SIXTEENTH YEAR

FUNERAL HELD FOR MRS. RUBY H. HATFIELD

Although Tuesday was a stormy, sleety day, a great number of friends gathered at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Harrison on South First East street to pay their last respects to the memory of their daughter, Ruby who died recently in California. Funeral services commenced at 12:30 by Prof. Calvin Fletcher singing "Oh My Father."

The opening prayer was offered by Bishop C. O. Dunn, after which Miss Ella Rigby sang a beautiful solo.

Elder Heber Maughan was the first speaker. He told of his intimate friendship with Brother Harrison and family and how he had watched Ruby grow from infancy to a beautiful young lady. He had known her always to be willing, cheerful and ambitious in all her undertakings.

Elder Frank Baugh then sang, "Sometime We'll Understand."

Bishop B. G. Thatcher said that he had known Ruby Harrison Hatfield for a great many years and that he knew her to be a good and faithful woman. He told of her many visits to his residence before her marriage to Mr. Hatfield, at the time he was serving as bishop of the First ward. She later visited him in company with Mr. Hatfield and at many times Mr. Hatfield had expressed his sincere belief in the gospel of Jesus Christ and expressed a desire to join the church which he did some time before his marriage to Miss Ruby. Bishop Thatcher also spoke of the fulfillment of prophecies in these, the later days, telling of how the prophets of old declared that wars, diseases and pestilence were to visit the earth.

Bp. Jos. Watkins then read a letter from elders in Oakland, Cal., where Mrs. Hatfield was living at the time of her death. They expressed their sympathy for her husband, parents, brothers and sisters, and told of how Mrs. Hatfield had shown her faith in the gospel by calling upon them to administer to her during her sickness. The elders had visited her a great many times during her illness and were present at the time of her death. They testified to her faith in the gospel.

Prof. Calvin Fletcher then sang "Sometime, Somewhere."

Elder Niels A. Anderson pronounced the benediction.

A large cortege of automobiles followed the remains to the Richmond cemetery where short services were held under the direction of Bishop Joseph Watkins.

Services at the grave side were opened with prayer by Elder George Hendricks.

A duet was then rendered by Mrs. A. A. Thomas and Miss Viola Webb.

Elder D. W. Rainey spoke of his intimate association with the Harrison family. He said he had known Ruby since her childhood and she always expressed in words as well as by her actions her sincere appreciation of the gospel of Jesus Christ.

Elder A. B. Harrison read a sketch written by Ruby about three years ago, entitled "My Heavenly Father Knows." It was beautifully written and showed her implicit faith in the Lord.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Harrison rendered a beautiful duet, after which Bishop Watkins thanked the many friends for their presence and kindness shown the family during the hour of their bereavement.

Mrs. Thomas and Miss Webb sang a duet and Elder W. S. Hendricks offered the benediction.

The lid was removed from the casket in which the remains of Mrs. Hatfield lay, giving her many Richmond friends the privilege of seeing her before interment.

The grave was dedicated by Elder S. W. Hendricks.

The floral offerings were many, showing the high esteem of this young lady's character with her friends.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Ruby Harrison Hatfield was born in Richmond December 24, 1899, where she spent her early childhood. Her parents later moved to Logan and she entered the district school here. After completing the grammar grades she attended the B. Y. College, at which place she gained the friendship of a great many students due to her activity in the Student Body of the College. She had a beautiful voice and was a member of the First ward choir and also the tabernacle choir. She is well known throughout Logan and Cache county, due to her musical talent. She married Marion Hatfield fourteen months ago and since that time has been living in California. In company with her husband they visited Logan about two months ago and left some three weeks ago for their California home. There she contracted influenza which developed into spinal meningitis, resulting in her death November 14.

Word reached Logan Monday night November 9, of her serious illness and the mother of Mrs. Hatfield left immediately for Oakland. She arrived two days before her daughter's death. The remains were shipped to Logan where funeral services were held and later the remains were taken to the Richmond cemetery for burial.

The Germans will board transports for their return to Germany. Twenty additional submarines will be surrendered Thursday, twenty on Friday, and the remainder to be handed over in accordance with the armistice will be given up later.

