Pottery Test.

In the general overhauling which the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York, underwent through its change in management the Japanese pottery exhibits received their fair share of attention. Prof. Morse thoroughly, but rapidly, tested the catalogue identification of every piece. It is reported that in most cases the touch of his fingers tells him what he wants to know about the date of any vessel. Sometimes the sense of smell comes to his aid, as in the case of certain forgeries, whose beautiful deep tone has been produced by boiling in oil.—Pottery Gazette.

LOW RATES EAST.

Doing One's Hair.

"Knack" at doing one's hair will result in a better coiffure than can be made by the hair dresser. There are even few French maids who can do the hair as becomingly as the woman who has once learned the art can do it for herself. By putting thought in it always and doing it carefully every day, whether it is an important occasion or not, a woman will in time acquire the gift of doing her hair well. If the locks are kept in a healthy condition, trimmed and burnished and waved once in a while by the hair dresser, and if they are scrupulously clean and glossy, it is comparatively easy for a woman to achieve a good coiffure for herself.

We Make Travel Easy.

Five trains daily via the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe, Colorado to Kansas City, St. Joe, Chicago, Greston, El Paso, City of Mexico. Ask me about reduced rates. C. F. Warren, G. A. A. T. & S. F. Ry., 411 Dooly Block, Salt Lake City, Utah.

Man Famine in England.

It does indeed seem to me that every hindrance is put to prevent girls and men getting to know each other; at least, at an afternoon tea one does not meet unmarried men at all; at garden parties one exchanges a few common-places with some of the men introduced, and we feel obliged to pass on if one does not wish to draw attention to oneself. At dances the men are few and far between, and are hardly ever seen again.—Lady's Pictorial.

One of the Wonders.

"What interested me most in my travels," said Henpeck, "was the mummy of a queen I saw in Egypt."
"Wonderful, eh?" asked his friend.
"Yes, it's wonderful how they could make a woman dry up and stay that way."—Buffalo Commercial.

SIMPLE LIFE SAVES

STRIKING PRINTERS FIND THE DEATH RATE REDUCED.

Men Out of Employment Learn to Live Quietly and to Economize—Some Valuable Lessons.

Chicago.—Since Chicago printers struck for the eight-hour day the death rate of the organization has been cut in half, according to J. C. Harding, an officer of the union, who also is a member of the board of education. The union has 3,500 members. Prior to the year ending last April the annual death rate among printers has been 40. The last year, during which most of the men have been on strike, or working eight hours a day instead of nine hours, there were only 18 deaths.

Outside the business offices of the union in the Open Board of Trade building is a spacious lounge-room, where any day a score or more of striking printers may be found. They usually are smoking and reading. If the smoke clears away sufficiently to permit of a clear view, it will be found that the "prints" are reading the life of Horace Greeley, Herbert Spencer's works, the Typographical Union Journal, the daily papers, or other thoughtful printed things.

When informed of the low death rate among their fellows, most of these serene-looking readers advanced some reason for the happy condition.

"It's the simple life we lead," said one of the strikers, as he glanced up, peering over his glasses and marking his place in the book with one finger. "It's a wonder more working printers do not die, with the stuff they have to copy, the close workrooms and the nerve-debilitating noise of machinery."

"Now, take me for an example. For nine months I have not worked. Having only ten dollars a week in strike benefits, I have had to economize. I eat less, yet I have gained flesh. Instead of riding on the street cars I walk. I probably walk ten miles a day."

"Of course, when I go to work again, I will have to work eight hours. That last hour at work is a long one, and the shorter day lengthens a man's life I am sure."

He was interrupted in his philosophy by a great uproar in the court below. Wheat had dropped off or gone up a half cent, or some other remarkable event had occurred in the pit of the minor wheat speculators. When it died into a sullen murmur the thoughtful idler continued.

"I wonder what the death rate is among those people down there?" he asked, closing his book on the finger. "They are in a constant nervous state. They worry when they are behind, and are anxious for more when they are ahead. They should go on strike and taste the delight of doing nothing, of being at peace with ten dollars a week sure and the public library available, walking ten miles a day, eating less and thinking more on abstract things. Since going on strike I have found from government reports that the people of this country produce enough to give every breadwinner $2,500 a year, if it were not wasted in competition, and if the distribution were handled as scientifically as is production."

GIRLS AS DEPUTY SHERIFFS

Young Women of New York Town Are Commissioned as Peace Officers.

