Coal From the Arctic.
A few years ago, the idea of getting coal from Spitzbergen, one of the most desolate islands of the Arctic ocean, was a topic for romancers of the Sunday supplement type. Now it is a fact of considerable moment in many of the world's markets. A single company, financed chiefly by American capital, mined nearly 40,000 tons of coal from Spitzbergen last year. The deposit of fuel in the far North is said to be singularly easy to work. It comes in a single seam about four feet thick, stretching along the coast for 30 miles. The surrounding rock is so solid that timbering is not needed. The temperature is always below the freezing point in the present workings, which does away with the need of pumps. In fact the only real difficulty is that of getting men—and motion pictures have gone far to solve that problem. Yet for every ton of coal in Spitzbergen there are ten in Alaska of at least equal quality, closer to a hungry market. The arctic zone won't make a real dent in the fuel market till our big northwest territory gets in action.

Stop Slavery in Papua.
Our attention is called by the Anti-Slavery and Aborigines Protection society to the fact that following the publication of an article by our Melbourne correspondent in the Daily Chronicle which declared that slavery was flourishing in Papua (British New Guinea), an investigation was made by the Australian government and severe action has now been taken to bring an end to the conditions we described.
Among the allegations made were that native police threatened men with the destruction of their villages if they refused to sign on for a term of years; that many "boys" in one division were actually handcuffed for declining to come away at the bidding of certain professional recruiters, and that all of the able-bodied males of one village had been captured.—London Chronicle.

Largest Steamship Cargo.
On its last trip to the Pacific coast from Oriental ports, the Great Northern's steamship Minnesota carried what its owners say was the largest cargo ever shipped in one bottom in the history of shipping. The total of the cargo is estimated at nearly 30,000 tons. Included were 37,500 bales of hemp from Manila bound for Chicago, and 2,730 bags of peanuts for the Pacific coast. From Kobe came 37,500 chests of tea for overland points via the Great Northern road, principally Chicago, New York, Montreal and Toronto. There were 43,430 bags of Manchurian maize and more than 5,500 cases of porcelain from Japanese ports. From Yokohama was shipped treasure amounting to 1,500,000 yen in gold coin.—Wall Street Journal.

Center of Population.
For more than a century a careful calculation has been made every ten years to fix the exact center of population. When the census was taken in 1790 the center of population was found to be near Annapolis, Md., well east of Chesapeake bay. A decade later the center had moved to a point just above the city of Washington. Throughout the history of the country the population center has moved steadily westward at the rate of about 100 miles every ten years. The center of population of our 100,000,000 lies in Illinois near its western boundary. In another decade it will probably cross the Mississippi river.—Christian Herald.

Great Moment in History.
Napoleon Bonaparte had just picked up the crown of France out of the gutter. "Well, I declare," he ejaculated as he polished it off on his coat sleeve. "There's richness! I've always felt that the man who could turn last year's silk hat into a wastebasket was something of a genius, but I'll have him beaten to a frazzle, as another great soldier will observe in a hundred years or so. I'll turn this old tile into a telephone, and address the French people through it." Whereupon he placed the bauble upon his head, and in time even as he had intimated, it became the recognized central office for all the switchboards of Europe.

Adapted for the Water.
All fishes have air bladders in their bodies, which enable them to rise and fall in the water at will. Near the bottom the weight of the water compresses these bladders and as a consequence the body of the fish shrinks until its bulk is of equal weight with the water it displaces.

Rare Specimen.
Once there was a small boy who believed that a picnic dinner was fully as appetizing when served on a neatly laid and artistically decorated table as when spread on an ant-hill.

DONALD BRIAN IN "THE VOICE IN THE FOG," AT THE LYRIC THEATER, FRIDAY AND SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 26 AND 27.

Varying Expressions of Love.
It is in keeping the love of others that most of us woefully fail. And we fall very largely because we are not careful in expressing love. Here we ought not to be confused by terms. Expressing love does not necessarily mean using the language of endearment. On the contrary, those who love most deeply are likely to be the least given to endearing terms. The use of endearing terms may indicate the absence of deep love, or the absence of any love.

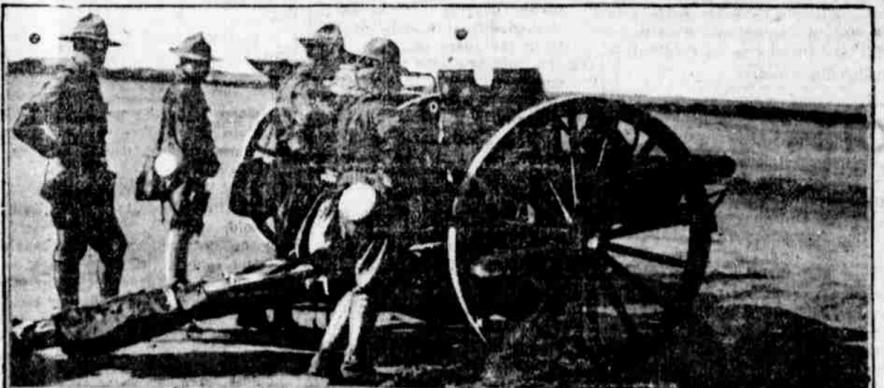

Sneeze Affects Entire Body.
Will a bright light cause you to sneeze? It does some people, just as do dust, flower pollen and cold. Dust and pollen cause irritation in the nostrils and the sneeze is nature's way of stopping the irritation, by violently removing the irritant. The sneeze from cold, however, is a different process on the part of mother nature. While the dust or pollen sneeze is confined to the nose, the cold sneeze is an act of the entire body and the nose is simply the scene of the explosion. When the body is unduly cold, it makes a spasmodic effort to warm the system and thus jerks up every muscle. The act culminates in the nose.

MEN PREPARED TO TURN MEXICAN LINE INTO BATTLEFIELD.

AMERICAN ARTILLERYMEN AND MEXICAN SOLDIERS ON THE BORDER

Reports from Major General Frederick Funston to the war department on the border situation around Douglas and Agua Prieta, as it existed upon his arrival at the former place to take command of the American forces, did not allay anxiety on the part of the administration for the safety of Americans on the border. While General Funston reported that the first attack by General Villa's forces on Agua Prieta was repulsed with heavy losses for the Villistas, he made it plain that many bullets were falling into the Arizona town of Douglas and that it would be wise to grant emergency authority to the American forces to cross the international boundary if necessary to protect the border against invasion. It is not understood that General Funston asked for instructions to cross the border, but that he considered it wise to have discretionary authority to do so in an emergency. Further reports said that 1,000 men of the United States army, with field artillery, were placed within a few feet of the Mexican boundary, ready to interfere if an attack on the Carranza garrison at Agua Prieta, Sonora, by the Villa army should result in shooting into American territory. Brigadier General Thomas F. Davis, commander, said he would take every precaution to prevent any firing into Douglas. "I do not propose to see an American town shot up," he said. General Davis issued instructions to residents on the American side of the boundary to keep within doors, get behind adobe walls and not to trust to wooden barriers to keep out bullets.