GREAT BRITAIN ENVOY NAMED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—John W. Davis was formally nominated today by President Wilson to be American ambassador to Great Britain.

PRES. JOSEPH F. SMITH DIES AT SALT LAKE

Tuesday morning at 4:30 o'clock President Joseph F. Smith died at his home in the Beehive house in Salt Lake City.

This message will cause sadness in the hearts of hundreds of thousands of people who looked upon President Smith as one of the noblest examples of the noblest work of God. As president of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints and the great Prophet to his people, President Smith was beloved by all men by his fellow communicants, and he was one of the noblest characters that ever lived upon this earth. The prayers of the people have constantly ascended to the throne of Grace in his behalf and when he appeared in the midst of the people at the recent semi-annual conference at Salt Lake City and presided over every session of the conference after being confined to his home for a period of six months, it was accepted as a good omen by the people who felt and hoped that the President was going to recover his health completely. Since that time President Smith has been doing nicely until within the past few days when he suffered a relapse and the final end came peacefully at the hour stated above.

A glorious life has terminated; so glorious has it been that the writer will not presume to dilate upon it with our feeble powers of expression. The President was not only beloved by his own people but was profoundly respected by even those who chose to differ with him because of his nobility of character and his fidelity to what he believed to be right.

Joseph Fielding Smith was born at Far West, Caldwell County Mo., on the 13th day of November, 1838, and on Wednesday of last week he celebrated his eightieth birthday, upon which occasion he received congratulatory messages, couched in words of affectionate solicitude, from all parts of the country and even from Europe.

He was the son of Hyrum Smith, the martyred patriarch, who lost his life in Carthage Jail at the hands of a mob on the 27th day of June, 1844.

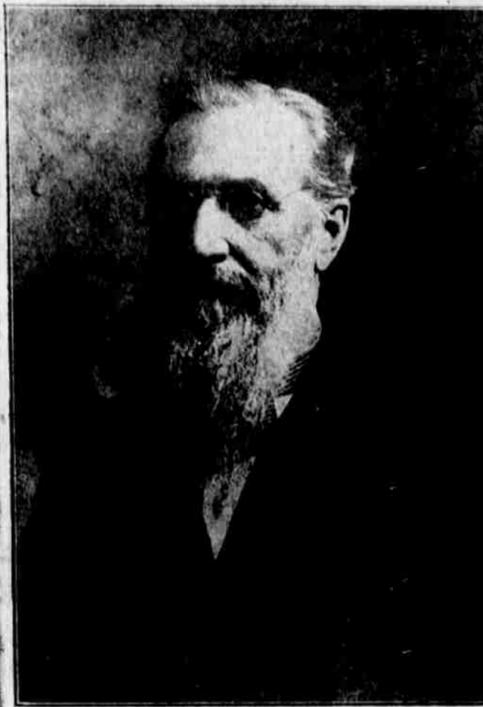

President Smith's record is an open book. His life has been one of service to his fellow men and in his passing it can truly be said he rounded out a perfect career. He had presided over the church since October 10, 1901.

Heber J. Grant, who is president of the council of twelve apostles, will succeed him, and pending the reorganization of the presidency, the council of the twelve apostles is in charge.

Unless circumstances at present unforeseen intervene, the funeral services will be privately conducted Friday at noon in a family plot in the City cemetery. According to custom, arrangements for the official memorial services will be made by the first presidency of the church, these services to be observed on a fixed date by every church of the Latter-day Saints throughout the world.

BIDS FAMILY FAREWELL

The end came while members of President Smith's immediate family tenderly ministered to his needs. Although family and friends entertained no particular alarm concerning the condition of the patient, the latter seemed to be intuitively possessed all of Monday night that he was approaching the conclusion of life's span, and shortly before the ley fingers of death were touched to his forehead, he called about him his sons, and, in faltering tones that ever diminished in strength, bade them farewell. This done, President Smith sank into a sleep of unconsciousness from which he never emerged.

Announcement of the passing of the head of the Mormon church into that deep slumber from which none ever wakes to weep, was the signal for the lowering of all flags on church, public and private buildings.