White Plains, N. Y.—Two women deputy sheriffs, the first ever appointed in Westchester county, have received their badges from Sheriff James S. Merritt. They are Miss Jessie Long, of White Plains, and her friend, Miss Agnes Kennedy, of Peekskill.

Sheriff Merritt, since he has been in office, has received numerous applications from women who wish to be deputy sheriffs, but he has refused them all. The appointment of the Misses Long and Kennedy was made. It was announced, because they are well-known charity workers, and in the employ of the county as agents to investigate homes where it is decided to put children.

Sheriff Merritt jocularly told the young women that they might be called out at any time to stop prize fights and to aid him in running down criminals. The thing that is puzzling the officials at the courthouse is where the new deputies will carry their clubs and revolvers.

Highest Shipping Dock.

A dock, which has probably the highest altitude in the world, has recently been completed at Port Florence, in the Victoria Nyanza, in Uganda, Africa, at an altitude of 3,800 feet above sea level. The dock has been constructed to accommodate the Nyanza fleet plying on the lake in conjunction with the Uganda railroad. It measures 250 feet in length by 48 feet wide and 14 feet deep. It was excavated out of solid rock by native labor and occupied 12 months in construction, at a cost of $20,000.

Giraffes Stop Messages.

The latest interruption in the telegraph service on the Victoria falls line, reports the Bulawayo Chronicle, has been caused by a herd of giraffes becoming entangled by their necks in the wires at Intundhla, and pulling about a mile down. In two former cases elephants were responsible.

Grain from Argentina.

Argentina's exports of grain in the first quarter of 1906 fell considerably below 1905; wheat 70,000 tons, corn 120,000 tons, and linseed 70,000 tons.

THE FIRST COMPASS.

Was Known to Sailors Before the Twelfth Century—Indispensable Adjunct to Navigation.

Some Asian people, perhaps the Chinese, discovered, many centuries ago, that a kind of iron ore possessed a very peculiar quality. We call this ore magnetic ore, in more common language, lodestone, and it is very widely distributed, especially in the older crystalline rocks. It was found that if a bit of lodestone were placed in water upon a piece of cork or straw braid it would turn till the axis of the stone assumed a north and south position. A phenomenon of magnetism had been discovered by means of an ore that is peculiarly susceptible to magnetic influence.

It is an open question whether the Chinese utilized the directive power of the lodestone, but it is certain that the first rude compass was not used on European vessels before the twelfth century of our era. By that time the true magnetic compass had been evolved through the discovery that if an iron or steel needle were stroked on a lodestone it would receive the attractive and directive power of this ore. With this wonderful appliance placed at the service of navigation, the vessels that had hugged the coasts soon dared to venture even out of sight of land. A new impetus was gradually given to cartography, for now the true directions of the coast lines might be charted with some approach to accuracy. It was the happy fortune of Italian sailors to make the surprisingly excellent surveys of the directions and lengths of the Black sea and Mediterranean coasts and along the Atlantic to British waters that have come down to us in the so-called Portulan maps.—Cyrus C. Adams, in Harper's.

BLOATED WITH DROPSY.

The Heart Was Badly Affected When the Patient Began Using Doan's.

Mrs. Elizabeth Maxwell, of 415 West Fourth St., Olympia, Wash., says: "For over three years I suffered with a dropsical condition without being aware that it was due to kidney trouble. The early stages were principally backache and bearing down, but I went along without worrying much until dropsy set in. My feet and ankles swelled up, my hands puffed, and became so tense I could hardly close them. I had great difficulty in breathing, and my heart would flutter with the least exertion. I could not walk far without stopping again and again to rest. Since using four boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills the bloating has gone down and the feelings of distress have disappeared."

Glass That Keeps Out Heat.

An Austrian inventor, Richard Sigmund, is reported to have made a new kind of window glass whose chief peculiarity is that it prevents the passage of nine-tenths of the heat of the sun's rays. It is well known that ordinary window glass allows nearly all of the heat derived from the sun to pass through, but, on the other hand, intercepts all heat coming from non-luminous sources, such as a stove or the heated ground. This is the reason why heat accumulates under the glass roof of a hothouse.

If covered with Sigmund's glass a hothouse would, it is claimed, become a cold house, since the heat could not get into it. One advantage set forth in favor of the new glass is that a house whose windows were furnished with it would remain delightfully cool in summer. But in winter, perhaps, the situation would not be so agreeable.

Rest in Billville.

