

ANNUAL DUTING OF WELSH PATRIOTS

Sons and Daughters of Wales Dance to Their National Airs.

Welsh day, the annual outing given by the Sons and Daughters of Wales society, was fittingly observed by about 2,500 former residents of Wales and descendants at Wandamere yesterday. The afternoon was passed in a general reunion.

A program held in the pavilion in the evening consisted of addresses by several prominent Welsh residents of Salt Lake, musical numbers in which melodies dear to the hearts of the Welsh were given and a musical contest for boys and girls under 16 years of age.

The piano solo contest was won by Rebecca Almond, second prize going to Sammy Williams. In the violin contest Carl Poll was awarded first, and Ronald Robbins second prize. Fred Beasley acted as judge for both of these contests. The vocal solo contest, in which each competitor sang "The Garden of Roses," was won by Amelia Margretta, with Gladys Smith second. Horace S. Ensign was judge. After the program there was dance.

The program was as follows: Opening talk, President W. H. Folland; Welsh song, John James; address of welcome, Mathoniah Thomas; piano contest, "Valse by Goddard," song, "Wales, Dear Old Homeland," Horace S. Ensign; address, Arthur L. Thomas; harp selection, "Welsh Melodies," Lydia White; violin contest, "Melody in A," vocal solo contest, "Garden of Roses," address, Lorenzo J. Haddock; song, Pearl Phillips; "America," by the audience.

BLEACHING BONES FOUND ON RANCH

Gruesome Discovery Made in Deserted Farm House by California Officers.

JAP IS SUSPECTED OF CRIME

HE WAS SEEN LEAVING PREMISES WITH OPEN KNIFE.

Santa Rosa, Cal., Aug. 3.—The bones of three human beings, supposed to be those of Enoch Kendall, his wife, Ura Kendall, and their son, Thomas A. Kendall, 25 years old, were found late this afternoon on the Starbuck ranch, north of Santa Rosa. The Kendalls were last seen alive on July 25. The bones were found in two piles, some distance apart. In one pile was found a metal ring of breast pin, such as the neighbors say Mrs. Kendall wore. In the other pile, containing the remains of two bodies, was found a ring with the initials, "T. A. K.," those of the missing son.

The first pile of bones was found by Assistant District Attorney George W. Hoyle, Sheriff J. K. Smith of Sonoma county, and Court Reporter Herbert Whitson, who left for the Starbuck ranch this morning to investigate the disappearance of the family. When they reached the ranch where the Kendalls had lived for the past two years, they found everything inside absolutely in order. There were no signs of any struggle. On the dining room table were the dishes, evidently set for a meal, with the food ready but untouched in the pens at the barnyard they found the pig sties.

Bones in Stove.
Returning to the house, a rigid search was begun, but nothing incriminating was found until the kitchen stove was opened. When the stove was uncovered small fragments of bones were found among the ashes in the grate. The searchers then discovered a very light trail of cinders leading from the stove to the kitchen door and beyond. The trail led to a point some distance from the house, where the first pile of bones were found.

When the bones found in the first pile were shown to Dr. J. W. Jeffs of this city, he immediately pronounced them human bones, some of an aged and others of a younger person.

Henry Yamuchi, a Japanese, formerly employed around the Kendall ranch, is said to have quarreled with the Kendalls. He disappeared a week ago. On the day the Kendalls disappeared, Yamuchi and another Japanese were ordered off the ranch by the other Kendalls.

Boys See Jap.
Yamuchi was seen on the ranch after the Kendalls disappeared. July 25, two boys, visited a cabin on the Starbuck ranch, some distance from the ranch house. The cabin was locked, and one of the boys crawled through a window. In a rear room of the house he saw a man, who was heavily draped. While they were standing in the rear room, Yamuchi crawled out from under a couch, with an open knife in his hand. He caught shut the knife and left the room with the remark that he was going to town.