Celebration of the passing of the eightieth milestone in the life of President Smith occurred one week ago yesterday, but the failing condition of the honored prelate allowed only a festival of utmost quietude. No festival program was indulged in, those at the home passing the day with the patient in prayer and meditation. During the day he was overwhelmed with written, telegraphed congratulations and wishes for speedy return to health and vigor.

"At a meeting of the general authorities of the church and representatives of the family," said Chas. W. Penrose, counsellor to the president, "it was decided that, in view of existing health conditions in the community, it would be improper to hold public services for the late President Joseph F. Smith. This decision, though regretfully adopted, is a measure of prudence which will meet with general approval, we feel sure. Such services as shall be held at the time of interment in the City cemetery will therefore be brief. At a later date, however, announcement of which will be duly made, memorial services will be held throughout the whole church for the beloved leader whose loss we so sincerely, but, perforce silently, mourn."

President Smith's surviving family includes his wives, Mrs. Juliana Lambson Smith, Mrs. Edna Lambson Smith, Mrs. Alice K. Smith, Mrs. Mary T. Smith, thirty children and ninety-one grand-children.

THE KAISER GROANS WITH GLEE

The Kaiser sat in his throneless chair and scratched his crownless head, As he scanned the last election news and lamped the list of dead; "Republicans win!" he breathed aloud, "The House and Senate too! This government by the people plague, Spreads worse than Spanish flu."

"Ha, ha," he laughed, then soliloquized, Tween squeaks of Hunnish glee; "I don't know which the joke is on, The Democrats or me. They swore defeat for them would make Me fit with joy to bust, And since they've advertised it so, I s'pose it's laugh I must."

"Ah, well I may," he added then, in meditative mood, "For when an autocrat like me is down and out for good, It's aid and comfort to his soul to hear the welcome news, That autocratic Democrats can't wear the Kaiser's shoes."

The howlers said: "Jim Han is bent," "Pink Whiskers Out of Bed," And "Henry Ford, the Mirac'le Elser"

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our many friends for their kindness and sympathy in the loss of our beloved husband and brother. And during the long illness of the immediate family and brother we especially wish to think those who so kindly offered and tendered their services. We also thank for the beautiful floral offerings.

INFLUENZA HOLDS ITS OWN IN NOV.

The table shows that during practically the entire month the disease has been just about breaking even. In other words on the average there are about as many old cases reported well and released each day, as there are new cases put in quarantine.

It will be noted that the greatest number of cases that have existed in Logan at any one time is 108.

The table shows that during practically the entire month the disease has been just about breaking even. In other words on the average there are about as many old cases reported well and released each day, as there are new cases put in quarantine.

The cases reported on the Monday of the 4th, 11th and 18th include those for Sunday. In other words they cover a period of 48 hours.

The City Board of Health meets every day at 12 o'clock noon, in the city commissioner's chamber, and gets a report from the city physician and the health officers for the previous 24 hours, at which time a complete record is made of all new cases put in quarantine and all old ones released.

COUNTRY VISITORS

Logan is not quarantined. Upon the contrary, visitors having business to transact are entirely welcome, the only requirement being, that like all Logan residents, they will be required to wear gauze masks. The adoption of this precaution which has proven so efficacious elsewhere, is confidently relied upon to entirely eliminate the disease within a week or ten days.

But with one per cent of the population, or one in each hundred persons affected by the disease, and with the remaining ninety-nine protected by masks danger of infection is reduced to a minimum.

The total losses in the fighting on the Franco-Belgian front were 2,719,642.

The total of British losses in killed on all fronts during the war was 658,665. Of these 37,896 were officers and 620,829 were men.

The total British wounded in the war was more than two million, the parliamentary secretary's figures showing the aggregate to be 2,032,122. The losses in missing including prisoners totalled 359,145.

DARDANELLES LOSSES

The Dardanelles expedition cost the British 119,729 casualties. Of this number 1785 officers were killed or died and 31,737 others. The wounded were 5010 officers and 75,508 others. The missing including prisoners were 367 officers and 7431 others.

Of the Salonika front the losses were 27,318. Of these the killed were 2450 officers and 1230 others; (Continued on Page Five.)
