Last Wednesday while Willard Hansen and Alfred Cole were fishing in Logan canyon they happened onto a black bear. The following day, Hyrum Dewitt and A. G. Barber joined the first two gentlemen and they all made a genuine hunt for Mr. Bruin, but they were unsuccessful. David Theurer, the forest ranger, saw seven bear at different times in the vicinity of Toney's Grove last week, and found a place where a cow had been devoured. This being the case, there should be good sport in the canyon about this time.

Owing to the unusual length of the performance of "Parsifal," which is to be given at the Thatcher opera house tonight, the curtain will rise on the first act promptly at 7:45 p. m. There are four acts, each one of which requires about forty minutes for its enactment. The intermissions are comparatively short and the final curtain falls at 11:00 o'clock. It is a rule of the performance, and the management gives assurance that the rules will be strictly enforced, that everyone must be seated before the theater is darkened, which means before the music begins. Late comers will not be shown to their seats until the conclusion of the act. Warning of the approach for time of commencement will be given by trumpeters in the lobby entrance.

For fine up-to-date Ladies' Coats go to Eliason Sisters.

It must be hard for A. G. Barber to ask a republican to vote for him, knowing that he would do all he could to elect a democratic United States Senator, who in turn would do all he could to hamper and check the progress of republican policies, as administered by President Roosevelt. Yet he did this and was turned down. Republicans should not heed the democratic candidate when he makes his smooth appeals. A vote for him is a vote for a democratic United States Senator.

We can recall but one farce comedy which for over twenty years has more than held its own against all comers and laughed all imitators out of sight, and that one is "Peck's Bad Boy," which comes to Thatcher's opera house Friday night. It is the only authorized dramatization of ex Governor George W. Peck's famous sketches from real life under the same title, and enjoys his hearty approval and indorsement. Rewritten, to admit of the effective introduction of additional mirth and mischief and a number of new specialties, it is heralded as brimful of the brightest fun and most comical action ever staged, and is a big winner all along the line.

Miss Margaret Wilson, of this city, was on the program at the recent meeting of the State Federation of Women's Club. The Tribune's report says of her: "Miss Margaret Wilkinson of Logan gave a paper on 'The Teutonic Element in English Literature.'" She said that the Teutonic literature applied to all English speaking people in Europe, Australia or wherever the English language is spoken. She defined literature as an expression of life in words. These three divisions constituted literature, love of nature, warfare and the stirring element for adventure, and the respect for the law and women. She read examples from some of the earliest known books and poems, telling the story of the song of Beulf. She concluded her paper by speaking of the work of Milton, Shakespeare, Chaucer, Spencer, and Dante, referring to the high place that woman held in ancient literature as well as modern.

Questions Worth Answering. Col. Sanger's bloodhounds, when they found three-year-old Raymond Dowd in Nine-mile swamp, near Sangre de Cristo, Otsego county, gathered around the boy and licked his face. The child wandered away last Friday when his father was picking hops. An all-night search by 300 men was fruitless. Lanterns were carried and fires built to attract the lad's attention, but he gave no sign. Saturday morning the four bloodhounds arrived. After smelling of a jacket belonging to the lost boy they began searching for his tracks and soon found them. Following a circuitous course, estimated to be ten miles long, they came upon the child lying at the foot of a tree, exhausted from hunger and exposure. There was a tremendous demonstration when one of the horsemen took the boy home perched on the pommel of a saddle, and the dogs came in for their share of the ovation.

Only Too Well Satisfied. The husband who is always growling over everything from his meals to his laundry looked up from his paper and remarked sulkily:

"Madam, I see where a Chicago man went from home, remained 30 years and then returned and gave his wife $5,000. If you don't do better you may find me doing the same trick some day."

The patient little wife looked up from her sewing and replied sweetly: "All right, James, but if you will only remain away the 30 years you needn't trouble yourself about the $5,000." And after that he stopped growling.

Horses Come High. A good carriage horse in Australia costs $200 or four times as much as the cost 15 years ago.
