Additional Amusements

It promises to be a case of the same old story in the same old way over at the Orpheum next week—a good bill and a busy box office. By the way of a headliner Thomas Keogh and Ruth Francis present a clever playlet entitled, "The way he won her." This piece is really designed chiefly to give Mr. Keogh a chance to display his ability, and this he does in an effective way. He does some clever caricaturing, and Miss Francis adds to the attractiveness of the sketch with her singing. Fernane May Trio is another turn calculated to make the audience sit up and take notice. Their strong cards are music and the making of lace curtains and other intricate designs out of sheets of paper on short order with their fingers. Then there are the Dionne sisters, a couple of

SMOOT WILL KEEP HIS SEAT.

Public opinion, in Salt Lake at least, has changed considerably within the last month or so in regard to Senator Smoot's chances of retaining his seat in the United States senate. Public opinion, is a most inconstant, unreliable jade. Nothing has happened since Mr. Smoot was elected senator to either increase or diminish his right to sit in the senate, but public opinion on the subject has varied with every wind that blew. Most people are influenced by the little things they see around them and frequently attach great importance to things which are really of no significance. Just after the recent municipal election from which the Kearns-"American" party by a mere chance came out successfully, public opinion in Salt Lake ran in a strong anti-Smoot current, although there was nothing whatever in the election or its results which had any beautiful girls who play the mandolin. Joy will prevail when Bonnie Gaylord's turn is flashed on the annunciator. Bonnie, who is billed as "the girl from Posey county" indulges in more lively fun than a kitten with a string tied to its tail on a summer's day. The great Le Pages is another act calculated to make good. Their stunt is jumping, and barrel acts. Le Page jumps on his sister's face, over her head and rings a bell with his foot which (the bell not the foot) has been placed on the crown of a plug hat she is wearing. Fred and Annie Pelot, comedians and jugglers, and the Kinodrome with a new set of copyrighted motion pictures complete the bill.

bearing whatever on the right of Senator Smoot to his seat. The Salt Lake Tribune, by the force of constant and vehement reiteration of the falsehood that the Kearns-"American" party had some standing and influence nationally, had succeeded in causing many weak-minded, prejudiced people to believe that such was the fact. The appointment of William Spry, as United States marshal, A. L. Thomas as postmaster and others on the recommendation of Utah's congregational delegation and over the protests of the leaders of the Kearns-"American" party changed public opinion in a day. The air balloon of the American party was effectually punctured and there is nothing left of it but a limp rag. Once in a while public opinion has a solid foundation. If public opinion was always wrong it would mean that popular government was a failure. Once in a while public opinion is based on facts and common sense. That is the strength of this Republic. The government would be better and the Re-
