MAIL ORDER HOUSES, MERCHANTS AND PEOPLE

Do you know dear readers that the mail order houses, the merchants and the people are burning issues in Logan this holiday season? If you do not we are telling you they are as the figures will bear us out. Do you know that up to the present time during this good year 1919 the parcel post business in Logan City from mail order houses has increased over the year 1918 from 200 per cent to 250 per cent?

During the present fall, or during about the last 120 days the money order business at the post office has run from $350 to $750 per day, the largest part of this money going east to the big mail order houses. All lines of merchandise (and when we say all we mean all) comes by parcel post from these houses, and men, women and merchants, the business is increasing.

For a long time the papers, the boosters, the public men have preached, home industry, keep the money at home, trade with your own friends and neighbors, those who help build up the city and pay the taxes but just the same the mail order business is growing by leaps and bounds, and the good work seems to have been of little avail.

Not having solved the problem by appealing to the people we are wondering if it is not time to appeal to the merchants. Can it be that the merchants are not studying the people, their wants, and their pocket-book sufficient to give them a square deal? If such could be the case there is grounds for this program on the part of the people. Under the circumstances it is time that the merchants were considering this important matter, and if they are charging too much for their goods, so much that the people cannot afford to pay the price, the merchants had better cut the cloth accordingly and keep the trade of the people. Of course the merchants may be making good money now, and possibly do not realize the danger that is growing, but these conditions may not always prevail. Again this warning may not be in order in the eyes of the merchants but it just occurred to us that this volume of foreign trade was entirely too large, and it is growing daily and right now might be a good time to mention it.

THE A. L. OFFICERS MEET WITH CLUB

Dr. S. B. Thatcher, H. B. Johnson and Thos. H. Morrell of the local post of the American Legion met with the directors of the Commercial club on Thursday evening and asked that some arrangements be made whereby the local members of the Legion could make the Commercial club their headquarters for their meetings, etc., and their members be granted the privileges of the club.

The board took favorably to the matter and decided that a special committee of three be appointed to work with the Legion committee and present a proposed arrangement at the next meeting of the board.

It is the policy of many commercial organizations to make the club the community center. It forms the headquarters for every public movement and thereby it is made much more popular and stronger. If the Chamber of Commerce serves its real purposes it must be the community center where no politics, religion, sects, factions, etc., are known but a place where everybody can meet for the welfare of the public and forget factions. Already the local organization has served for the headquarters of many organizations and all public movements have gone out from the club. The local Legion is becoming a strong organization and it is very desirable to have their cooperation.

It was decided at the meeting that the vocational students of the Agricultural college be extended the privileges of the club during the school season.

The special highway committee of the club presented a resolution and it was adopted.

THE U. S. PEACE DELEGATION ON WAY HOME

PARIS, Dec. 11.—The departure of the American peace delegation is considered in all quarters as sounding the death knell to what has come to be called "Wilson's world Utopia."

Veteran diplomats who long ago predicted the league of nations would fall by its own weight, are chuckling gleefully at what they regard as the justification of their prophesies.

In the Echo de Paris, Pertinax, a leading writer on foreign affairs, writes:

"This (the return of the American delegates) means the return of the medieval system of alliances. will be the real force in the world. We have been grossly misinformed regarding the sentiment of America. We should have learned from the result of the 1918 elections what sort of fate was in store for the Wilson league in America."

GOODRICH TRAVEL AND TRANSPORT BUREAU

Prompted by a healthy growing demand for highway information and charts from highway transportation engineers and advocates the National Touring bureau of the B. F. Goodrich Rubber company, announces that its scope of operation will be broadened to include the dissemination and distribution of all highway transport data.

Henceforth it will be known as the Goodrich Travel and Transport bureau. The new institution will strictly adhere to the following policy: To promote highway transport service and to cooperate with all forms of transportation by land, water and air, in obtaining a more extended and efficient use of their respective facilities.

Through its country wide organization of branches, depots and dealers the bureau has distributed upwards of 150,000,000 pieces of touring information to the motoring public and its accomplishments in stimulating touring has been one of the biggest individual efforts towards good roads building. During 1919 it distributed nearly 5,000,000 state highway maps.

Raymond Beek, who acted as field engineer of the U. S. Highways Transport committee during the war, has been chief of the bureau since its inception—in 1911. Among the highway transportation experts on the travel and transport bureau advisory board are: Robert C. Hargraves, formerly secretary of the Highway Transport committee, and S. V. Norton, Goodrich truck tire sales manager and author of "The Motor Truck as an Aid to Business Profits," and "Motor Trucks of America."
