has not provided for her for eighteen months because of his habits of drunkenness. They were married in Salt Lake, June 1, 1903, and have no children. She asks for restoration of her maiden name of Verula J. Martin.

HAZARD TELLS WHY HE CHASTISED MR. SMITH

W. R. Smith failed to carry out his announced intention of swearing out a complaint against Thomas Hazard, who administered a beating to him Wednesday night. In telling his story to the police Thursday Smith made several statements which Hazard says were untrue. According to Hazard, Smith made a remark reflecting on Mrs. Hazard's character. This was repeated by a boy who went to Smith's room at 323 South West Temple, pulled him out of bed and chastised him with a wooden weapon. Hazard declares that the statement that he flourished a gun is untrue. He also denies the statement that he is separated from his wife, but asserts, on the contrary, that they have never had any trouble and are living together happily at the present time.

BRILLIANT YOUNG HORSEWOMAN WILL RIDE IN WILD WEST SHOW

MISS LILLIE NICHOLSON.

Miss Lillie Nicholson from Fort Collins, Colo., will be present to ride in the ladies' class at the Wild West show next week. Though young in years she is an old hand in the saddle. Mrs. Clayton Danks of Cheyenne beat her at the latter city last year for the championship of the world, but the race was most exciting and the pretty little girl from Fort Collins made the champion do some of the fastest riding that was ever seen at any tournament. The Denver Post has this to say of the close event: "When a young lady is gritty, as well as pretty, she wins the crowd, and Miss Nicholson has always been the favorite in this race. Mrs. Danks made a runaway race of the first heat, with Mrs. Clayton close behind her. Miss Nicholson could not keep up the pace and was forced to drop back. "Miss Franklin of Denver failed to enter the final heats of the race. Last to finish the first half-mile, Miss Nicholson added like a flash and was off close behind Mrs. Danks, and the two women raced around the track like a pair of jockeys, both bending low in the saddle and whipping from the head of the stretch to the wire, finishing the second half-mile close together. Then the girl from Fort Collins earned a tremendous ovation by beating Mrs. Danks away from the wire, and established such a lead that the champion could not catch her, though she rode as few women can ride, and never stopped trying. As Miss Nicholson rode past the stand fifty yards in front of the champion, the cheering and yelling paid tribute to her popularity. She had been beaten in every heat but one, and when she won at last her friends cheered themselves black in the face."

COW PUNCHERS HAVE LETTER-WRITING HABIT IN AGGRAVATED FORM

Jim Leary says that he can read the cowboy letters that keep coming in to him even if no one else can. C. W. Hirsig, who arrived in the city yesterday, has now relieved Ralph Bittinger of his job as stenographer and confidential correspondent. Ralph says he can translate the letters all right if he can find the key to them, but up to the present the cowpunchers have not sent on the key. Hirsig, who is one of the managers of the Cheyenne outfit, says he can make out the letters because he knows what they want to say, but can't. He started in on the following bunch yesterday as soon as he took charge of the job: "Sined, Colorado, 22—Dear Jim: Doggie snider and anagletooth Charley wuz bear from the dollar mark sunday & sent cut her this time but will let us go as his reps. we cant bring no bosses account we got no meens to ride so far but will try for to ride enything you got their for us. respectful "JACOB ROBERTS (pinnacle Jake)." "HOT WATER PECK."

W. Sonnedecker and C. M. Nielsen, attorneys, and George S. Gibbs. It is not probable that any choice will be made of a successor to Judge E. G. Gowans until after the national encampment of the G. A. R. and as yet none of the applicants has been considered. Judge Gowans will preside over the court for one and perhaps two sessions yet before he leaves for the coast to look into the management of reformatory institutions there, preliminary to assuming the superintendency of the state industrial school at Ogden.

SIX CANDIDATES IN JUVENILE COURT RACE

Besides Major M. A. Eredren, who seems to think he has first call, there are five applicants for the juvenile court judgeship. These are J. Fred Anderson, a former probation officer and school teacher; H. T. Tanner, deputy county clerk; N. W. Sonnedecker and C. M. Nielsen, attorneys, and George S. Gibbs. It is not probable that any choice will be made of a successor to Judge E. G. Gowans until after the national encampment of the G. A. R. and as yet none of the applicants has been considered. Judge Gowans will preside over the court for one and perhaps two sessions yet before he leaves for the coast to look into the management of reformatory institutions there, preliminary to assuming the superintendency of the state industrial school at Ogden.

PROVO NEWS NOTES. (Special to The Herald.) Provo, Aug. 6.—James F. Bean is at the Provo general hospital, where he has undergone a successful operation for appendicitis. Manager Celarstrom, of the Utah Black Marble company, has gone to San Francisco to place some of the company's product. The marble quarries are on the west side of Utah lake. John Folland of the Second ward, who is 62 years of age, suffered a broken hip yesterday while leaving a D. & R. G. train which was pulling out for Salt Lake. He had gone on the train with friends before he left it. He was thrown to the ground. Drs. Robinson and Aird reduced the fracture and the patient is in a fair way to recover. He was accompanied by his little niece, who escaped without injury. A farewell service will be given by Rev. Charles S. Malley of the Baptist church Sunday forenoon at 11 o'clock. Mr. Smalley has been in charge of the Baptist church here for some time and has made many friends. He goes to Wilmington, Del. Union services will be held in the Baptist church Sunday evening at 8 o'clock. Rev. Mr. Moore of the M. E. church will preach.
