

MINORITY REPORT OF LITERARY CLUB

Another Chapter Added to Discussion of Plans for New Home.

MEETING NEXT THURSDAY Not Likely That Final Action Will Be Taken Until Regular Session Is Held.

Another chapter in the discussion among members of the board of directors of the Ladies' Literary club, in regard to the plans for the proposed new home of the club on East South Temple street, was written yesterday afternoon at the regular meeting of the club, when the minority report, relating to the action of the building committee in choosing the plans of Ware & Treganza, were offered and ordered published by the general meeting.

Mrs. C. H. McMahon, president of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, brought the matter before the club toward the close of the meeting. She made the point that the press had announced that the board of directors had adopted the recommendation of the building committee in accepting the plans of Ware & Treganza, and the rejection of the plans of four other architects, and that the report of the minority should, therefore, be made public.

Mrs. William C. Jennings presented a motion that the report be published, and this was adopted by the club. The report is as follows: "Realizing that the board of directors are servants of the club, and are responsible for any acts to the 235 women whose money, time and influence constitute the basis of general esteem upon which the credit of the club rests, we, the minority of the board of directors respectfully submit the following as reasons why we cannot endorse the last action of the board in accepting the plans of Ware & Treganza for the new club house."

Competition Not Fair. "First, the competition has not been fair and open, as should be the case of a public organization, and as the literary club purports to be. No plan, except the one voted upon, has had the opportunity of being explained or corrected by its author. The architects asserted that no plan had a fair presentation even before the building committee. No other architects except Ware & Treganza have had the opportunity to change or add to their plans. No item of the accepted plan has been submitted officially to an unbiased, practical builder, for affirmation or dissent. For example, the walls of the accepted plan are open to criticism, as it is doubtful if such walls will stand the strain of a three-story building. The architects themselves do not guarantee the stability of the walls.

the club. Four reputable architects asked of the board of directors a stay of proceedings. It was in the highest degree discourteous for the vote of the board of Thursday, October 27, 1910, to be taken ignoring this request on the part of reputable men of the community. The time and money spent by them in preparing these plans entitles them to fair consideration.

Lawyers' Opinions. "Third, lawyers of repute have given the opinion that not only is the club in danger of losing its reputation for dignity and fairness, but that the body is in danger of incurring civil action in the courts of Utah in the way of an injunction preventing the use of the building committee's plan. The directors can prove that they have decided fairly, after giving all plans just consideration. Fourth, the secretary's minutes of April 8, recording the action of the club, read as follows: 'The building committee shall formulate plans for the new club building. The point that only one plan should be submitted to the directors is, therefore, wrong. It is in the highest degree improper that the building committee should have officially informed the other directors in competition that they might get back their rejected plans before any of them had been submitted to the board. In the case of the club building involving $7,500, the building committee submitted several lots for consideration. In the case of the club building involving $22,000, only one proposition is submitted."

No Personal Bias. "Fifth, the minority has no personal bias toward any one set of plans, nor toward any one architect, but are acting solely for what they believe to be good for the club as a whole, and if any director objects to the labor involved in looking over all plans submitted, we feel she is not performing her duty in the best interests of the club."

A meeting of the directors of the literary club will be held next Thursday afternoon, when this matter may again come up for discussion. But final action will not be taken until the next regular meeting of the club, which will be the second Friday in November, two weeks from yesterday. Final action will be taken by the club, either by the acceptance of the Ware & Treganza plan or by rejecting these and asking for the filing of a new set of plans by local architects for the building for the club's new home.

STUBBS THE STAR WITNESS ON RATES

"Well, let me give you some information, right along that line about banks," declared Governor Stubbs. "I can tell you a story that will make your hair stand up."
Mr. Norton aimed any desire to have "his hair stand up," and Commissioner Lane, the top of whose head is smooth, was the first to say, "Suppose you tell me that story, governor."

The story was lost in the laughter which followed. "Don't you think, governor," was another question, "that the Santa Fe road is entitled to the increased value of its properties in Kansas? You do not deny that the Kansas farmer the advance in the price of his land."
"Very," quickly rejoined Governor Stubbs, rising from his chair, and emphasizing his words by pounding on the judge's bench, "but that land is worth more because of the honest labor of the men, women and children on every quarter section of Kansas land, and the stock values of the railroad holdings have been inflated, and inflated, and I don't know how much water there is in it."

Later in the cross-examination, Governor Stubbs again stood up and, punctuating his words with blows on the bench beside him, said: "The railroads ought to be allowed to make 2 or 3 per cent on their actual investment and also lay aside a nice surplus for emergency use. But they wouldn't invest that surplus in permanent improvements and then add to the capitalization. Every business man ought to have a surplus for a rainy day, and the railroads should, too."

"I don't think that $25,000,000 is too great an amount for the Santa Fe as an emergency fund for a bad year or a washout. But keep that fund separate and don't capitalize it."
"Now, let me tell you," he added emphatically, "the people will be pleased to pay the railroads liberal returns on their actual investment if you will only stop your stock juggling."

A question about the automobiles in Kansas, Governor Stubbs threw back his head and almost shouted: "I'll tell you why there are a lot of automobiles in Kansas. It is because we've got a prosperous, industrious people, fertile fields and have the stuff to buy them in spite of the high railroad rates."

