These lands are the cheapest good lands in the state of Utah. They are part of the government's original land grant to the Union Pacific and Central Pacific railroads. The Promontory-Curlew Land Company of Logan, Utah, now owns them. And until January 1st will sell them at the 1910 appraisal prices. Remember, January 1st is the time limit. Then they will be advanced.

Thousands of Acres Sold

Thousands of acres have already been sold. And the buyers are among the most prosperous settlers in the west. You can do as well on the land that remains. Adjoining non-irrigated lands are yielding from twenty to forty-five bushels of wheat to the acre. Other grains are yielding equally well. The soil is deep, rich and productive. There is sufficient clay and sand to insure conservation of moisture during the entire growing season and afford drainage for excessive rains.

The climate is similar to that of Salt Lake, Bear River and Cache Valleys. Water for culinary purposes can be secured by drilling wells. The land is crossed by the Southern Pacific railroad to Keltos, Snowville, Howell, Promontory and Showell are adjacent to the company's holdings. Each boasts of first class schools and good stores.

Time for Payments

The liberal terms upon which these lands are being sold put them within the reach of all. One-fifth down is all that is asked. The balance may be paid in ten equal installments. It is almost a surety that you will never again be able to buy such fine land at such tempting prices, and on such easy terms. Whatever you do, do not let this offer pass. Get yourself a parcel of this land. But act quickly. Send in your application today. January 1st the prices go up. There is no time to lose. A few short days and this offer will be a thing of the past.

WILLARD-MORRIS

BYTTING STUNT

Both Heavies Do More Head Work and Clinching Than Boxing

New York, Dec. 9.—William Joh, the well known boxing referee, had a very narrow escape from serious injury at Madison Square garden recently, coming off unharmed only through superior footwork and he lost only his respect for prize fighting and esteems himself quite fortunate at that.

Mr. Joh was caught in the same ring with Jess Willard and Carl Morris, two of the largest and loosest, white hopes known to science, who were spilled all over the garden arena for a space of thirty minutes which time no one could do a thing about it.

It was a decidedly thrilling experience for Mr. Joh, because there were frequently moments when it appeared certain that either Morris or Willard would fall on Mr. Joh and Squash him. Then, too, there were times when a wild swing might have struck Mr. Joh in the jaw for all Mr. Joh knew, or for all either Morris or Willard knew, either. They did not feel that it was their business to exercise control over their swings after they had started them. They just wished their swings well and let them go and Mr. Joh had to do the dodging.

Joh Is Game, Anyway

It must be said for the referee that he is a game fellow. He is almost as game as the boxing commission which sanctioned the meeting of Morris and Willard, although it is understood that the commissioners all feel duly apologetic about the matter now. However, they did not have to risk their lives as did Mr. Joh.

The net result of the fight as we understand the matter was to make George Rodel, the Boer from Australia as he was introduced by Joe Humphries, champion of something or other. We understand this from Jas. Johnson, manager of the Boer who was haunting the garden late claiming the title for his charge. Johnston says that Willard won, and as Rodel beat Willard in Milwaukee, that makes Rodel champion.

It may be that Willard won, as Johnston says. He was the least of two pronounced evils, anyway, altho the spectators seemed to feel that there ought to be some law covering both of the parties implicated in the proceedings.

Takes Life in Hands

Nothing said above must be taken as detracting from the efforts of Mr. Joh, however. The referee took his life in his hands and implored the gents to fight. Frequently he burrowed between them like a mule and undermined the most fervent clinches, but nothing much came of it.

They say Morris has improved 1000 per cent. One shudders to think what he was. He came on weighing 234 1-4 pounds or maybe it was tons and above his B. V. D's his waist line quivered in the cold glare of the calcium. Willard weighed 235 3-4 pounds but they were distributed over somewhat more altitude and were not so noticeable. When the grand total for weight got spread out over the ring the result was quite inspiring. It inspired the gallery to jeers and it inspired large numbers of persons to leave the premises before their time was up. William Joh could not leave. This is said in justice to Mr. Joh, so that no one will think he stayed there of his own accord.

Suggests Butting Match

Willard seemed more disposed to make a fuss of the meeting than the celebrated Sappula engineer. He staggered Morris several times during the course of the evening, causing Carl to hold on until Mr. Joh courageously tugged him away. Occasionally the original white hope butted with such effect that many believed he could outbutt Jess in a butting match.

The floor shook beneath the cruel charges of the heavy gents, nearly teetering Mr. Joh right out of the ring, but he was in there at the finish doing his duty as he saw it.

We repeat Willard won, but he should be permitted to leave town with a reprimand if he promises not to do it again.

As for Morris—well, that is a case that calls for more drastic action.

MISSING CASHIERS

BODY FOUND IN RIVER

Des Moines, Ia., Dec. 8—After hours of dragging, police this evening discovered the body of M. B. Wheelock, cashier of the Citizens State bank of Colfax, who has been missing since last Tuesday. Wheelock's body was discovered in the Des Moines river, where he had threatened to drown himself. A sack of stones hung from the neck.

Wheelock dropped from sight last Tuesday. The last word from him was a note written his wife from a Des Moines hotel, in which he said that he could stand the strain no longer and that by the time she received his letter he would be in the river.

TAKES OFF DANDRUFF, HAIR STOPS FALLING

Save your Hair! Get a 25 cent bottle of Danderine right now—Also stops itching scalp.

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scurf. There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast. A little Danderine tonight—now—any time—will surely save your hair.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store. You surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Danderine. Save your hair! Try it!

DARES THE WOMAN AND GETS KILLED

Baltimore, Dec. 8—While seated with a woman companion at a table in a restaurant here late tonight Joseph Meyers, known in sporting circles as "Buffalo" Meyers took a knife from his pocket, bared his chest and handing the knife to the woman dared her to stab him. The woman drove the knife into the man's heart helped him to the street and then fled. Meyers died shortly afterward at a hospital.

CHILDREN POISONED

AT WEDDING PARTY

New York, Dec. 8—Of five children who were guests at a wedding ceremony on the east side last night, found half filled bottles of liquor and drank from them, two died tonight, in a hospital. The other three may not live. The dead are Rosa Allnaho, 7 years old, and her 2-year-old brother Frank. A sister of the two is among the other victims. What remained of various colored liquors that were served at the wedding will be analyzed.
