FACTS VS. SENTIMENT

Reasons Why Cache Voters Should Support Hon. Jos. Howell.

W. H. KING COULD DO NO GOOD

In a Congress that is Overwhelmingly Republican--As a Democratic Representative He Would Not Be Recognized.

Many Democratic voters in Cache county recognize in Hon. Jos. Howell a playmate of boyhood days, a companion in sports and games, a school chum, and in maturer years a man whom they have welcomed to their firesides as a personal friend to themselves; a man who has many times befriended them when a friend in need was a friend indeed; a man whom they have watched grow from boyhood to manhood and in whose advancement they have felt a personal interest; and many there are of these same Democratic friends who will remember these things and will permit their friendship to stem the tide of hide-bound partisanship and cast a vote for their friend, Hon. Jos. Howell. Mr. Howell will appreciate this of course, but neither he nor the Republican party desire to make this an issue in the present campaign. There is no disposition to urge upon the voters of Cache county sentimental reasons as to why they should vote for the Republican nominee--there is a better reason, the best reason why they should do so, and we have sufficient confidence in the intelligence of Cache county voters to believe that they can and will see that it is to their advantage and to the glory of Cache county and the State of Utah that they cast their vote for Hon. Joseph Howell.

In the first place, all that is claimed for the Democratic nominee, W. H. King, is that he is "a brilliant orator, a gentleman and a scholar." It is urged that these qualifications would secure for him the attention of our Congressional body and enable him to secure for the State of Utah many advantages unobtainable by a man possessing equal or more ability but in a less showy degree. We are willing to grant to King all the virtues and qualifications his most ardent friends claim for him, but though he possessed ten times the qualifications in ten times greater degree he could and would command no more attention in our Congressional body than the least of those who vote for him. Those people who are familiar with the manner in which national business is conducted know that speeches before the Congressional body are of little moment, and unless made on some feature that is very important and by some speaker of national fame, are seldom listened to by either Senators or Representatives. And the one feature that must and will impress itself upon the minds of Cache county voters is that it is useless to send any man to Congress who is not in line with the administration, be that man ever so brilliant and eloquent. An able man might be listened to, but every voter knows that the administration is not granting any favors to men who are opposed to the administration. The Republican leaders, committees and party managers in Congress are favoring only those Representatives and Senators who uphold the administration--not those who seek to tear it down--and as a consequence Judge King's requests and speeches in behalf of Utah would count for less than nothing. These are plain facts and Democrats will recognize them as facts and vote accordingly. What is the use of sending to Congress a man who can not and will not be recognized?

Although Hon. Jos. Howell is the equal of W. H. King in breadth and capacity of mind, as a politician, as a moral gentleman, and superior as a man of varied and successful business experience, etc. etc. the sake of argument that comparison of the two men results as unfavorably to Howell as the Democratic press would have us believe, yet with all this Mr. Howell as the Republican Representative could and would command in five minutes more attention and more favors in behalf of Utah than W. H. King could secure during a whole term as representative. These are facts. Hon. Joseph Howell is on the right side of the fence when it comes to asking for anything Utah may want and W. H. King is on the wrong side. If the Democrats were in the saddle at Washington, the case would be reversed and Mr. Howell would be of little moment--but the Democrats are not in power and will not be in power for a long while to come, so why should the voters of Cache county and of Utah for that matter, send to Congress W. H. King when they must realize that he would be of no earthly use there. Why not vote for Hon. Joseph Howell a man who is capable of representing the State as ably as W. H. King and at the same time a man who can easily command those things which King can not touch.

THE SENATORIAL SITUATION.

There seems to be no new developments in the Senatorial situation at present. Each candidate is pulling all the strings known to him to secure the nomination. A disposition on the part of a few to have the matter settled before the convention is pulled off, seems to be meeting with little encouragement. Most of the voters feel that the convention is called for the purpose of making a decision between the candidates and should hardly be robbed of this privilege. We feel sure that those who have been endeavoring to arrange matters so that but one candidate for the Senatorial nomination would go before the convention, have the best interests of the party at heart, but the voters are not inclined to see it that way and it is very doubtful whether anything will be accomplished along this line. Those who urge the settling of the matter before convention day, insist that for one man to go before the convention will mean harmony and good will and the hearty support of the entire Republican element without danger of ill feeling; that it would be the proper thing for the two hindmost candidates to drop out and let the foremost man be brought before the convention, thus insuring perfect unity. This would seem to be a good thing, but it is impossible to get at the strength of the individual candidates so as to determine which is the head man. Each man has a strong following, and it will take the convention to decide the matter. Mr. John Hendrickson is the man who has agitated this idea to the greatest extent, and his position is certainly a fair one. "If it is found that I am one of the hindmost men in this race, I want to drop out and give my hearty and loyal support to the man who seems to be the choice of the voters," says Mr. Hendrickson, "I am perfectly willing to go before the convention and let that body decide between us, but I believe that for but one man to go before that convention would mean much for the party's good, and I am for that first, last and always." Mr. Hendrickson means what he says, and his position is hardly the result of any fear of the result of the convention, for his strength is undoubted. Although Mr. Hendrickson's wishes in this matter are not acceded to, such a disposition can do him no harm in his race.

