

WINNING REPUBLICAN TICKET FOR SALT LAKE IS NAMED

ions and platform, was on his way, and the convention waited. In the meantime a motion was carried empowering the central committee to empower to fill any vacancies that might occur on the city ticket.

Change in Platform.

H. P. Myton moved that the words "and county attorney" be inserted after the word "sheriff." This brought forth a storm of protest from all parts of the theater.

Harry Joseph suggested that the paragraph read "Republican officials," so as to include Justice Stanley A. Hanks. Fred Price said that the county commissioners should be included in the resolution for their active support for the sheriff.

The change was finally accepted by the committee on resolutions to read "Republican officials," and with this change the platform was accepted unanimously.

James Devine, in nominating James D. Murdoch, said: "At the request of a large number of delegates I will present the name of the next mayor of Salt Lake. After looking the field over and after all the promises have been made, we are looking, we will remove all anxiety today by presenting the name of a man whom we all recognize as a winner."

"The man whose name I present is an old resident of Utah and has lived in the state for thirty years and in Salt Lake for nine or ten years. Another qualification of the man whom I shall name is that he has served the people with ability which has won the plaudits and appreciation of political opponents as well as friends. The man nominated for mayor in this place yesterday appreciates the services of this gentleman when called on to save him from the mistakes of his own party."

"Such a man needs no introduction. I feel sure that the citizens of Salt Lake are only waiting for the opportunity to place in the mayor's office James D. Murdoch."

Here Mr. Devine's voice was lost in a storm of applause and cheers which lasted several minutes. Everyone knew James D. Murdoch, present city councilman for the First ward and nominee for the long term to the council, was the man named by Mr. Devine, although even those sitting near could not hear the name for the applause.

Nomination Is Seconded.
Mr. Murdoch's name was seconded by the Ninth district, and other seconds came thick and fast. H. S. Joseph, in seconding the nomination of Mr. Murdoch, said that he was a man who, as mayor, would uphold the laws and ordinances of Salt Lake more than did the mayor who, according to the official organ of the American party, was "forced to take an automobile back in the line in the President's escort and sit with Harry Joseph and men of his class."

"I want to say," said Mr. Joseph, "that James D. Murdoch, the man whose name I take pleasure in seconding, would not make such breaks as that." J. J. Greenwald said he had known Mr. Murdoch since thirty years ago in Summit county. Then, he said, Mr. Murdoch did not have a dollar, but since then he had accomplished with honor everything he had undertaken. He said there never had been a word against Mr. Murdoch in public or private life. "I'm glad for once in my life I can stand on some point with Mr. Devine, in seconding the nomination of Mr. Murdoch. I move that the rules be suspended and that James D. Murdoch be nominated by acclamation."

There were other seconds to the nomination as the motion was put, and amid another storm of applause the nomination was made without a dissenting vote.

Mr. Murdoch responded to calls for a speech and after he was introduced as "the next mayor of Salt Lake" he said: "I would like to say it afforded me great pleasure to speak to you on this occasion, but public speaking is entirely out of my attitude. If it should turn out that I am not successful in this, I shall return to the nick where I belong and do the best I can there. In every position I have occupied I have always tried to do my best, and if elected mayor I will try to carry that same principle."

There was another enthusiastic outburst of applause as Mr. Murdoch took his seat.

Recorder Is Named.

When nominations for recorder were called, J. J. Greenwald presented H. P. Myton, saying he was a man who had been found always in the Republican ranks and had stood up for Republicanism when it meant a sacrifice to do so. Major Myton's name was seconded by several delegates. Carl A. Badger nominated W. P. Pratt, saying the Third district wanted to present a young man, born and reared in Salt Lake, who was well qualified for the position and who was held in good will and esteem by a host of friends.

A. H. Steele seconded the nomination of Major Myton, as did H. S. Joseph, Fred Price and J. J. Greenwald, and the Fourth district seconded the nomination of Mr. Pratt. Balloting had proceeded to the Tenth district when Mr. Pratt withdrew and moved that rules be suspended and Major Myton be nominated by acclamation. The motion was carried.

J. Parley White presented the name of J. A. Edwards, saying he was well qualified for the position, and he believed that at least 50 per cent of the voters forgot party affiliations when they cast their ballots—simply supporting the best man. Mr. Edwards, he said, would be a man who would draw this vote, as his competency and integrity had been fully demonstrated. In this most excellent selection, Mr. White called attention to the fact that it would not be necessary to go outside the party to find the right man.

He said he had not consulted Mr. Edwards regarding the nomination, but he knew that his candidate always placed public duty above private business, and for assurance that Mr. Edwards would accept the nomination.

Jesse Cannon Named.
Harry S. Joseph nominated Jesse Cannon, saying he was presenting the name of a young man who was one of the staunchest Republicans, and a man whom any citizen could go to the auditor's office any day and get a definite and complete statement of the affairs under his administration.

