EVIDENTLY NOT AN EXPERT Visiting Minister Asking Blessing at Table Was Completely Outclassed by Little Isabel.

To eight-year-old Isabel ever since she has been able to slip has fallen the honor in her family of saying the blessing at meals. Consequently she was indignant the other night when at supper her father transferred this privilege to a clergyman who was a dinner guest. Isabel had already clasped her hands and was bowing her head preparatory to starting the prayer when her father took the fatal step: "Mr. Funderkin," he said, "will you say the blessing?"

INDIAN FIGHTER NOT A GIANT Daniel Boone Said to Have Been Small in Stature—Man of Deep Religious Conviction.

Daniel Boone is generally pictured as a giant in stature, of swarthy complexion and a grim leader at a grim period in the country's history. Archibald Henderson in the Century draws a very different picture of the pioneer. According to him Boone was a scant five feet eight inches, although broad of shoulder, and his eyes were a mild blue, topped by fair eyebrows. He was shy, naive, benign and simple. He was a super-woodsman, a master Indian fighter, but only an indifferent surveyor.

While acting as an agent for a company seeking wealth through land grants and colonization, he himself looked upon his work as that of an instrument of Providence, specially ordained by God to settle the wilderness. This religious fervor he carried with him in his wildest adventures and most bloody battles, and he promptly credited every success, great or small, to Providence. His two greatest exploits were the exploration of the trans-Alleghany region and the opening of the Transylvania trail, the path that ran through the Cumberland and opened the beauties and richness of Kentucky to the pioneer hordes from the Atlantic seaboard.

Little Advice for Grocer Would Be Wag Had Picked Out the Wrong Woman on Whom to Exercise His Wit.

There was an expression of melancholy tinged with resentment on Mrs. Brown's face as she entered the grocer's shop. "I want," she began impressively, "to talk to you about them eggs I had last week. They weren't anything like as fresh as they might have been."

Health. People with a great deal to do or possessors of highly nervous organizations should spend a day in bed every fortnight or so.

WON PRIZE FOR HISTORY PERFORMER IN HARD LUCK Work of Charles Rollin, Famous Frenchman, Was for Many Years a Standard Book.

No less a personage than Voltaire praises the work known as "Rollin's Ancient History," which, though now obsolete, was for years in its English translation the standard work on the Egyptians, Carthaginians, Assyrians, and other ancient nations.

Charles Rollin was a Frenchman, and he died at Paris, the place of his birth, on Sept. 13, 1741. This celebrated man rose from poverty and obscurity to a position of the greatest dignity. He was the son of a cutter, yet at the age of 33 he was made rector of the University of Paris, which office he adorned by the sweetness of his character, his learning, probity and moderation.

Until fifty years ago his history was a stock book, when it began to be neglected on account of the many discoveries giving a low cast to our knowledge of ancient history. Century Journal.

Useful Seaweed. From seaweed when reduced to ashes are gained some of the most beneficent preparations in use today. Some of these are iodine, bromine, hydrochloric acid, iodides of sodium, mercury, potassium, magnesium and calcium. These are extracted coloring matters, volatile oil, and its ingredients are used in photography. It is further employed for coverings for flasks in the packing of glass, china and other brittle wares; for packing furniture, stuffing pillows and mattresses, and in upholstering. The claim is made that furniture stuffed with seaweed is kept free of moths and other insects, owing to its salty flavor. Seaweed is one of the best non-conductors of heat and finds use in thermoses, especially in the insulation of refrigerators and in refrigerating plants. It is also used between walls and floors to prevent the transmission of sound. The demand for this article has grown to such an extent that it is now being gathered in large quantities by farmers and fishermen along the shores of Prince Edward Island, where it is dried and prepared for shipment to the United States.

If You Are Ambitious. I have noticed that men who have climbed to great heights, as a rule, have chosen the job which held the larger future, regardless of what it might give in immediate returns. It was not the larger salary they were after, but the larger opportunity. It was the job which gave promise of the greatest future that they wanted, not a "soft snap" with easy money and no future. Many vocations which pay the most money at first have the least future in them. If you must make sacrifices make them when you are first starting out in life. You will find it much easier to make them later. What you need at the outset is, the most of all, the biggest opportunity for growth and development, the job that has the larger possible future in it. If you are ambitious you won't look for a "soft snap" and "easy money."—New Success.

