

CHICAGO GRAND JURIES PACKED

Bench Warrants Issued for the Commissioners on Charge of Conspiracy.

CLEANING UP IS PROMISED

COMMENT ON THE MATTER BY THE STATE'S ATTORNEY.

Chicago, Sept. 18.—Bench warrants were issued today by Judge Jesse A. Baldwin of the circuit court for John J. Holland, member and secretary of the Cook county jury commission; Nicholas A. Martin, secretary to Alderman Kenna of the first ward; and Willis J. Rayburn, real estate man.

The charge against the three is that they conspired to draw names of grand jurors in a manner other than that required by law.

Coming at the height of the trial of Inspector McCann for alleged grafting, the news of the action based on alleged tampering with the jury lists caused great excitement in legal and political circles. The complaints on which the warrants were issued were drawn up by a special agent of the state's attorney's office, who has been investigating the jury drawing methods for weeks.

Reforms Promised. Commenting on the issuance of the warrants and the cause of the drastic action, State's Attorney Wayman said today:

"We propose to throw the light on the darkest hole in Cook county and clean out the jury commissioners' room, which is rotten."

"We have been working on this for several months, and when the evidence is produced there will be a complete reformation in the manner of selecting juries in Cook county."

Rayburn was the first of the three arrested and was shortly afterward released on bonds.

Provisions of the Law.

Under the state law the names of prospective grand jurors are selected at random from a sealed box containing the names of 1,500 citizens who have been examined for jury service by the jury commissioners and their fitness certified. A similar method is prescribed for petit jury lists.

The three accused men are alleged to have substituted other names for those drawn in the regular manner.

portion of the vast amount of valuable lumber within the enclosure of flames.

The lumber was packed in long rows, and as the fire reached its height it made of these great volumes of smoke and heat a furnace, through which it would have been certain death to have attempted to drag a hose. And so the firemen were compelled to fight from the exterior.

Their faces blackened and their eyes bloodshot from the heat and cinders, the fire ladders faced the solid wall of red flame for two hours, steadily encroaching on the territory of the flames. As each charred and blackened lumber pile was rescued from further ravaging of the flames, it was speedily torn apart and the smoldering fire within it entirely extinguished. In this way the firemen made slight progress, and when night had fallen they had confined the fire to the central yard, where numerous piles of lumber continued alternately to blaze and smoulder, sending off great black clouds of smoke, which blinded and choked the gallant fighters.

Several hundred tons of coal, owned by the lumber company, soon caught fire and gave off so intense a degree of heat that the firemen were further handicapped in the fight in that quarter. Water thrown on this mass of fuel served merely to increase the rage of the flames, which leaped higher under the deluge.

Luckily, most of the office furniture and all the fixtures of the drug stores and grocery stores in the bottom floors of the lumber company's buildings were rescued before the fire reached them. These were piled about the street in confusion, completely blocking the roadways.

Sheriff Protects Public.

Sheriff Sharp and his deputies were on the scene, and had long lines of rope stretched within half an hour after the fire started. The crowds, which were large, hundreds of people from the city surrounding the great volumes of smoke having gone to the scene in autos and by trolley, were kept back from the fire by the intense heat which was extremely uncomfortable even at a distance of several hundred yards. Within the fire lines where the light raged, the heat was such as to blister the faces of many of the firemen and those who volunteered in the rescuing of fixtures.

Most of the firemen and the apparatus were kept on the scene all the night through, and three streams of water played a tattoo on the blackened ruins until daylight. Today the steamer will continue to pump and, in the opinion of Chief Glorv, the fire will smoulder under the great masses of charred lumber for several days to come.

are: President, D. F. Free; vice president, J. E. Jensen; secretary, D. A. Dickson, treasurer and manager, N. J. Hansen. The last named officer was at the scene of the fire immediately after it started. Toward the end of the fight, when the flames were well under control, he ventured an estimate of between $30,000 and $100,000 as a possible figure to cover the total loss, although he admitted that it might go much over that.

According to the latest report of Dunn's, the company's assets are placed at about $125,000. The real estate and improvements were listed at $40,000, and the stock at a similar amount.

Of the entire amount only about $15,000 was covered by insurance. This much was carried by the Home Fire, the New York Fire and the Mutual in equal divisions. The uninsured loss of the company will go over $75,000.

HIS WELCOME IS MOST CORDIAL ONE

St. Paul and after a brief stop at the Town and Country club motored direct into the city, where the president was met by a three-hour motorcade starting from the stage of the St. Paul auditorium.

