

APPLAUSE GREET'S JAMES D. MURDOCH

Salvos of Cheers Given Republican Candidate for Mayor During His Speech.

PROMISES SQUARE DEAL

COOKS AND WAITERS TAKE DEFINITE STEPS TO FORM UNION.

Definite steps toward the formation of a cooks, waiters and waitresses union in Salt Lake were taken last night at a banquet and ball held in the Knights of Columbus hall, at which James D. Murdoch, Republican candidate for mayor, made a ringing speech, which was greeted with enthusiasm by more than 300 men and women. The affair was under the direction of Frank Smith, a popular local waiter, who is bringing the cooks, waiters and waitresses together.

The hall was packed early in the evening, and before Mr. Murdoch finished his speech scores were standing. It was after the dancing and refreshments that plans were laid for the organization for the union.

Cheer after cheer greeted Mr. Murdoch as he was introduced by Mr. Smith, and the honest, frank remarks of the candidate were continually interrupted by applause. Oscar Loeb ("Samuel Newhouse No. 2") made a few remarks after Mr. Murdoch had finished. During the evening music was furnished by a piano and by members of the Republican drum corps.

Mr. Murdoch was introduced as "our next mayor," and the applause which greeted his name showed how the Republican candidate stood with those in the hall. When the cheering and handclapping had subsided, Mr. Murdoch disclosed the fact that he is of Scotch extraction, and ventured the remark that those of those in the hall might already have guessed as much.

Mr. Murdoch then gave a recital of his early life in Scotland, and how, when a boy, he came to the conclusion that he would have to obtain a mechanical or scientific education if he ever cared to amount to anything. He attended the Glasgow Mechanics' Institute, and in 1869 became a journeyman machinist, "earning the magnificent sum of $5 a week."

About this time, he said, he received a letter from a friend who was then in Pennsylvania, advising him to leave Scotland and come to America. So Mr. Murdoch took the steamer and landed in New York in the spring of 1870. He worked there for a time, and then went to Pittsburg, where he finally worked up to a position bringing in $100 a month. Not satisfied with this, he decided to strike west, and arrived in Salt Lake City on June 20, 1873.

First Impression Lasts.

"After the long trip across the country—for we could not come from Chicago in forty-two hours as we can now—I thought Salt Lake City the most beautiful city I had ever seen," said Mr. Murdoch, "and I think so to this day. It has always seemed ideal to me, and I have considered this town the best place on earth.

"But when I came here there was a great deal of activity at Park City, so I went there and had rather good success after years of work. When I had accumulated some means, I decided I would return to Salt Lake. I had spent two sessions in the council at Park City, and was a delegate to the constitutional convention from Summit county in 1896, when Utah was admitted to the Union. At that time I was pledged for female suffrage, and I voted for it. I stuck to my pledge, though many criticized me for it, and some of my friends who had made like pledges voted the other way. But I have always been proud of my stand at that time.

"When I came to Salt Lake it seemed that I could not keep out of politics, or that my friends would not allow me to keep out, even if I had wanted to. So I was a member of the board of public works, and am at the present time, as you know, a member of the city council.

"Wherever I have been and wherever I have gone I have been loyal to the flag belonging to that country, and loyal to the community which gave me the means and a comfortable situation. I have done the best I knew how to give a clean life and treat all alike, no matter what religion. In the constitutional convention I thought it was my duty to vote for woman's suffrage, and I registered my vote for it. I have never been sorry for that act. I have been proud of the job I'm giving my lady friends the right to vote the same as ourselves.

"Ladies and gentlemen, I am now, as you know, a candidate for the high office of mayor of Salt Lake City. Some of you may not be of the same political faith that I am, and will probably not vote for me. But I want to say that you should use the utmost of your intelligence in casting your vote, whether you vote for me or for some other candidate.

"I have made no pre-election pledges, and will not make any. If elected, I will do the utmost of my ability to serve every man fairly and honorably—every man, woman and child.

Will Enforce Laws.

"Yesterday I was waited upon by several men who wanted to know where I stood in regard to prohibition. And I told them that I thought every man and woman was a law unto themselves. If they wanted prohibition, I told them, they should not favor any man who sells liquor. If elected mayor, I told them, and the ordinance called for the closing of saloons at 12 o'clock at night, I would see that every saloon closed at 12 o'clock, not 12:30 or 1 o'clock. I would deal with them fairly and justly.

"I told them that when I found a policeman who favored one saloonman and allowed him to remain open after the legal closing time, and made his neighbor close on the hour, I would see that that policeman hunted for another job. If the laws are there, I will see they are enforced, and that there are no favorites. That's my position."