Fred Price, for the Second district, said he would present the name of a man well known as a staunch Republican worker and a man on whom the whole convention could agree. This man, he said, was J. Meyer.

Carl A. Badger made the next nomination, saying he had been asked by the old soldiers of J. B. McKean post of the Grand Army to nominate G. W. A. Schmelz. He said Mr. Schmelz had served the country well and in Salt Lake his worth had been recognized.

J. J. Greenwald seconded this nomination, saying he approved the plan of putting a good Grand Army man against Rudolph Alf. Mr. Schmelz's name was withdrawn at his request. Major A. A. Eresford, former attorney general, seconded the nomination of J. A. Edwards, saying he had been associated with Mr. Edwards during his term of office, knowing him intimately in the work and from this knowledge he was sure that no better selection could be made.

Balloting started with Jesse Cannon, J. A. Edwards and J. J. Meyer. Mr. Cannon withdrew before the balloting was completed and the final count was 292½ to 24½, with Mr. Edwards leading. On Mr. Meyer, the nomination of J. A. Edwards was made unanimous.

A. H. Peabody was the only man nominated for treasurer and his name went by acclamation, the vote being accompanied by a round of enthusiastic applause.

"I desire to name for city treasurer, A. H. Peabody, a man who needs no introduction to the business men and citizens of Salt Lake," said C. S. Patterson. "He was for many years a leading officer of the Commercial National bank and is now vice president of the Merchants' bank of Salt Lake. He is a man of exceptional qualifications and there is no question of his staunch Republicanism, and even less of his personal integrity. At the time when Mr. Edwards was nominated, he remained a staunch Republican and he has stayed with the party through thick and thin. I should think that matter how many may be presented, there can be no better man than A. H. Peabody."

City Attorney Nominated.

The name of I. E. Willey was placed in nomination for city attorney by Glen Richards to the business men and citizens of Salt Lake. He was a capable lawyer of established reputation, graduated from the University of Utah and Columbian University of Washington. Seconds to this nomination were made by Andrew W. Brown, J. B. Joseph, and Mr. Willey was nominated by acclamation.

The convention adopted the eagle surmounting the bee hive as the party emblem.

ORGANIZATION EFFECTED AT MORNING SESSION

Organization of the Republican city convention was effected yesterday morning at the Salt Lake theatre at an enthusiastic meeting at which the committees took charge and the committees on resolutions, order of business and credentials were confirmed as named in the various ward conventions.

Although all of the delegates were not present at the short session, the names of James Devine, city chairman, and C. Edwards, vice chairman; Karl D. Hardy, secretary and Axel H. Steele, sergeant-at-arms.

The convention was called to order by James Devine, city chairman, shortly after 10 o'clock and the call for the convention was read by Parley Jensen, secretary, before the temporary officers were called to the platform. H. C. Edwards, temporary chairman, delivered a short speech, calling on the delegates to pick the best of the excellent Republican timber for the various offices, saying that the success of the Republican ticket was assured and the time had come when it was imperative that the affairs of Salt Lake be governed in a businesslike manner by the most representative citizens.

Mr. Edwards said: "Ladies and gentlemen—We have met here this morning to elect our city officers. It is my belief that good work which was started in the ward conventions last night, will be carried on by us here this morning and noted the names of the men who were nominated for the council in the various ward conventions. The Republicans did well and we would have had to look far to have picked better men than those on the list nominated last night."

"This city is becoming what it is destined to become—a greater Salt Lake, and the time has arrived when it is most proper that the affairs of Salt Lake should be carried on by its most representative citizens. I believe the men nominated last night will be the men who will make us proud to have the best city government in the west and today you will meet here to name the successful ticket for the next city election. The time has come when it is not necessary to call the attention of the American citizen to the needs of the city or to the fact that the public servant is only the business agent of the people. The citizens of the state of Utah and of the city of Salt Lake are well informed of what the present city administration has done. They have seen recorded in the daily press the acts of commission and the acts of omission. It is not necessary for me to say that the affairs of the city need a change in administration and we are the people to make that change."

An Imperative Duty.

"I feel that we have an imperative duty to perform and I feel that when any man is an important factor in politics it behooves him to pick out of a good lot of timber the very best there is in it and in this convention I know that you will pick that timber that we will be proud of when we see it at the head of our ticket. W. S. Higham, fifth ward, Karl D. Hardy, fifth ward, William W. McCrea, fourth ward, and J. J. Greenwald, fourth ward, were ratified by the various wards were ratified by the convention and a recess was taken until 2 o'clock.

On Resolutions—First ward, Carl A. Badger; Second ward, B. Cannon; Third ward, W. B. Booth; Fourth ward, A. R. Barnes and R. R. Anderson; Fifth ward, William W. McCrea.

On Credentials—First ward, Miss Joanna Melton; Second ward, J. J. Meyer; third ward, J. B. Joseph; fourth ward, John James and M. L. Cummings; Fifth ward, J. A. Edwards.

