Jack O' Diamonds.

Mutual Dramatic Co. Makes a "Hit" in the Presentation of this Popular Drama.

The Globe takes pleasure in saying good things about Home Dramatic companies and it is a source of satisfaction to note that three-fourths of the traveling troupes that visit our town might do well to pattern after home companies and save considerable criticism.

We are safe in saying that the bunch of amateurs who took part in the presentation of "Jack O' Diamonds" at the hall last Saturday night, could tour America from New York to the Coast and win a home in every town.

Thomas Rampton as "Jack O, Diamonds" and N. C. Mortensen as Daniel Peabody, the whole-souled gambler, couldn't be beat by professionals of a half life time experience and who ever saw a "bum," "tramp" or "tender-foot" that could hold a candle to Old Pop, the Outcast, as represented by M. M. Rampton, the whirlwind.

Now, Felix Baird isn't to be sneered at as a villain, and he certainly made a cracker-jack as a lover and we wouldn't blame any girl for running away with him. Talk about your old Mexican Greasers, why, we hardly knew Fred Rogers and imagined that we were down in Texas near the Mexican line. A Florida "Coon," well Baxter must have been there on a mission or did a whole lot of practicing. As a bar tender and landlord, he certainly knew how to run the business and set up the drinks. Say, that Old Maid Cordelia was a "hummer." Whoever thought Alice Grover liked the men so well as to allow a fellow like Peabody to hug her. She enjoyed being hugged.

too, but it took Mr. Peabody an awful long time to convert her, but his patience proved an everlasting reward. Speaking seriously, Mrs. J. R. Kennard as Annie Dennison, the falsely accused wife, certainly played her roll in splendid style and was ably supported by her daughters—1st, Miss Lucile Lant as Little Leona and later Mrs. Geo. F. Grover as Leona Diamond.

A crowded house greeted the company both at the afternoon matinee and the evening performance. Every reserved seat for the evening performance was sold at 4 p. m. in the afternoon.

The company presented the same play at Plymouth last night and will reproduce the show here next Monday night for the benefit of the Garland Amusement hall. Widows and Missionaries' wives go in free. Tuesday night, March 15th, the company goes to Bothwell to play to a crowded house. We hope the company will take the show to Brigham and Malad.

New Manager for Studebaker Bros. Co.

W. H. Stevenson, auditor of Studebaker Bros. Co., spent most of this week in Garland and in company with Ed. C. Wheatly, local manager, has been busily engaged in auditing the books of the firm.

We were informed that a change in the local management of the company will be made soon and J. F. Owens will be appointed as local manager to succeed Ed. Wheatley, who is to receive a promotion.

Married in Los Angeles.

The marriage of Miss Sarah Fowler and David P. Squires was solemnized at the home of her aunt, Mrs. E. J. Moore of Los Angeles, California, Monday, February 28th, Rev. Hugh K. Walker of the Presbyterian church officiating.

The rooms of Mrs. Moore's pretty little home were decorated in pink and white carnations and smilax. Mrs. W. P. Eton, formerly of this city, assisted in the decorations and Elder Jos H. Kirkham and companion furnished the music for the occasion. The bride was handsomely attired in cream surge trimmed in gold, and wore orange blossoms that were contributed by an aunt of Mrs. Galpin of Tremonton. The best man was Edwin Moore, a cousin of Miss Fowler, and the bride's maid was Miss Lora Catell of Pasadena.

A host of friends of the young couple were present and "mid showers of rice the newly wedded pair received hearty congratulations and best wishes from all present. Delicate refreshments were served.

Miss Fowler, who is the daughter of Mrs. J. C. Wheelon of this city, is a very popular young lady who is well and favorably known.

The groom is a popular young conductor of the O. S. L. R. R. Co., and formerly resided in Brigham City, where he has many friends.

The young couple are expected home in a few days and will be at home to their many friends after March 15th, at Ogden, Utah.

The Globe unites with their many friends in wishing them peace, happiness and prosperity.

St. Elmo

as presented by Lorch & Sutton at the Garland Opera House Thursday night, was one of the best high-class performances that has visited our city this season. We congratulate the Opera House management for booking this splendid company that has given the theatre going public full value for their money even though the prices were higher than usual.

The house was well filled.

You may rest assured that when you see Lorch & Sutton on the bill boards, that a guaranteed attraction is in store for you.

The advance sale for "A Servant of the Law" presented by the company last night was good. We went to press prior to the production, but are confident that the play and the company both gave entire satisfaction.

The papers of the state have lots of good things to say concerning these productions.

Will Garland Hold the Rural Route?

A. J. Bradley, Uncle Sam's rural route inspector, was here last week investigating the matter concerning the rural route from this city to Stone Idaho. Malad is after the route, Tremonton is pulling for it, Garland has it at present, but will she hold it? Of course Garland, the central city and the metropolis of the Bear River Valley, is the most desirable place for the headquarters of this route and why any change should be made is a puzzler. Double the amount of people receive service over the present route than the change would give and we sincerely hope the route will remain from Garland to Stone.

The bids for carrying the mail will have considerable to do in matter, but we feel confident that Garland will win out.

A communication was read from the Bay View Woman's Reading Club of Detroit, Mich., asking the L. S. C. C. to subscribe for the historical reading course issued by said club. Matter referred to reading committee.

Mesdames Lettie Lant and Hilda Nordquist read "The Silber Buckle" to the members.

Delicious refreshments were served and the club adjourned for two weeks to meet at the home of Mrs. Hilda Nordquist.

Marshal Mortensen Grows an Arm.

It's wonderful to record, but true nevertheless. If you don't believe it there's just enough Missouri in ye editor to show you.

We were coming down the street the other day and saw a man walking in front of us who looked like our city marshal, only that he had to arms instead of but one. We thought at first it was Mortensen's twin brother and was about to scrape up an acquaintance with him, when he turned around and said: "How does it look?" To our surprise he had grown a fine arm that was just as natural as life and we had to look twice to tell it was our jolly marshal. Of course the arm is a product of Philadelphia, but we take pleasure in congratulating Mr. Mortensen in securing this new improvement in his physique.