Then Mr. Murdoch read what has become known as the "Murdoch Platform," and cheers greeted the reading of each ringing declaration of the candidate. "And upon this platform, ladies and gentlemen, I stand or fall," he declared, and thanked them for their attention, the cheers lasting for several minutes.

Oscar Loeb mixed humor with the serious in a short talk. "I am not an Irishman," he declared in opening, and the laugh started. Mr. Loeb had the crowd with him from then until he closed. He declared, after a few amusing stories, that the Republican party approved of labor unions, and was glad to see that the waiters, waitresses and cooks were about to organize. He declared they were not being paid enough, and a burst of cheering assured him he had hit the nail on the head. He declared that if they wanted to vote for a ticket which would be a benefit to them, to pull down the Republican lever as far as it would go.

After this, the music started and the dancing began, the merry crowd enjoying every minute of the time from then on until late last night. In the middle of the dancing a short recess was taken, when Mr. Smith addressed the crowd on the purpose of the gathering, and started the ball rolling for the organization of the new union for Salt Lake City.

PROPERTY OWNERS TO REMEMBER THE SEWER

Voters in Precincts Do Not Forget Failure of American Party Councilmen.

Every vote cast Tuesday by a property owner in the First and Second precincts will be influenced by the attitude of the American party administration in holding up the sewer which was promised nearly two years ago and is still unfinished. While the American party is boasting of the improvements made in the last few years and paid for at exorbitant rates by the taxpayers, the people in the southern and western parts of Salt Lake are still waiting for these improvements.

In the First ward the matter will be turned over to Frank J. Hewlett and J. S. Hyde to settle in the city council, and in the Second precinct will place John A. Ekman and W. E. Vigus in the council, remembering the broken promises of the American party. While their cesspools are overflowing through back yards the American party organization in the city council, backed by F. S. Permar, is fighting to slip a little gift of $30,000 to Pat Moran for patching the sewer before it was completed by the original contractor.

KEARNS ORGAN IS EATING HIS WORDS

Eulogized Hewlett as Best Man in Council, but Now Abuses Him.

EVEN MULVEY FORGIVEN

FORMERLY DEPICTED AS BAD, BUT NOW PERSONA GRATA.

The Tribune's recent attack on Frank J. Hewlett, Republican candidate for the city council from the First precinct, has come back in the form of another dish of "rotten words" and "bigoted hatred" is trying to digest while recruits to the Hewlett ranks for the council are coming every day.

"Frank J. Hewlett was one of the solid eight that blocked Ezra Thompson for the two years prior to the Morris administration. He is a professional obstructionist. And if he should get into the council again, Hewlett is causing more trouble for Mayor Bransford than any man that has been nominated by the mossbacks for the council this year.

The day this appeared in the Tribune, former Mayor Ezra Thompson sent a communication to the Tribune, asking it to publish and not accidentally, will never appear in the columns of that paper. Mr. Thompson's letter, after quoting the Tribune's attack on Mr. Hewlett, said:

"The above article from the Tribune is incorrect and is untrue. Frank J. Hewlett, Mr. Hewlett was elected as a Republican, and during the time he was in the city council never voted as one of the eight obstructionists mentioned in the above article, but was one of the seven who helped me through my administration as a Republican. He has been in the city council since 1907, and his explanation should be given at this time. Respectfully, "EZRA THOMPSON.

Organ Contradicts Itself.

On this occasion the former utterances of the Tribune rise like old Banquo's ghost, for it was only a few days ago that the Salt Lake Tribune was up and running, and one of the most ardent supporters of the city administration in all matters of public improvement. While Mr. Hewlett is a member of the city council, the only acts of his which did not meet the approval of the Tribune's organ were in January, when Mr. Hewlett insisted that contracts for public works be let to the lowest bidders in every instance. In March, 1904, the Tribune said:

"The manner in which President Hewlett of the city council grinds out the work of that body is a disgrace to the city of public affairs, together with his recognized firmness in the discharge of that which he deems right, he is in many expressions of his fitness for a step higher in the city building. And it is understood that President Hewlett would not be unwilling to wear the toga that Mayor Morris will doubtless lay down at the end of this term.

The manner in which the public endorsed the suggestion that President Hewlett in good measure is very gratifying to the friends of Mr. Hewlett. His earnestness and his impartiality as a presiding officer, and his ability to attract public attention for some time, and his steadfast efforts to preserve the rights of his political associates in the council has given him a warm place in the hearts of his party men. These trying times it is fortunate to have a square man at the head of the council."

