PREPARE TO WELCOME THE KNIGHTS TEMPLAR

Committees Get Concessions From Railroads and Arrange Entertainment Program.

(Special to The Herald-Republican.) Ogden, April 16.—Plans for the convocation of the Knights Templar to organize another grand commandery in Ogden April 19 and 20, have been completed and the program for the two days' convention announced. Local reception committees have been formed and beginning tomorrow morning will meet all visiting delegations at the union station, escorting them to the Masonic temple and to their hotels. Music has been provided. The past grand masters of Colorado, Henry M. Lee and James M. Pinney, together with J. W. Chamberlain, grand sword bearer, and other distinguished guests are expected to arrive on Tuesday. The convention program includes address of welcome by A. H. Heywood, El Monte commandery; J. H. Epperson, representative of the grand master for the Utah territory and responses by H. N. Mayo of the Utah commandery and other Salt Lake knights. FRUIT GROWERS ESTIMATE DAMAGE DONE BY FROST

(Special to The Herald-Republican.) Ogden, April 16.—Fully 50 per cent of the fruit blossoms escaped the frost in Weber county, according to estimates of prominent fruit growers today, and unless further damage is caused by unexpected cold weather the outlook is good for a reasonably large crop. Officials of the Pioneer Fruit company, who are members of the Weber County Fruit Growers' association to handle this year's crop, say that the trees this year were so heavily laden with blossoms that 75 per cent could be destroyed and still leave a fair crop. The heaviest loss was in the southern portion of the county, where about two-thirds of the blossoms were killed, while in other sections the per cent of damage was much less. This will insure a better grade of fruit and a good crop of apples and peaches.

STEAK WAS TOO TOUGH

Court Refuses to Punish Youth Who Slapped Chinese Restaurant Owner.

(Special to The Herald-Republican.) Ogden, April 16.—The knotty question as to how long a customer should persevere in attempting to masticate a piece of meat before giving up in despair and hurling the steak in the face of the waiter who serves him, was up in the local police court for decision this afternoon. It was the case of Eddie Edsena, a 19-year-old youth of Dutch extraction, charged with disturbing the peace of Swan Snow, Chinese proprietor of the Vienna cafe, in a manner before suggested. Edsena made oath that he had tried for fifteen minutes to eat a small portion of the "steak tender," and finally, when the proprietor even refused to come to his aid with a sharper knife, he lost all patience and threw the steak in the waiter's face. The court held him fully justified, and ordered his discharge.

MAILED BY AUTO

IS LIKELY TO DIE

Motor Car Speeding at Almost Mile a Minute Smashes Wagon.

Speeding nearly sixty miles an hour, a big, black automobile crashed into a package delivery wagon, driven by Will Knowlden, 341 Bryson avenue, and Brigham streets, shortly after 9 o'clock last night, literally smashing it into pieces. Knowlden was thrown nearly a dozen yards, and sustained injuries which he says may disqualify him for the automobile race he is attempting to stop and, throwing open the throttle of the machine, dashed down Brigham street at even greater speed and disappeared.

When he had learned the details of the accident, Chief of Police S. M. Barlow ordered members of the police and detective department to find the automobile and its driver at any cost. Motorcyclist Patrolman W. W. Griffin searched nearly three hours for the automobile, without results, last night. From the scene of the accident he secured pieces of glass and splinters from the car. These are the only clues the police have.

After he had recovered consciousness in the emergency hospital at police headquarters, Knowlden said that he had been driving his delivery wagon out of M street onto Brigham street when the big automobile bore down on him without warning. He says that no horn or whistle was sounded. When the car hit the back of his wagon, Knowlden knew no more. These are the only clues the police have.

Dr. A. H. McChrystal had just left a street car on Brigham street when the automobile crashed into the delivery wagon half a block away. In his opinion, the driver of the automobile was sitting in the tonneau squatting down on the floor as the driver opened the throttle and dashed away. Rushing to the wounded man, Dr. McChrystal found him in a state of unconsciousness. Dr. W. D. Donohoe, who was passing in an auto.

Knowlden was then unconscious, bleeding from deep wounds about the face and head. He was taken to police headquarters in the Donohoe's automobile. Dr. F. B. Steele, police surgeon, found Knowlden's wounds to be serious, a deep gash over the left eye endangering the eyesight of the man, requiring a long and painful operation. A cerebral hemorrhage will develop. There are also indications of internal abdominal injuries.

In the search for the automobile last night police scoured garages in every corner of the city without finding a machine that looked as though it had collided with the delivery wagon. Knowlden had a big load of articles for delivery purchased from a store about the city, ranging from new spring bonnets to suits of clothes. These articles were ruined. Their value is estimated at upward of $300. The motorcyclist patrolmen to check the quarters after the accident. Proprietors of stores where the goods had been purchased for delivery viewed the articles at police headquarters and refused to give them. They urged Chief of Police Barlow to exert every effort in the attempt to run down the owner of the automobile.

Knowlden has a wife and child, and has been engaged in the delivery business for four years. He is about 25 years of age.