Newton Newslets.

Postmaster J. N. Hansen was transacting business in Logan Monday.

Newton will be represented regularly in the columns of The Republican from this time on.

The friends of Mrs. Mary B. Larsen will be glad to learn that she is recovering from her recent severe attack of typhoid.

Republican primaries for the Newton district will be held at 8 o'clock Thursday evening Oct. 9th. The chairman urges as large attendance as possible.

Some of us over here feel that Jno Hendrickson should be the nominee for State Senator, and will go into the convention and vote for our man, but will come out and work hard for the nominee, whoever he may be.

We're all for Howell over here. When the division on party lines was made there were 13 Republican votes cast. From that small beginning has grown a Republican vote of a hundred and "still there's more to follow." J. N. Hansen has the present campaign in charge and will do everything that can be done to roll up a big Republican vote. He is one of the original Republicans and knows the conditions from start to finish.

Voters needing any incentive to vote for the Republican administration should compare conditions now with what they were in '93. Then, wheat sold at 25c a bushel and no one had enough money to buy it at that. Work was not to be had. Today enough men can not be secured to harvest the crops and do the threshing. Hands command $1.75 at threshing and get it too. There's a great difference in favor of Republicanism.

WELLSVILLE HAS A BIG TIME

Republican State Campaign Opened There Tuesday Night by Congressman Sutherland and Congressman-to-be Hon. Joseph Howell.

TOWN TURNS OUT IN FORCE TO HONOR HER FAVORED SON.

Speeches arouse Great Enthusiasm, Indicating that Our Sister Town is No Longer the Democratic Gibraltar She Once Was.

With the roar of cannon, the sweet cadence of music, and inspiring speeches by the party's ablest leaders, the Republican State campaign was opened at Wellsville Tuesday night, and if the opening may be taken as an indication of the final result there is little doubt that the grand old party with its glorious past will receive an overwhelming indorsement at the polls in November and Hon. Joe Howell will sit in Congress as the next representative of this great commonwealth.

The Wellsville meeting house, that spacious old building that has seen many other stirring times, was well filled with the citizens of that community who had come to do honor to the occasion and to hold up the hands of their gifted and favored son. Considering that Wellsville is claimed as a Democratic stronghold, and the fact that the campaign is but just born, the crowd that turned out on this occasion was remarkable, and the evident enthusiastic and confident feeling of the Wellsville Republicans a feature that can not be overlooked by the Democracy of this county who believe that Cache is yet within their grasp. The stage was a mass of bunting, and at either end was a large picture of that beloved martyr President, Wm. McKinley, and the present chief executive, Theodore Roosevelt, draped in flags. At mere mention of either of these gifted sons of America, the audience broke forth into hearty applause, thus indicating their confidence in the present and past administrations. From the beginning, to the end of Geo. A. Smith's able address, there was manifested a spirit of enthusiasm and good cheer as to augur well for the Republican ticket in that locality at the coming election.

At 8 o'clock the meeting was called to order by Wm. Maughan, Jr., who presided throughout the evening. Mr. Maughan addressed the audience in a few words, stating the purpose of the meeting, and after a rousing selection by the band and a well rendered campaign song by the Wellsville Glee Club, introduced our next Congressman, Hon. Joseph Howell. Mr. Howell stepped forward, and was greeted with a round of applause that must have done his heart good. It gave him a confidence that was manifested throughout a speech of great strength and considerable length.

In fact Mr. Howell made a speech that was a surprise to even his closest friends, for while they have always recognized him as a man of great business capacity and a man who has kept in touch with the leading questions of the day, they had hardly dreamed that his familiarity and penetration extended so far.