Tribune's Somersault.

This editorial expression of the high qualities of Frank J. Hewlett, president of the city council was followed by another article in the Tribune, which said: "The mention made by the Tribune of President Hewlett of the city council for the majority upon the Republican ticket, moths with popular favor. Many prominent Republican members have expressed the belief that Mr. Hewlett is the man to lead the municipal ticket to success in November of next year. Mr. Hewlett is making a good officer, is a successful business man, and I commend the mention of him for the position of president of the party. Let us give up factional fights and get down to the rebuilding of Zion. I think the rank and file of the party will agree with me that so far, at least, Mr. Hewlett has shown a disposition to be a partisan Republican, and one of the most bothersome items in these records which appear in the open is the small graft which he has received from the waterworks committee in 1906 and 1907.

On the committee for those two years were Ed G. O'Donnell, American party candidate for re-election to the city council in the Second precinct, and Martin E. Mulvey, candidate on the same ticket for long term councilman in the Fifth, have made records in the past. The records of the most bothersome items in these records which appear in the open is the small graft which he has received from the waterworks committee in 1906 and 1907.

It was about the same time that the Tribune was painting Mulvey as a crusader in the movement of the city to "purify the home," and Frank J. Hewlett is maliciously labeled as a "mossback" and "reactionary." The people of Salt Lake are willing to abide by the statements of the Tribune of a few years ago regarding the characters of these two men.

It was Frank J. Hewlett, candidate for the city council from the First precinct, who did more than any other single man to assure Salt Lake of a water supply, and who, when the bonds for the extension of the water system were authorized, insisted that provision be made for sewers on the south side of the city at the same time.

ATTEMPTED FRAUD WOULD NOT WORK

Theatrical People Refuse to Help American Party Worker Break Law.

"Come and register, anyway. We will get somebody to vote for you," is the statement made last Tuesday by an American party worker to Mr. and Mrs. John R. Hamilton, who are playing at the Orpheum theatre this week in "At the Country Club."

Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton engaged room 31 at the Orpheum hotel on their arrival in Salt Lake last week. They never lived in Salt Lake, and when the American party worker rapped at their door last Tuesday morning, Mr. Hamilton explained that they were theatrical people and here only for a week.

"This political game out here must have Tammany beaten a city block," said Mr. Hamilton last night, in relating the incident.

"We were awakened at about 9 o'clock by a rap at the door, and our caller waited until I could partly dress. When I opened the door he asked if I was 'Mr. Martin.' I explained who we were, and he asked us to come and register anyway. "I am not a resident," I said.

"Well, come and register, anyway. I have a carriage out here in front of the hotel and will take you over to the registry agent and bring you back again," said the worker. "We can get somebody to vote for you all right, but we want you to register."

Mr. Hamilton said the American party worker also went to the room of Mr. Lee, a member of the Arlington quartet, and requested him to come and register, after he had been told that Mr. Lee was not a resident of Utah, and only in Salt Lake for the week.

"I don't know how many voters the energetic 'politicians' registered from the Orpheum hotel, but they carried off several backloads while I was watching," said Mr. Hamilton.

There is no "Mr. Martin" registered at the Orpheum hotel, and the fraud attempted by the American party worker

WHISKEY FOR LAME BACK.

Unusual Prescription by Renowned Physician is Producing Wonderful Results.

The increased use of whiskey for lame back and rheumatism is causing considerable discussion among the medical fraternity. It is an almost infallible cure when mixed with certain other ingredients and taken properly. The following is the formula:

"To one half pint of good whiskey add six ounces of Toris compound and one ounce syrup Sarsaparilla compound. Take in tablespoonful doses before each meal and before retiring.

Any druggist has these ingredients, and they are very easily mixed.

was apparent to all of the stage people who witnessed the incident.

Among those who were brought in to the registry agent of the Fifty-fourth district by the American party workers was a woman who said her name was Dora Post. She said that she was born in Russia, and had been in the United States only a few years, and had taken out naturalization papers. She was unable to write her name, however, and her vote will be challenged and she will be asked to explain how she obtained naturalization papers which she says she has, without being able to write her own name.

OFFICIAL BALLOT IS NOW COMPLETE

American Party Schemers Get Frightened and Abandon Nefarious Plot.