The stand-pat delegates went down in defeat with their colors riveted to the mast. They fought in every committee where a fight was possible, and battled every inch for their principles.

Their resolutions, incorporated in the minority report of the platform committee, and voted down by the convention, approved the action of the Republicans of Iowa taken in convention and conference in 1905. The resolutions then adopted were repeated in today's resolutions.

The 1905 resolution thus revived declared for the nomination of William H. Taft by the Republican national convention, and that he have confidence in his ability, his independent manhood, his comprehension of large and vital public questions, his unflinching integrity and his unswerving courage.

The resolution of today proceeded: "The Republican party in this fact that he was nominated and elected to that high office with the aid of Iowa Republicans and that during the year 1908 he has shown a high degree of confidence in the President of the United States he has fully justified the confidence placed in him by the Republican party. The record of his achievements of President Taft's administration and the Sixty-first Congress is unequalled in our history and the pledges of the last Republican national platform."

The Taft policies, "in fulfillment of the work so conspicuously inaugurated by his distinguished predecessor," were endorsed fully.

Report Read by Hepburn.
Former Congressman Hepburn, read the minority report. As the purport of the concluding paragraph, praising the delegation, for its support of President Taft, became apparent, his voice was drowned in a chorus of protest. He was called to order and again he attempted to make himself heard, but it was only after much pleading of the gavel by Senator Dooliver that the veteran was able to conclude. He moved substitutions of these planks for those of the same application in the majority report, and the motion was lost, 568 to 815.

The whole committee agreed on the resolution as adopted with the exception of the minority planks indicated.

Judges Horace E. Deener and W. D. Evans were renominated for the supreme court bench by acclamation. A. M. Deyoe was the choice on the second ballot for state superintendent of public instruction. The second ballot showed no choice among the seven candidates, but at its conclusion, 40 delegates began changing their votes on Deyoe until he had 893 out of the 1,383 present.

District caucuses were the first work of the day. The fight in the Second district was prolonged to an extraordinary degree. Temporary Chairman Cummins, in the absence of the delegation, could not send the resolutions committee to its deliberations until after the conclusion of his speech.

George M. Curtis was finally placed on the resolutions committee, of which he became chairman, and later represented the majority report. E. P. Adler, the state central committeeman, was ousted in favor of George Hillsinger.

The committee on permanent organization, which stood six to five progressive, brought forward the names of Senator Dooliver and J. C. Mabray, the latter a stalwart of Albia, for permanent chairman. This furnished the first test of strength. Dooliver winning 549 to 549. The latter made a brief impromptu speech, in which he declared that a party in which the votes had no differences of opinion could not live.

"When you find a community where all think alike, you will find no central office where all the thinking is done," he said. There was a burst of laughter when he added:

"Our particular brand of Republicanism seems to have done pretty well in Kansas yesterday."

The Platform.
The Republicans of Iowa reaffirm their loyalty to the Republican national platform of 1908 and especially emphasize their long and well settled faith in the Republican doctrine of protection. They do not recognize the tariff revision of 1909 as a satisfactory fulfillment of the party promise. In order to bring the tariff into a complete compliance with the rule of the platform it is necessary that the difference between the cost of producing dutiable commodities at home and abroad should be correctly known. Therefore, they favor the creation of an independent, non-partisan tariff commission which shall be the instrumentality of Congress to ascertain the difference between the cost of production here and in other countries, and publish the facts so that not only Congress but the people shall be advised of the results of its investigations.

Until such a commission is authorized they approve the effort of the President to secure the desired information through a board of experts employed for that purpose.

Competition must be restored where it has been overdone by unjust or unlawful combinations and it must be maintained where it still exists.

They congratulate the country upon the success obtained in the regulation of our common carriers, but they feel that there is yet much to be done to secure reasonable rates and charges to which it is entitled. All common carriers should have fair compensation, but no more. It is clear that to enable the railroad commissions, both national and state, to discharge the duties imposed upon them by law, a valuation should be made of the physical properties of railway companies to secure an effective control of rates and a complete system of accounting.