He touched upon all the leading questions--imperialism, silver, trusts, tariff, the Philippine question, and dealt with each in that clear, forcible and earnest manner that is one of his characteristics. He had at his tongues end such an array of figures in regard to losses on lumber, corn, oats, wheat, and all industries, that occurred under Democratic misrule as to stagger the average farmer. Mr. Howell went into detail in such a masterly manner as to indicate that his knowledge of the questions of the day is not merely a surface knowledge, but that he studied deeply those questions of vital importance to our great country and is well able to vote in an intelligent manner when these matters come before Congress. He also touched upon the "Arid Land Act," a bill of great importance to the west, that will come up before the next Congress and he expressed himself as being in favor of that bill. He arraigned Senator Rawlins for his attack upon our army, and for his failure to vote for any measure calculated to regulate them. Mr. Howell's speech was not delivered with any attempt at oratory, but as a man who understands what he says. If perchance there were any in the audience at Wellsville who doubted Mr. Howell's ability to represent Utah in Congress satisfactorily, had that doubt dispelled and the truth forced upon them that the Republican nominee can represent this great State as ably as W. H. King or any other man. At the end of his speech Mr. Howell sat down amid great applause.

At this juncture a "Juvenile Republican Glee Club," composed of a number of boys ranging from ten to fifteen years let forth a rousing campaign song that elevated Howell to a Congressman's seat and relegated "Billy King" to a back seat in the cellar. This was roundly encored but the boys failed to respond.

Congressman Sutherland was then introduced and made a speech of such sound logic, combined with an array of facts and figures and in such a calm, non-partisan manner, that it will take W. H. King more than three weeks to tear it to pieces. Mr. Sutherland touched everything on the political calendar and his familiarity with the questions in hand lent conviction to his words. His first words were in commendation of the candidates on State ticket, Mr. Howell and Judge McCarty. Mr. Sutherland said in effect: "In the halls of Congress it is not oratory, it is not social standing, it is not blow and show that counts for most. The greatest orators of both houses speak to empty seats. In Congress, as elsewhere, it is character that counts. When a man of undoubted character, a man who holds the confidence of his co-workers, arises and says 'I have investigated this bill and know it to be for the good of the country,' it counts for more than all the great speeches such a man will be Joe Howell and such will be his record." Judge McCarty came in for his share, and those who claim ignorance of that worthy man, could have learned something had they been present. Mr. Sutherland then took up Chairman Cannon's manifesto in regard to King following Howell and made a distinct hit. This speaker did not credit Republicans with perfection and did not lay all the blame on the Democracy, but made one of those candid open speeches calculated to convince listeners who are thinkers. He reviewed the history of the Democratic party from 1860, when that party upheld States Rights down to the last campaign when imperialism and free silver was the issue. He showed how States Rights was proved to be wrong, how free trade was proved to be the worst thing for the country, how free silver was shown to be of no value, how the imperialistic bugbear was exploded, and contrasted these questions with the glorious history of Republican issues. He took up the Democratic issue in regard to the Philippines and made it look like thirty cents. He didn't deny some barbarity on the part of the American soldiers, nor did he excuse it, but he did say these individual cases could not be laid to the whole army and offered testimony showing the scandalous treachery of the natives that led up to such action on the part of the American soldiery. Mr. Sutherland's talk was well received and was cheered frequently.

A song by the Glee Club was forthcoming and Hon. Geo. A. Smith of Salt Lake was introduced. George went to the Democratic position with hammer and tongs and knocked the foundation of the whole concern to smithereens in about twenty-five minutes. The information he can call readily to mind is prodigious and the way he poured it into that assembly was inspiring. Besides presenting good old facts in an excellent manner, Mr. Smith has a happy faculty of telling good jokes with a good point to them and in this way entertains as well as instructs. He gave the sugar question a round that was rather convincing and brought in our own plant by way of illustration, a condition that can easily be appreciated by the farmers of Cache valley. He also took a fall out of Rawlins and touched Chairman Cannon's manifesto in a way that brought out big smiles of the expansion variety. Smith is an expansionist from head to heel, and offered some of the best reasons why he is an expansionist and why expansion is the best thing for these United States.

Among those present from Logan were: Chairman Odell, J. A. Hendrickson, Herchel Bullen Jr., Thomas Smart, Postmaster Murdock, E. C. Lloyd, H. A. Pedersen, D. R. Roberts, Joe Squires, J. E. Squires, Sheriff Rigby, P. E. Keeler, (who took his little threshing machine along and caught it all), and the editor.