The official ballot has been completed by City Recorder J. B. Moreton, and will now be advertised before the election of next Tuesday. All of the candidates named by the several parties are on the list as sent in, the American party bosses fearing the effect of following the original plan of wiping many of the councilman candidates from the slate. This was the purpose of J. E. Darmer, city chairman, and others of the party circle, and they waited until the last minute before putting their scheme into effect. It was J. B. Moreton, the American party candidate for recorder, who was to be used as the wedge to force Recorder J. B. Moreton to leave the names off the ballot entirely.

Owing to the rumble of men who desire fair play, both in and out of the American party, which would have more certain the defeat of the plunderers, this plan was finally given up at a meeting of party leaders and candidates held in the office of City Attorney H. J. Dinnity Tuesday afternoon. There were some of the candidates who took a decided stand against the scheme and it was finally given up.

The names in some cases were technically wrong in one or two particulars and the plan was to have the city recorder leave the names off and then force the candidates to bring mandamus proceedings in order to force him to have them placed on the ballot. In carrying out this scheme the recorder's office would have been the most bothersome matter before the city attorney and get his opinion on the matter. It went all right up to that point, but they began to hear protests and the scheme was stopped.

CITY COUNCILMEN GET EXTRA MONEY

Records Show Petty Graft on Part of American Party Members.

Ed G. O'Donnell, American party candidate for re-election to the city council in the Second precinct, and Martin E. Mulvey, candidate on the same ticket for long term councilman in the Fifth, have made records in the past. The records of the most bothersome items in these records which appear in the open is the small graft which he has received from the waterworks committee in 1906 and 1907.

On the committee for those two years were Ed G. O'Donnell, American party candidate for re-election to the city council in the Second precinct, and Martin E. Mulvey, candidate on the same ticket for long term councilman in the Fifth, have made records in the past. The records of the most bothersome items in these records which appear in the open is the small graft which he has received from the waterworks committee in 1906 and 1907.

It was about the same time that the Tribune was painting Mulvey as a crusader in the movement of the city to "purify the home," and Frank J. Hewlett is maliciously labeled as a "mossback" and "reactionary." The people of Salt Lake are willing to abide by the statements of the Tribune of a few years ago regarding the characters of these two men.

It was Frank J. But both Mulvey and O'Donnell received their money in violation of the statute which provides that the councilmen shall receive $9 a month and no other amount for work done for the city. The fact that A. J. Davis would not draw a small amount, led to an investigation by the city auditor, clearly showing the illegal practice, and since 1907 the members of the waterworks committee have not received pay for this work.

Does Not Investigate.

The habit of Ed O'Donnell in signing his name to committee reports without having them read, and in knowing their contents has been one of the notorious features of the workings of the council. Time after time the councilman from the Second ward has accused other members of the council, members of committees upon which his name appears, of withholding him and getting him to sign his name. These thrusts have been maintained against T. R. Black and have led to more than one open breach upon the floor of the council.

And the defense of Councilman O'Donnell on all of these occasions has been: "I will tell you frankly, gentlemen, I didn't know what was in that report. Perhaps it was my fault that I did not investigate, but I was misled by others."

The taking of this money is much similar to the disclosures made at Ogden two years ago when two councilmen were forced out of their seats for having taken money for similar work which came within their line as members of the council, and came near being more serious than merely outwitting them from the councilman body.

JIMMY FOWLER WAS NOT WORKING IN UNDERWORLD

The work of the American party organization in the business district among the women of the underworld is being carried on through the aid of the police department, and the women are being informed that unless they support the American party they will be driven out of town. The Herald-Republican was in error yesterday, however, in stating that Jimmy Fowler was among the men who are carrying on the blackmailing campaign for the American party.

POLITICAL POINTERS.

Letters were sent to every Republican district chairman yesterday by Chairman F. C. Loofbourou of the city committee, commending the workers on their excellent service on registration day, and telling them that with the same excellent work next Tuesday a Republican victory will be assured.

Harry S. Joseph and George Wilson have been among the most energetic and faithful Republican workers of the campaign, and no task has been too great or too small for them to undertake in the interest of the party.

J. J. Greenwald is busy with arrangements for the smoker to be given by the city committee for the Republican workers of the city at headquarters next Saturday night. Refreshments and a few short speeches with a general good time for all will fill the program.

What has become of the promises of the American party to employ only white men on civic improvement work? Is the question that is being asked by scores of laboring men who will support the American party if this election.

E. G. O'Donnell is one of the most worried men in Salt Lake these days, while he is watching J. A. Ekman making his campaign for the council on straight business principles. O'Donnell and his friend, M. E. Mulvey, were the most aggressive in the fight to make J. B. Moreton consent to leave the names of the fusion candidates for the council