Square Musical Notes. Shaped notes, that is, notes of square, lozenge, round and other forms than the conventional notes, are hardly known to most people of the musical world. Yet they were strongly indorsed and introduced by Lowell Mason to help in teaching sight singing, and they are still used in enormous quantities in the South in rural districts. The scheme of the shaped note is to represent the different degrees of the scale by means of a different shape note. For any one who has passed the most elementary stages in scale study the plan is quite useless in understanding tonalities, intervals, etc., and it is not used in the large music centers to any appreciable extent.—The Etude.

Stonehenge Remains. Thus far, excavations have failed to solve the mystery of the origin of Stonehenge. It had been hoped that its passing into the hands of the government would finally shed light on this mystery, for excavations have been previously forbidden by the private owners of the property. Thus far, however, we do not know whether Stonehenge, battered and broken as it is today by centuries of exposure to the winds and rains, was originally a Roman temple or a Druidical shrine, the work of the Phoenicians, the Saxons or the Danes, or whether it was, as has been claimed, a center of serpent worship, of sun worship, a place of sacrifice or of gallows for the execution of eminent criminals.

Not Disinterested. "You can't judge a man by what his relatives say of him," remarks an exchange. No, nor by what he says of himself.—Boston Transcript.

YOUTHFUL ADOLESCENT DEEPLY HUMILIATED IN THE PRESENCE OF THE GIRL OF HIS HEART.

A group of neighborhood youngsters had organized a circus at the home of a boy whose 13-year-old sister was my girl. I was to be the star trapeze artist and was all dressed up in a bathing suit with a window curtain such around my waist.

The circus was held in a vacant lot; all the boys and cats in the neighborhood came to see the performance. The trapeze hung from a tree.

In due time my act was announced. I came to the top of my perch in approved fashion and went through a few minor stunts with generous applause from the audience. Then I made ready for the final act, which was to ascend them all, especially my girl. I began to swing violently to get the trapeze going as high as possible, and with a last look into the fair one's eyes I swung out over the heads of the assembly. But I didn't swing back. The bar of my trapeze—a section of broom handle—broke, and I sailed on in a beautiful curve to the feet of my fair lady.

MIGHT HAVE BEEN PRESIDENT Ambitious Party Leaders Prevented the Nominating of Judge David Davis in 1872.

In 1872 David Davis of Illinois missed his chance for the presidency through the overweening ambition of Horace Greeley of New York, and the Grant Bryan of Missouri. The Liberal Republican convention met at Chicago, with thousands of prominent Republicans in revolt against Grant, and the powers in the Republican party which controlled it, Davis, who had been a former Democrat, had become a Lincoln Republican, and Lincoln put him on the Supreme bench. He would have had a great deal of the Lincoln support and a large Democratic following. If he had been nominated; but Greeley was ambitious—and so was Brown—and they formed a combination to nominate themselves, defeating Davis, who might have been elected over Grant. The business interests of the country were distressed by Greeley, but they had confidence in Davis. That the Grant administration and the Republican party, as then controlled, was unpopular, was shown in the great Democratic congressional triumph of 1874, after Grant had been elected a second time.—Detroit News.

Beethoven Brutally Frank. Probably there never lived a man more thoroughly brutal in his honesty than Ludwig van Beethoven. When he planned to do so he could play the part of the diplomat—as his letters to his publishers and to the royal personages to whom he dedicated his works often show. But when taken unawares Beethoven spoke his mind without thought of whom he might offend or how he might offend them. A historic instance is that connected with the composer, Paer, whose opera, "Fidelio," Beethoven went to hear. It is said that Paer approached Beethoven after the performance and naturally invited criticism, whereupon Beethoven blurted out, "I like your opera very much—I will set it to music." This to the sensitive Paer, who had written many musical successes, was tantamount to saying, "I like your wife very much; I will marry her!"

REAL ORIGIN OF CHARIVARI Official Tattooing. In some countries tattooing is adopted for several purposes. For example, in Samoa, when a woman marries, several tattoo marks are placed on her, and in Fiji and Samoa the birth of each child is registered in this way on the mother's hand.