When the luncheon had been concluded the temporary partitions separating the stage from the main body of the auditorium were lifted and the president faced an audience which filled the building. As the president had assembled during the luncheon each person had been presented with the small American flag, and when the president turned toward his seat at the guests' table he looked into a waving field of colors.

After a brief speech the president was driven to the state capitol, where it had been intended that a public reception should be held. This feature was called off on account of the president's illness and the president appeared for only a few minutes on the south balcony to express his gratitude to a great crowd gathered on the terraced lawn for its cordial greeting.

Tendered a Banquet.

The president was then driven back to Minneapolis and retired to his rooms for a short rest before starting for the banquet tendered him tonight at the Minneapolis auditorium.

During the day the president made no reference to the tariff. Among those who received him, politicians and business men alike, the Winona speech of last night, in which the president made clear his position with reference to the Payne bill and those members of the Republican caucus, Senator Nelson, was not the measure, was the chief topic of discussion.

His speech evidently made a deep impression in this section, and representatives of both the insurgents and "stand-patters" in this center of insurgency were taken somewhat aback by the thoroughness of the president's statement.

The fact that Mr. Taft waited until he got into "insurgent" territory before saying what he had to say of those senators and representatives who "abandoned their party" in the tariff fight, shared largely in the impression of earnestness left by the speech.

Tawney in Celebration.

Representative James A. Tawney of Minnesota, whose course in voting for the tariff bill was upheld by the president, participated in the Twin Cities entertainment today.

Senator Clapp of this state was constantly with the president during the day and in introducing Mr. Taft at the St. Paul auditorium referred to him not only as the president, but as "the foremost citizen of the country." Senator Clapp's colleague, Senator Nelson, was not in the city to attend the day's functions. Frank B. Kellogg served on the reception committee.

In his address at the St. Paul auditorium the president said: "I cannot begin my remarks to you until I have expressed how touched I am by the message of welcome from your stricken governor. That he, on a bed of pain, should remember to give welcome to me carried me back to the many times I have been my good fortune to meet him—several times on the soil of Minnesota—and always to receive from his smiling, delightful personality a sense of sincere welcome to the state that loves him so well."

"I unite with you in a fervent prayer to God that he may be spared to you and to the country. With his ability, with his courage and with his great common sense, he cannot be spared. He is too valuable, not alone to the people of the state, but to those of the nation, who doubtless will insist in time that he shall serve them."

"And, now, friends, I do not feel altogether a stranger to an audience in this magnificent structure in St. Paul, for I remember that under the kindly favor of the distinguished archbishop of St. Paul, although I was suffering somewhat from an over-festival at Minneapolis, I was enabled to express to you some two years ago my gratitude for your then cordial reception."

"When we entered upon this scene, and there was nothing before us but the old flag, I had borne in upon me what this greeting means. It seems that you have seized the opportunity of the coming of the titular head of your country to express to him your welcome, the deep feeling of patriotism and pride your nation that you have and are only too glad to manifest it when opportunity offers. I understand it. I think whenever I meet children and they are out with flags to cheer me that it is a good thing to have them see me for a moment, because they always will recollect seeing the temporary head of the nation, and it always will arouse in them the thought, the obligation to become patriots and good citizens."

I take out all personality. It is the office, it is the leadership of the nation; it is the spirit of the nation; it is something that ought to warm every heart in order that it may continue to be the guide of his conduct and the inspiration of his life.

The Twin Cities.

"Now, my friends, another thought that comes over one when he visits these two beautiful cities and who sees how much the Lord has done for you in the way of natural beauty is that you ought to unite. You are not really St. Paul and Minneapolis. You are the twin cities, with the borough of St. Paul and the borough of Minneapolis. I can remember twenty years ago, when I was solicitor general and acting attorney general, that the census was taken, and there was at that time no overwhelming indications of the two cities to come together.

But you have gotten all over that. St. Paul is proud of the consciousness of being the more beautiful, and Minneapolis, said the president, pausing to let a great wave of laughter subside, "has a great many other commendable qualities."

"Apparently you do not believe in having the youngest men build up your city. You take men of middle life and bring them out here, and you infuse into them a spirit that makes them young again and they become the old actors of Minneapolis and St. Paul."

"My friends, I am beginning a long tour—13,000 miles. I am going around to see what is in this country anyhow. I am going to convince the country, if I can, that I have no qualms to meet all the dangers to which a man may be exposed by way of train travel and digestion. But I have another audience to meet in another auditorium in this city, but in another borough tonight, and I have to think up something to say, perhaps a little more specific about the civic virtues of the borough of Minneapolis than I have time to do under the circumstances here."