"Bill," said the man in the ox cart to the Billville postmaster, "ain't you goin' to open the office to-day?"

"No, I ain't; what do you take me for?"

"The postmaster."

"No, you don't. You take me for one of these perpetual motion machines that kin run the government for you six days out the week, an' no rest on Sunday—that's what you take me for!"

"Bill," said the other, "I've come five miles and better to git my mail!"

"Well, if I open up for you all the res' 'I want their's, an' I've done notified the postmaster ginral that it's my week off; 'sides that, that ain't no mail fer you—'cept a letter from a lumber man sayin' that if you don't pay up he'll sue, an' another from your wife tellin' you to send her money to come home. So go 'long an' enjoy yer honeymoon."—Atlanta Constitution.

BEAUTIFUL WOMAN FRAUD!

Captures African Potentate in Matrimonial Bonds and Pays Debts.

Vienna.—An interesting sequel to the exploits of an adventuress has just come to light. A few years ago a young woman attracted great attention in Vienna by reason of her beauty and her luxurious mode of living. She was a mystery to the Viennese. No one knew who she was or where she came from. At one time she would give herself the name of an old aristocratic family; on another occasion she would represent herself as the daughter of a titled Englishman.

She was remarkably gifted. In spite of her youth she could speak a dozen European languages, and was a first-class pianist. One day she suddenly disappeared and left behind her numerous unpaid bills. The creditors set the law in motion, but she could not be found. Subsequently the Viennese creditors learned that she had played the same game that marked her stay in the Austrian capital. She had contracted so many debts that, having reached the end of her tether, she caused an announcement of death to be sent to Vienna.

Meanwhile she journeyed to the south of France, where she made the acquaintance of an African potentate who invited her to become his wife—his third or fourth wife. He could permit himself this levity, for he is a Mohammedan. The adventuress accepted the offer, went over to Islam, and has since resided with her husband. The latter has just settled up with the Parisian and Viennese creditors.

INDIANS DROP OLD CUSTOM

Reciprocity in Present Giving Is Considered by Them Too Risky.

Arkansas City, Kan.—The Otoe Indians lately returned to their reservation after spending a week visiting the Kaws near Kaw City. These visits usually occupy a longer time and the entire programme is taken up with dancing, feasting, smoking and the giving of gifts by the entertaining tribe. The visit just ended broke up a little sooner than was expected on account of a streak of inhospitality which developed in the Kaws.

A number of the Kaws reached the conclusion that this custom of giving away everything they had and taking the risk of the other tribe returning the treatment at some later date was too much of a risk. They hesitated in this instance in warming up to their guests in the matter of giving them a large number of ponies and other Indian valuables.

The Otoes became quite indignant, and had the time been 50 years ago there would probably have been a battle. As it was there was a few-pow-wow of the visitors and a few fist encounters took place. Wah-Shun-Gah, chief of the Kaws, stepped into the breach and prevented further hostilities. The visit was cut short and it will be some time before the Kaws are invited to the Otoe reservation.

ATTACKED BY FLYING FISH

Schooner in Hawaiian Waters Made a Target for Thousands of the Creatures.

Honolulu.—The steamer Claudine was attacked by flying fish in the Hawaiian channel, between the Islands of Hawaii and Maui, a few days ago. The searchlight on the vessel evidently attracted and angered the fish. A large school of the fish suddenly rose out of the water and instead of flying away from the boat, as is usually the case with that variety of fish, they flew over the bow of the craft. One of them flew directly for the light and broke the glass, putting the light out of commission. A dozen fish reached the upper bridge of the vessel and two struck the side of the man on watch, nearly knocking him over.

It has been noted by island captains that the searchlights seem to affect the flying fish in a very strange way. The fish evidently do not like the bright light cast upon the waters, for they invariably fly at the light, probably in an effort to extinguish it, after the fashion of moths trying to extinguish a candle.

YOUNGEST VETERAN FOUND

Kansas City Veteran Who Served in the Civil War When Under Eleven.

Springfield, Ill.—Perhaps the really youngest soldier in the union army of the civil war has been discovered at last. We have in Springfield a veteran who at 13 years of age was driving the artillery horses at Gettysburg in the hottest place of the second day. But it seems that Gilbert Van Zandt, now a vigorous young man of 55, past commander of the Grand Army at Kansas City, enlisted as drummer boy in the Seventy-ninth Ohio regiment, August 6, 1862, being then ten years seven months and sixteen days old. He served until the close of the war. During Sherman's march to the sea he was dispatched carrier; his father was sergeant in the same company. He was described in his discharge papers as "13 years old and four feet high."