In a lull in the cross-examination Governor Stubbs leaned forward and said to the railroad attorney examining him: "You've asked me a lot of questions. Now let me ask you a few. On the basis of the Santa Fe issue of $102,000,000 of stock in 1896, when the railroads were consolidated, was that actual valuation of the road?"

Auditor Didn't Know. Auditor Bailey of the Santa Fe system answered that the stock was issued and sold for $102,000,000, but he and his staff did not know the actual value of the road.

"What I want to find out," said Governor Stubbs, "is what was the road actually worth then?"

Mr. Bailey replied that the actual cost of the road was a matter impossible to determine, as the books of the constituent roads of the Santa Fe system did not go back 15 years to the original cost of many of the properties could not be ascertained. Comparing the estimate of $25,000 per mile, given by Governor Stubbs, with what the Santa Fe had expended in building what is known as the Bowen cut-off, in New Mexico, from Texas to the vicinity of Albuquerque, Attorney Norton gave the figures of the cut-off at $4,084 per mile.

Governor Stubbs insisted that the grading obstacles encountered in the New Mexico line were placed at $11,250, while Governor Stubbs' estimate allowed $5,000 a mile for grading.

Referring to the $11,250 per mile New Mexico grading figures, Governor Stubbs exclaimed: "I defy you to bring in your grading contracts. I shall buy your suits of clothes if you don't show figures far below that estimate, and they'll be $100 suits, each of them."

Ordered to File Statement. The commissioners directed the Santa Fe attorney to file a detailed statement of the expense of building the line from Mexico to Texas, and also similar figures on the construction of the Phoenix & Eastern branch of the road in Arizona.

"You have stated," continued Attorney Norton, "that you thought that the pay of some of the railroad men should be raised. If it is found necessary to increase the freight rates to give this increase in wages and also to pay a fair return on the railroad investment, are you opposed to an increase in the rates?"

Not on your life," was the instant reply of the witness. Questioned on his being summoned as a witness, Governor Stubbs said he was glad to the opportunity to aid the investigation of the freight rates. A telegram to Governor Stubbs from the attorney, John H. Atwood, telling him that the people of Kansas wanted him to testify, was read and a laugh followed when the governor said: "The only two people I talked to about coming to testify were my wife and daughter."

DOZENS OF MEN KNOCKED ON HEAD

him and he abandoned his horses and fled. The police dispersed the crowd. The Adams Express company made no effort today to send out any of its wagons. On the other hand the American Express company determined to carry on its street deliveries and collections.

All of the drivers of the Adams Express company in Manhattan who remained faithful to the company yesterday went on strike today. Two hundred more of the helpers and drivers of the American Express company also joined the ranks of the strikers.

There were more disorders in Jersey City today. An Adams Express wagon was attacked near a ferry by a crowd of men, all armed with clubs and sticks. Stones were thrown and the strikebreakers were badly beaten. The horses were unhitched and the wagon was toppled over across the railroad tracks. Police drove the mob away. One strike breaker was found unconscious.

Passengers Fled in Terror. A little later three strike breakers were dragged from a Wells-Fargo wagon near the Erie ferry and taken to a hospital unconscious. In an attack on an Adams wagon, near Grand Central in Manhattan, a traffic policeman was struck with a brick and painfully injured.

The ranks of the strikers were swelled tonight by the drivers and helpers of the National Express company, which handles express, packages and packages over the lines of the West Shore railroad.

FURNITURE TANGLE IS STILL UNRAVELED

Woman Sues to Recover Damages, but Complaint Is Met by Vigorous Counterclaim.

Another knot in the tangled skein of the legal controversy between Nellie Bailey and Eunice Wilcox, all coming up over the ownership of furniture in a rooming house on Main street, was tied yesterday in the counterclaim filed by the defendant, Mrs. Wilcox.

Mrs. Bailey first sued to recover a total of $3,000 damages, divided into $2,000 actual damages and $1,000 as a punitive compensation. The damage suit was based on the allegation that the defendant, Mrs. Wilcox, had sold to the plaintiff furniture in a Main street rooming house, and after collecting about $300 from roomers in the house had removed the furniture.

In answer to the complaint, and as a counterclaim, the defendant avers that it is she who is entitled to damages, and asks for $283.50, to be paid by the plaintiff.

The answer sets out that a contract was entered into between the plaintiff and defendant for the sale of the furniture at a price of $2,000, but it is alleged that only a few hundred dollars have been paid on the contract, and that the plaintiff is far in arrears on the payments.

BOY SCOUTS SHOWING MARKED IMPROVEMENT

Dr. H. N. Mayo Gives Youngsters Pointers on First Aid to the Injured.

Sufficient new members were enlisted in the Boy Scouts last evening, at the regular drill meeting in the basement of the First Congregational church, to run the aggregate number up to 183. The boys are taking great interest in the work, and not only in the drill, but in existing their friends.

Following the enlistment of the new members, the class listened to an address of instruction on first aid to the injured by Dr. H. N. Mayo. In his talk, Dr. Mayo explained to the boys, methods of resuscitation, how to pick up and carry the injured and how to improvise a stretcher.

A movement was started to organize a drum corps among the scouts last night, and the session concluded with the regulation army scout work. The boys learned the wig-wag alphabet, used in signaling, have learned to tie many of the standard knots, have acquainted themselves with some of the elementary military tactics and have taken up the study of first aid.