"But I hope, joking aside, my friends, that you will not mistake my deep gratitude for your expression of welcome, and that I shall treasure the memory of this night—Dear Old Glory advanced as a welcome—my whole life long."

the members of the children's committee, which is composed of Dr. J. T. Kingsbury, A. C. Nelson, state superintendent of public instruction, S. M. Barlow, chief of police; Principals George A. Eaton and H. B. Folson, Supervisors John S. Welsh and William A. Wetzel, Superintendents R. W. Ashton, G. M. Mumford and John Hansen, Jr., Captain Joseph E. Caine, Captain William C. Webb, Dr. John A. Whitson of the state Agricultural college, Alma C. Clayton, treasurer officer, and George D. Pyper.

Thousands of Children.

Superintendent Christensen said he expected the gathering of school children for the grand review by the president next Sunday to be the largest ever held in the state, estimating the number at from 15,000 to 20,000. The committee will get reports from the various public and private schools and other institutions which are to participate, on the number which they will have, and space will be reserved in Brigham street for those who are to participate. The "living flag" will be an important feature.

Senator Smoot called attention to the plans for the presentation to the president by residents of the city of the painting of the Augusta national bridge, in San Juan county, by Artist H. L. A. Culver, and said that the picture should accompany it, so that the nature of the painting should be known to persons seeing it in the White House or wherever it may hang. The inscription suggested is as follows:

"The great Augusta bridge, San Juan county, Utah; span, 320 feet; height, 265 feet; width of causeway, thirty feet, being far the largest natural bridge in the world. Its splendid lines and stupendous proportions make it one of the wonders of the world. Became a national monument by proclamation of President Roosevelt. Presented to Honorable William H. Taft by the citizens of Utah at Salt Lake City, Sept. 25, 1909. Painted by H. L. A. Culver of Salt Lake City."

The matter of the proper time and occasion for the presentation of the painting to the president was taken up, and it was decided to have the presentation made at the Liberty park celebration on Saturday afternoon.

The question of the decoration of the tabernacle, where an organ recital will be given on Saturday and an address by the president delivered on Sunday was taken up, and it was reported by Senator Smoot that the auditorium would be decorated in an appropriate manner with bunting and flags, and it is proposed to have a picture of the president underneath the large star on the front of the organ. Dr. G. B. Pfoutz reported briefly on the plan for street decoration, saying that it is intended to have national flags and the High School flag, and that the decorations of the grand stand to be erected also will be carried out by the committee.

Brief reports also were presented by W. S. McCormick, chairman of the finance committee; C. W. Whitley, on the plans for the visit of the president to the Country club Friday afternoon, for a luncheon and to witness a game of golf, and to the Alta club Friday night, and by George N. Lawrence, for the program to be followed at the University club Friday night.

E. A. Wedgwood, adjutant general, announced that a portion of the Utah national guard and the High School cadets, with their band, will be at the Rio Grande depot to receive the president on his arrival Friday afternoon, and at Liberty park, as well as on the departure of the president from the Short Line depot Sunday.

D. E. Burley made a report for the transportation committee, in the absence of Chairman D. C. Jackling of the committee, and reported that the ten automobiles which will be used for the president and party and the escort in going over the route, will be occupied as follows:

Car No. 1—President Taft, Governor Spry, Captain Archibald W. E. Hitt, U. S. A., and James Sloan, Jr., special agent.

Car No. 2—To be occupied by government special agents.

Car No. 3—Charles C. Wagner, stenographer; Joseph E. Murphy and four local committeemen.

BIG FIRE USED AS ARGUMENT

Sugar House Folks Who Want Annexation Say "I Told You So."

Saturday's fire in the Sugar House district brought home to the minds of residents of that neighborhood several movements which have been started by persons having extensive interests in the district, looking towards annexation of Sugar House to the city of Salt Lake. The fire was the second one of a serious nature which Sugar had suffered within the last six weeks, the residence of Mrs. Williams, east of Eleventh East street, having been burned out recently.

Those who have advocated annexation recently contend that the fact that the community is growing steadily is a reason why annexation should be sought. They say that Saturday's fire showed the existence of a deplorable state of affairs, so far as protection for the district against fire is concerned. It having been found impossible to get an adequate water supply, the district in the neighborhood of the fire, which is a very populous one, is said to be especially populous and in need of greater protection.

Car No. 10—Mayor and city council.

One car will be placed at the disposal of the president's messenger during his stay here, and two seven-seated cars at the disposal of the chief of police.