Lottery Tickets in Turkey.

Recent regulations in Turkey aim to abolish completely the sale within the empire of foreign lottery tickets. Any receiver, seller, buyer or holder of a foreign lottery ticket is now liable to prosecution, incurring a fine of $4.40 to $13.20 for the first offense and $13.20 to $44 for a second conviction.

ALL FOND OF PEANUTS.

Delicacy Relished by All Animals—Even the Hippopotamus Devours Them with Pleasure.

"The peanut is a delicacy relished by all creatures," said a New York animal lover. "I have come to this conclusion after having offered it to every animal in the Central Park zoo, and having it refused by none."

"Oh, I know it isn't allowed; but I'm not one of those individuals who offer animals indiscriminate numbers of hard-boiled eggs, frankfurters, cheese sandwiches and cigar stumps. It's for that sort of nuisance the rule about feeding is made. A single peanut can't ruin the digestion of a camel—or of any other creature, for that matter, and I never visit the zoo without a bag or two of those legumes to distribute."

"Yes, the camel is fond of them—very; and so are the peacocks. The hippopotamus obligingly opens his mouth to let me toss one in, but the mouth is so large and the peanut so small that I doubt if he can quite decide whether he likes it or not."

"The kangaroo pokes his funny, horse-like head out to me, munches the peanut with relish, and then begs for more. The elephant, deer, ostrich, and even the lion, are all lovers of the peanut."

No Improvement.

In one of the Sunday schools in Malden, Mass., recently the teacher of a class of small boys inquired of each one if he thought he had been a better boy during the year. Each answer was in the affirmative except one little fellow about eight years old, who was conspicuous for his silence. The teacher put the question to him a second time, when with considerable earnestness he replied: "I am just as worse as I ever was."

German Patent Office Faults.

The German patent office comes in for much censure. One would suppose such an institution to exact no more of inventors than is needed to pay current expenses, but in reality the charges are so high that the state pockets half the income as profit. It is pointed out that for poor inventors matters are almost as bad as they were when Gutenberg, after inventing the art of printing, lived in poverty and finally had to pawn his apparatus.

BROKEN OFF SHORT.

Live slowly if you would live long. Baldness is seldom becoming to the man who is becoming bald.

A man's good intentions are all right, though they seldom add much to his income.

The self-made man may still prove to be an easy mark for the machine-made politician.

"The Romans had small regard for human life in their amusements." "Yes," answered the man of violent prejudices. "It's a matter of great surprise to me that they failed to discover football."—Washington Star.

Girl Horsebreaker.

Miss Winnonah Von Ohl, a New Jersey girl 20 years old, is making quite a reputation as a horsebreaker. Five years ago, a slender slip of a girl, she went to South Dakota with her mother, who had been sent thither for a change of climate. Miss Winnonah learned to ride bronchos out there and on returning east she took to training and breaking horses, in which work she has been remarkably successful. She has never sustained any injury while thus engaged.

Accept Signatures in Irish.

Irish language revivalists have just scored a notable victory. The directors of the National bank have agreed to accept checks signed in Irish, provided the signature is repeated in English. One of the advantages of this system, as the bank points out, is that it acts as a double protection against forgery.

OPERATION AVOIDED

EXPERIENCE OF MISS MERKLEY

She Was Told That an Operation Was Inevitable—How She Escaped It.

When a physician tells a woman suffering with serious feminine trouble that an operation is necessary, the very thought of the knife and the operating table strikes terror to her heart, and our hospitals are full of women coming for just such operations.

There are cases where an operation is the only resource, but when one considers the great number of cases of menacing female troubles cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after physicians have advised operations, no woman should submit to one without first trying the Vegetable Compound and writing Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for advice, which is free.

Miss Margaret Merkley, of 275 Third Street, Milwaukee, Wis., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham: "Loss of strength, extreme nervousness, shooting pains through the pelvic organs, bearing down pains and cramps compelled me to seek medical advice. The doctor, after making an examination, said I had a female trouble and ulceration and advised an operation. To this I strongly objected and decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. The ulceration quickly healed, all the bad symptoms disappeared and I am once more strong, vigorous and well."

Female troubles are steadily on the increase among women. If the monthly periods are very painful, or too frequent and excessive—if you have pain or swelling low down in the left side bearing-down pains, don't neglect your self; try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.