On Order of Business—First ward, Raymond Sertson; Second ward, J. J. Greenwald; Third ward, William W. Williams; Fourth ward, J. B. Joseph; Fifth ward, W. S. Higham; Fifth ward, Karl D. Hardy.

REPUBLICANS TO OPEN QUARTERS

City Committee Will Meet Friday Night in Judge Armstrong's Courtroom.

The Republican city committee will meet next Friday evening in Judge Armstrong's courtroom, in the city and county building, to organize for the fall campaign. A chairman and secretary will be elected to succeed James H. Devine and C. Edwards, respectively of the present city committee.

One of the important matters to come before the city committee will be the selection of headquarters for the committee during the fall campaign. Among the locations suggested are the building formerly occupied by the Intermountain Republican and the headquarters of the Young Men's Republican club in the Atlantic building.

With the Republican city committee tomorrow evening the Republican city candidates and other prominent Republicans will meet. Details of the campaign will be discussed and arrangements made for a vigorous support of the Republican ticket.

The members of the ward committee of the First ward will also meet in Judge Armstrong's court tomorrow evening to select a candidate for city council, to succeed J. D. Murdoch, who has been nominated for mayor. Mr. Murdoch will probably send his resignation as candidate for council to the city committee or he will be elected by the Republican and Citizens parties today.

GODMAN JOINS DOWN AND OUTS

Council Backs Auditor in Removing City License Collector.

Samuel I. Godman is no longer license collector. At the meeting of the city council last night every one of the eleven councilmen present voted to stand back of Auditor J. B. McKean in removing his deputy because Godman was mixed up in some trouble with his former wife, for which he was arrested.

As a result of that dismissal, it is probable that the license department will be made a separate branch of the city administration and the office to be filled by the mayor. Members of the council feel that Alf doesn't run his own department and will take a position in the city to have the license department out of his hands. For this reason the appointment of Frank B. Kibben by Mr. Alf, to fill Godman's place, was held up by the council and will be discussed in committee.

It is probable the license committee will have the city attorney draft a new ordinance creating the license department, and will take it away from Mr. Alf. The matter will come up at the committee meeting tonight.

TAFT TO VISIT BIG FAIR AT SEATTLE TODAY

sweetheart at North Yakima. She is Mrs. Betty Hoiges, formerly Miss Betty Evans. Mr. Taft was best man at her wedding. The President told of the meeting in the course of his speech.

In his Yakima address the President also took occasion to pay a tribute to Senator Wesley L. Jones of Washington, who joined the party at Spokane yesterday. Governor H. C. Steuneger of Washington, in introducing the President, declared that it was through him that the Pacific coast had received its national cabinet, and for vice president in 1912 he "placed in nomination the Hon. Wesley Jones."

"In nominating Senator Jones for a place on the ticket," said the president, "I do not see why Governor Hay should not name him for the presidency, for you are not in the habit of taking a back seat out here. You only want the best. Whenever you elect a president, you are counted upon to do the right thing at the right time, and that, too, without any brass bands or fireworks. If you are doing it, if you nominate him for the presidency I shall be glad to go before you and give you my knowledge of his worth and ability, as I am doing here. I thought I would go the governor one better and give you my own."

In the throng that greeted the President at the court house were a large number of Grand Army veterans and members of the Woman's Relief corps.

Grand Army Men.
"I am honored by the presence of the Grand Army men," said the President, "and by the ladies, who, while they do not wear uniforms, are in the presence of the Woman's Relief corps. I have had the pleasure of meeting Grand Army men at many places on this trip, and it is most gratifying to have back the memories of the time when it cost blood and courage to meet the issues of the day and save the country from a foreign yoke that far out in the western country, away from the battlefields where the issue of the nation's life was contested, we find the heroes of that war who pushed out here even after so heavy a struggle, and to hold up a new country and add to the strength, the expansion, the wealth and the prosperity of the country which they saved."

"Just in front of me," continued the President, "I see a monument that brings back many memories. That I always like to refer to and emphasize. The monument I understand to be to one of those who in effect gave up his life in the first battle of Manila in order that the duty which this government had there should be performed and a supervision extended and aid given to a people who by the providence of God were put under our guardianship."

"Only those who have been in the Philippines know the sacrifices and the hardships to which our boys in those islands were put in a position where they were in the Philippines know and have a proper pride in what they did there, for they were called upon not only to meet a very most dangerous, fighting in Oriental fashion, but after they had conquered them they were put in a position where they had to exercise a self-restraint and a guardianship and an independence of action that only men in the American army are capable of, and so whenever I meet one who has been in the Philippines there is a bond between him and me that makes me happy and I hope that in the audience which I am addressing there are a number of those who went out there and now retain in their minds a recollection of the hardships which they had to undergo, and the beauties of those far-distant gems of the Pacific ocean."