Music for Reception.

Professor J. J. McClellan, chairman of the music committee for the Taft reception, announced that the Fifteenth Infantry band of Fort Douglas will meet the president Friday afternoon and escort him to the fort, serenading him while he remains there. During the breakfast at the Commercial club Saturday morning, the Orpheus club of this city, under the direction of Alfred H. Peabody, and the Graham male quartet will be heard in several selections. At 10 o'clock the president will hear an organ recital at the tabernacle, where Organist McClellan will officiate; Mrs. Emma Ramsey Morris, soprano, and Professor Willard Welch, violinist, assisting. This recital will be strictly private.

The Fifteenth Infantry band and the High School band will alternate in selections during the Liberty park program Saturday afternoon. The Ladies' G. A. R. band will serenade President Taft at the Knutsford hotel from 5:30 to 6:30, and will escort him to the University club at 6:45. There held's band will serenade the president, and the Ohio and Yale people from 6:45 to 8, when the band will escort the president to the Alta club and play there until 8:30.

The monster band of 100 members of the local union of the American Federation of Musicians, under Professor Anton Pederson, will serenade President Taft at the Knutsford hotel at 8:15 a. m. Sunday, and at 8:45 will escort him to the tabernacle. The musicians who will compose the great band tender their services as a complimentary to Senators Smoot and Sutherland and Congressmen Howell for their services in behalf of the American Federation of Musicians in congress.

At 9 a. m. Sunday the Tabernacle choir, Evan Stephens, leader; Professor McClellan, organist; assisted by Mrs. Anna Colburn Plummer, soprano, and the big band of the Musicians' union, will give a notable program at the tabernacle. The big band will play when the president leaves to review the school children, and will then go to the Oregon Short Line depot, where it will play when the president leaves the city.

ST. MARY'S ACADEMY.

The second week of school has closed with very satisfactory results. The number of students is steadily increasing, the new girls are readily adapting themselves to the rules and regulations and there is every promise of a pleasant and successful year.

The athletic spirit of former years seems to have been strengthened during the vacation, this fact being plainly shown in the prompt organization of basketball and tennis clubs.

Among the preparatory classes, nature study seems to be a favorite subject, and specimens are adding daily to an interesting collection. During the past week the roof of the academy building has been converted into an observatory by the astronomy class and many pleasant as well as instructive hours have been spent there.

"The wise man" of the town had been to San Francisco about a week before Sothern was booked to appear at the theatre, and on his return he told the good people of the town that it was considered very bad form by actors to have people laugh at them, no matter how

If It Disappears, It's Eczema

How to Tell Whether a Skin Affection is an Inherited Blood Disease or Not.

Sometimes it is hard to determine whether a skin affection is a sign of a blood disorder or simply a form of eczema. Even physicians are often puzzled in their diagnosis. The best way for any one afflicted is to go to the F. J. Hill Drug Co., or any good druggist who handles pure drugs and obtain 50 cents' worth of poslam. Apply this, and if the itching stops at once and the trouble is cured in a few days it may be set down as having been eczema, as this is the way poslam acts in the worst cases of eczema, and in curing acne, herpes, blotches, tetters, piles, salt rheum, rash, barber's and other forms of itchy, scaly scalp, and all surface skin affections.

Any one who will write to the Emergency Laboratories, No. 32 West Twenty-fifth street, New York, can secure, by mail free of charge, a supply sufficient to cure a small eczema surface or clear a complexion overnight and remove pimples in twenty-four hours.

comical they were. They took it very seriously, and as the evening of the attraction grew near they resolved more and more firmly not to laugh at anything he might do or say.

Sothern was particularly funny that night, and was very much surprised that he did not get any shouts of approval from the audience. Between the first and second acts he even went so far as to call down his associates for what he thought must have been their lack of spirit in the piece. Try as hard as he would in the next act, however, he could get nothing out of the audience.

"Satisfied," replied Sothern. "Why, I haven't had a laugh this evening."

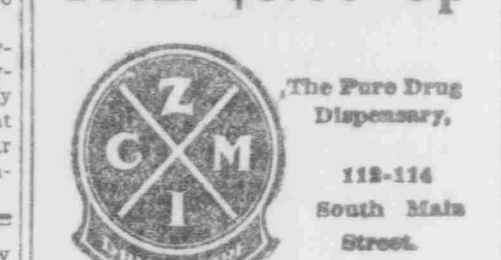

"You bet your life you haven't," replied the manager, hotly. "We caught