Postal Savings Endorsed.
The platform concludes with an endorsement of the postal savings bank bill. It is urged, however, as does the Democratic platform recently adopted at Ottumwa, that the law should provide that savings deposited with these banks shall be retained on deposit for use in the communities where the deposits are made. The policy of conservation of natural resources, income tax and good roads are upheld.

United States senators should be elected by direct vote of the people. They endorse such efforts as President Taft and his advisers have made to fulfill the promises of the national platform which have been in harmony with the declarations of this convention.

They commend to the nation the type of statesmanship exhibited by Senators Dooliver and Cummins and they heartily endorse their work.

They commend the action of the House of Representatives in revising its

Why Guggenheim is Senator

THE story of Guggenheim is in Pearson's Magazine for August. It's the full story of what certain Colorado politicians did to Senator Guggenheim and what Senator Guggenheim did to certain Colorado politicians. Also this story shows what former Senator Mason may have meant when he spoke of "practically purchased" senate seats. It is told in a way that will bring irrepressible laughs to some people and to others an earnest desire to fight.

Why your fire insurance policy is written as it is, is explained in the same issue, and what to do after a fire when the company offers to pay about half of your insured loss. Which is the better, the National or the American League, is shown by Sam Crane in a man-for-man comparison of the two organizations. Why foreign business interests in Cuba seek American annexation is explained in another article, and why Cuba accuses the United States of bad faith. The magazine contains four other articles of interest to most people.

PRESIDENT TAFT TO ATTEND CONVENTION

Executive Will Be Among Speakers on Conservation at St. Paul in September.

Baltimore, Aug. 3.—Following the receipt today of a telegram announcing President Taft's acceptance of an invitation to speak at the conservation congress to be held in St. Paul next month, Bernard N. Baker of this city, who preside over the congress, tonight announced the list of those in addition to the President who will speak at the same time, saying: "No personalities will be allowed."

President Taft will speak on the opening day of the congress, September 5. The subject of his remarks is withheld. The same is true of what Colonel Roosevelt will say in the address which he will make September 6.

Colonel Roosevelt will be followed closely by Gifford Pinchot. Others scheduled to make addresses are Mr. Pinchot's successor in office, Henry S. Graves; United States Senator J. P. Dooliver of Iowa; James R. Garfield, James J. Hill, United States Senator Knute Nelson, Miss Mabel Boardman, president of the National Red Cross society; United States Senator Joseph W. Dickson of Montana; Governor W. E. Stubbs of Kansas; Governor H. S. Hadley of Missouri; United States Senator A. J. Beveridge of Indiana; Secretary of Agriculture Wilson; George C. Pardee, former governor of California; Thomas L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America; Judge B. B. Lindsey of Denver, and others.

NO CONFESSION MADE BY THE PRISONERS

with him for some time. What transpired was not made public beyond the fact that the prisoner had requested Deane to purchase for him several books.

Later today Crippen called to Arthur Newton of London, accepting the solicitor's services. The message ran: "Accept your offer. Secrecy will be observed."

A second Quebec attorney today sent word to the prisoner that he was ready to help him resist extradition. To the jailer, who bore the communication, Crippen said:

"My fight will not be made here. It will be made on the other side."

Facts Coming Out.
London, Aug. 3.—Several important facts bearing on the Belle Elmore murder case came to light today. William Long, a former assistant of Dr. Crippen, who is a witness at the inquest over the fragments of a human body found in the cellar of the Crippen home, has been inclined to shield the fugitive, has since talked freely with the authorities.

For a long time Long withheld important facts now in the possession of the prosecutor. It is Long who, on the day that Crippen and his comrade, Miss Leneve, purchased the suit of boy's clothes in which Miss Leneve was attired when arrested.

Long has now explained that when he executed this for Crippen he fully believed the doctor's story that Belle Elmore, Crippen's wife, had gone to America.