C. E. Lloyd, candidate for commissioner, is coming along satisfactory to himself and friends. His capability and familiarity with the county make him a formidable candidate.

Herschel Bullen, Jr., says his chances for the Senatorial nomination are very bright, and his friends insist that he will surely be nominated. In view of the fact that others are claiming the same thing, somebody must be mistaken. It is but a week now till the convention will decide.

One candidate for a certain office says that money is being used in an effort to secure a certain nomination. He didn't say who it was nor for what office, but did say that if he found the statement to be true he would expose it before the convention and raise the devil generally.

Respected Woman Gone

Mrs. Harriet J. Parry died at her home in the 5th Ward of this city on Tuesday evening September 30. The immediate cause of her death is assigned as typhoid, but it is generally believed that the shock incident to the death of her daughter, Mrs. W. W. Maughan, just thirteen days before, was the real cause of her death. Mrs. Parry was the widow of John Parry, and leaves one son and three daughters. Funeral services will be held at the Tabernacle tomorrow (Friday, Oct. 3.) at noon.

Mrs. Parry was a much beloved woman 73 years of age and a host of friends mourn her departure. The grief stricken relatives have the deepest sympathy of the entire community.

FIVE GIRLS OF LOGAN

On the Downward Paths to Dyspepsia Via Center Street.

SHOULD BE KEPT IN SCHOOL.

Gad the Streets All the Time and Can't Even Heat Water Without Scorching It. Evidently They Need Attention.

Tuesday afternoon while cooking school was in session, a reporter for the Republican found five young women of this town gadding Center street. Their names are: Well, we will not give their names this time but will substitute other names, more for their parents than anything else.

Miss Mabel Millington of 701 Broadway. Miss Ines Post of 1520 West Union. Miss Myrtle Harthington of 820 Bowery.

Mrs. John Slowby 419 Bowery. Miss Earl Rizer of 427 Centre.

These girls are all daughters of respectable parents, though none of them are rich. The girls all wear good clothes, and the Millington girl, at least, though she is only seventeen years old, is so badly over-dressed that people wonder what her mother can be thinking about. The girl boasts among her friends that she does not intend to learn to cook, and that she will never have to. Her father went through the bankruptcy court last year. Old settlers say the Millington girl's mother used to make the same boasts. One of her father's creditors was a baker whom Millington owed $215 for bread, pies and cookies bought since 1891. The Post girl is a newcomer, but she brags that no woman can "learn her to cook like her mother can." She can make ten kinds of candy, four kinds of cake, and six kinds of things with whipped cream. But she doesn't know boiled meat from broiled meat, and has never cooked a meal in her life. She doesn't even know how to boil potatoes with their jackets on.

The Harthington girl is a snappy little piece, who knows a lot of boy stories and is all the time making breaks and laughing at them. She looks at the ground when she walks, and minces along as though she was too nice for this world. She is always grunting on wash day and her poor mother hasn't had a new dress since 1888, though Myrtle is dressed to kill. John Slowby is a railroad man. He has been married for three years. He turns his money over to his wife every pay day and she has bills for canned goods and ready-made food at six grocery stores. Their grocery bill is over $30 a month, and John can't see where it goes. He should lock in the slop bucket. Half the food she cooks is spoiled and none of it is ever made over.

The girls say there isn't a single button on Earle Rizer's dress, except the forty-two buttons on the back of her shirt waist. They call her the human pin cushion.

That is the kind of girls that avoid the cooking school. They are not housemakers, and Logan boys who are looking for honest girls who will help make a living should pass them up. They also flirt with traveling men, and young fellows claim that you can love them the second night you call. These are harsh words, the cause is a great one, and The Republican believes that the end justifies the means. If girls can't go to cooking school, they can at least show respect for it by stopping their gadding for a few days.

Thanks, Miller, Thanks.

We have received the first and second numbers of the Logan Republican, a handsome six column quarto newspaper established at Logan, Utah, by N. Ralph Moore, a former valued employe of the Transcript. Mr. Moore is an ambitious young man of exceptional ability as a versatile writer. Besides he is an excellent printer, which, together with his other good qualities, will assure him success.--Dresden, Ohio, Transcript.

Hyrum Primaries.

There has been a misunderstanding among the Hyrum people as to when the primaries are to be held. The Chairman wants it distinctly understood that Thursday, Oct. 9th is the date and the City Hall the place. 8 o'clock p. m. is deemed as the proper time. Hyrum voters will please govern themselves accordingly.
