FIRST WARD GIVES FINE PROGRAM

Apostle Reed Smoot Gives Instructive and Entertaining Talk

Sunday evening a large crowd were entertained at the City Pavilion by the first ward. Each week these programs are becoming better attended, showing the appreciation the people have for the endeavors of the workers who are arranging them. Sunday evening program was carried out as follows: Henry A. Gardner, master of ceremonies. The congregation, led by Wm. B. Frost sang, "High on the Mountain Top." Invocation was offered by Bishop R. W. McKell. Heber Brockbank sang a beautiful solo entitled "Meet Me in Dreamland Tonight." Apostle Reed Smoot held the audience captivated for about an hour. He spoke of the necessity for every person in every walk of life to have a pure clean life, of the necessity of man's believing in a Divine Creator. He gave illustration from his own experience and the experience of others. He said he wish he was able to bring some of the eastern people into some of our Mormon homes and show to them the peace and harmony existing there and hoped that the time was not far distant when we could welcome everybody in our midst and take them to our homes as companions. Miss Ellen Jones sang very beautifully "Safe in My Father's Mansion." Miss Jennie Lewis rendered a well chosen piano selection. Benediction was offered by Miss Bettie Gardner. The services were interrupted near the close by the violent electrical storm which shook the windows and set off the lights. Next Sunday evening the Second Ward M. I. A. will give the program. A pleasant evening's entertainment is assured all who will attend.

RESULT OF TOO MUCH MONEY

Prosperity and Certain Forms of Blindness Seem to Go Hand in Hand. Prosperity is a disease which attacks those who have too much money. It is a violent ailment, and affects its victims in various ways, says a writer in Lippincott's. Sometimes it in its almost total blindness, so that victims may ride on an elevated car or other vehicle through blocks of flames filled with poverty-stricken people, without being aware of it. In other cases men suffering from prosperity have been known to hand over great quantities of books, even when these poor did not know where their next meal was coming from. In still other cases, sufferers from prosperity, which many doctors look upon as a species of megalomania, have secured complete control of an important article of food, such as wheat, and when the people objected the resultant increase in price, they cured them for their pestilence and lack of confidence in the prosperity of the business world. The remedy would yield readily to treatment, but for the unfortunate fact that those afflicted with it seem to be incurable.

DANGER IN POLICE METHODS

Materialism and the "Third Degree" Seem Hardly Compatible With Justice. A competent exponent of hypnosis today believes that a person is obliged to execute all hypnosis commands given him. And while still clinging to the idea that hypnotic crimes are possible, the consensus of scientific opinion is that no person who would not in his normal state perpetrate the crime suggested by the hypnotist, if hypnotized. He is equally certain, though, that the hypnotic influence people are now to accuse themselves of crimes have not committed. This is a danger which ought to be carefully guarded against in courts of law. There is reason to believe that "police confessions" extracted from accused persons by the use of the so-called "third degree" and afterward found to be untrue made in a hypnotic state, are a constant questioning of the police, their pitiless insistence that "he is guilty and knows it," may develop in him that a hysterical condition in which he has already been said, he may be spontaneously hypnotized by an intense noise or the sudden flash of a light.—Woman's Home Companion

WRONG IN THEIR JUDGMENT

Youthful Physicists in Fault at Placing Object of Their Admiration.

They were youthful enthusiasts in physiognomy. On the seat opposite in the train was a man of commanding figure, massive brow and serious expression. "Splendid face!" one of them exclaimed. "What do you suppose his life-work has been?"

"A lawyer?" suggested the other. "No; there's too much benevolence in that face for a lawyer."

"Maybe a banker?"

"Oh, no. A man with an expression like that couldn't have spent his life in merely turning over money."

"He might be an editor."

"An editor? Cutting and slashing his enemies at every turn, and even his friends occasionally, for the sake of a smart paragraph? You can't read faces. That man's a philanthropist, or engaged in some sort of public-spirited work. Why, there isn't a line that doesn't indicate strength of purpose and nobility. Look at that curve there on the left!"

At the next station an old countryman took his seat beside the man with massive brow and soon entered into a conversation with him, in the course of which he asked the latter "what was his line."

The two opposite held their breath in the intensity of their interest.

"Oh, I've got a little tavern and butcher shop back in the country a bit," was the proud reply. "My wife tends to the meals, and I do my own killing."—Youth's Companion.

BELONG TO SOUTHERN CITY

Institutions Indigenous to New Orleans Call Forth Criticism From Stranger.

Sheridan Ploughe of Hutchinson recently returned from a trip to New Orleans, taken to see how Uncle Sam is building the big ditch. He stopped in New Orleans to have a look at the Mardi Gras.

"They have two institutions in New Orleans that seem to be to the manner born," said Ploughe, the other day. "They think they have a thing only on these. One is the French opera and the other is the Mardi Gras. They say that the opera is a leading feature of their social life. For over 90 years they have had this kind of music and I rather think now it is honored more for its age than for anything else. Some of our money went to the opera. Some stayed at home. Those who went congratulated these who stayed. When the opera had its highest run it was about 1870. There was to New Orleans society. Not to be a subscriber, or at least not to be a regular attendant, was tantamount to being ignored by society, and to being looked upon as a person lacking in taste. It was a small affair and on each Tuesday and Saturday night—full dress, head wear, et cetera, and white gloves for the men, and for the women all that New Orleans society would stand for. The display of dress was positively startling to a stranger. All of which reminds me of Jerry Simpson. He attended a small social function in Washington, and his wife, who had not attended, asked Jerry when he got home how the women were dressed. The quick-witted Jerry replied: 'Well, my dear, I cannot tell you. I did not look under the table.'"
