

FIELD WORK ON ARSENAL ENDED

Survey to be Brought to Close Tomorrow and Report Sent to Washington

Engineer Kay of the U. S. war department reports that the field work on the arsenal site will be completed tomorrow. He has received considerable aid in making the extensive survey required by engineers sent to his staff by the forest service, city engineer, county commission and the U. S. department of public roads. The Ogden chamber of commerce has borne the expense of hiring supplementary help needed on the field. As soon as all the data relating to the site is accurately tabulated the returns will be sent to the construction department of the war office at Washington, where they will be used in making up the plans for the construction of the plant here.

PUBLICITY MAN AT OGDEN DEPOT

C. of C. and Railroad May Keep Live Wire on Job This Summer

Negotiations are being carried out between officials of the Ogden chamber of commerce and the management of the Ogden Union Railway & Depot company to re-establish a public information service at the union depot here.

"Some time ago," said O. J. Stowell, secretary of the chamber of commerce, this morning, "the depot company and the Ogden Publicity bureau joined together in paying the salary and expenses of an 'information man' at the depot here, whose duty it was to make Ogden better and more widely known among the thousands of people who wait for brief periods in the Ogden depot. He was furnished with literature dealing with the scenic beauties, industrial and commercial activities, school and church life, and other interesting data relating to this intermountain city, and the experiment was found to be exceedingly worth while."

"Lately, however, the service man has been discontinued, and we are desirous of putting it on its feet again in the charge of a capable and well informed man. The depot company is going into the matter of what proportion of the expense it can afford to pay. We have already made up our minds what the chamber of commerce can do. Unless something unforeseen happens, we shall have the service established again before the summer rush of tourists pass through here en route east and west. We have even got so far as to name the man who will occupy the position, and none better could be found, since he knows Ogden, through and through, but we shall not publish his name until we know what help the O. U. R. & D. company is likely to afford us."

RIVER RISES FOOT DURING RAIN; NO DANGER OF FLOOD

The sudden deluge of rain this morning made it necessary for the calling of emergency street crews into action to prevent the flooding of various street intersections, and in spite of the fact that men were at work at 5 o'clock a few street corners were flooded, according to C. H. Martin, supervisor of streets. The early morning flood carried much water into the sewer openings and it was necessary for the crews to work feverishly to keep them from clogging.

Although a few cellars were flooded, due to the heavy down-pour, no great amount of damage was caused. Mr. Martin declared. The Ogden river rose more than one foot within a few hours, but there is no danger of overflowing, according to Mr. Martin.

Sues for Portion of Ogden Property

Charging that one-third interest in certain property in the Childs addition is being wrongfully withheld from her, Helen Crosby began suit this morning in the district court against Alexander Crosby. The plaintiff complains that Robert Crosby, the former owner of the land in dispute was her husband's and that prior to 1918 the land was seized in fee and possession.

Mrs. Crosby alleges that Robert Crosby conveyed the land to his son, Alexander, by warranty deed, and at the time she was his wife and never at any time relinquished claim to the property. She asks that title to one-third of the property be awarded her and charges that it is now being wrongfully withheld from her by Alexander Crosby.

SPRING HERE FOR "SARTIN," CHICKS START ON GARDEN

A certain sign that spring has arrived is shown in the numerous complaints of citizens during the past few days, that chickens and other fowl have wandered to their new gardens in their quest of food and have caused havoc among the sprouting vegetables, according to Jack Littlefield, adjutant to the commissioner of public safety.

Mr. Littlefield said this morning that to allow domestic fowl to trespass on the property of others is in violation of section 544, city ordinances, which states, "It shall be unlawful for the owner of any domestic fowl, such as turkeys, ducks, geese or chickens to permit such fowl to trespass or go upon the premises of another, or to run at large within the city limits."

Use of hops in brewing was prohibited in England in the sixteenth century as representations by physicians that they were unwholesome.

SPRING GREENS SCARCE IN CITY

Vegetables Being Rushed by Express; Strawberries 40 Cents a Cup

Spring vegetables from California are becoming scarce in Ogden as a result of the interruption of regular shipments by the switchmen's strike and commission houses admitted today that the stocks are practically exhausted. "Bunch goods" as they are called, including early beet, carrots and turnips are beginning to come by express as the result of hurried orders sent in when the effects of the tie-up were realized. Dealers report that prices in wholesale lots were rising because of the scarcity, tomatoes going up 75 cents per crate and lettuce 25 cents a dozen bunches.

To relieve the situation, radishes and lettuce from local growers are beginning to appear on the market.

Among the latest arrivals are strawberries from the coast. They are retailing in the neighborhood of 50 cents a cup, about a cent apiece.

FRENCH TIGER TO VISIT OGDEN

Mme. Guerin Assures Mayor Former Premier Will Come Here on Tour

That Georges Clemenceau, former premier of France, will visit Ogden during his tour of the United States in November, was assured by Madame Guerin, French lecturer, during her visit this morning to the mayor and city commissioners. Madame Guerin said that Sult Lake has been included in the itinerary, and that she would use every possible effort to have the "Tiger of France" visit Ogden and meet the Ogden people. She declared she would make it a personal matter to have Ogden included in the tour.

Butchers Complain of Meat Inspection

M. W. Belknap, former soldier with the Tenth Engineers in France, was appointed as city meat inspector by the city commission this morning. He will assume his new duties Monday morning, according to an announcement made by J. Ray Ward, commissioner of public safety, who recommended the appointment.

A delegation of local butchers came before the commissioners this morning and complained of the method in which meat inspections had been made by the city in the past. They declared that the source of meat coming from outside of the city was not carefully checked and investigated, while they were compelled to live up to the most stringent regulations. The system, they said, left an opening for unfair competition. The matter was taken under advisement and will be investigated.

Heaviest Rain of Year Drenches City

The heaviest rainstorm of the present year descended upon Ogden early this morning and at 2 o'clock the precipitation reached .65 of an inch, according to C. A. Bass, weather observer. From the weather reports that reached the local office this morning the storm was believed to have been general over the northern portion of the state. Predictions of the weather bureau are "showers tonight or Thursday, colder tonight."

The maximum temperature this morning was 62 degrees and 44 degrees minimum in the early morning hours.

THE HOOVER

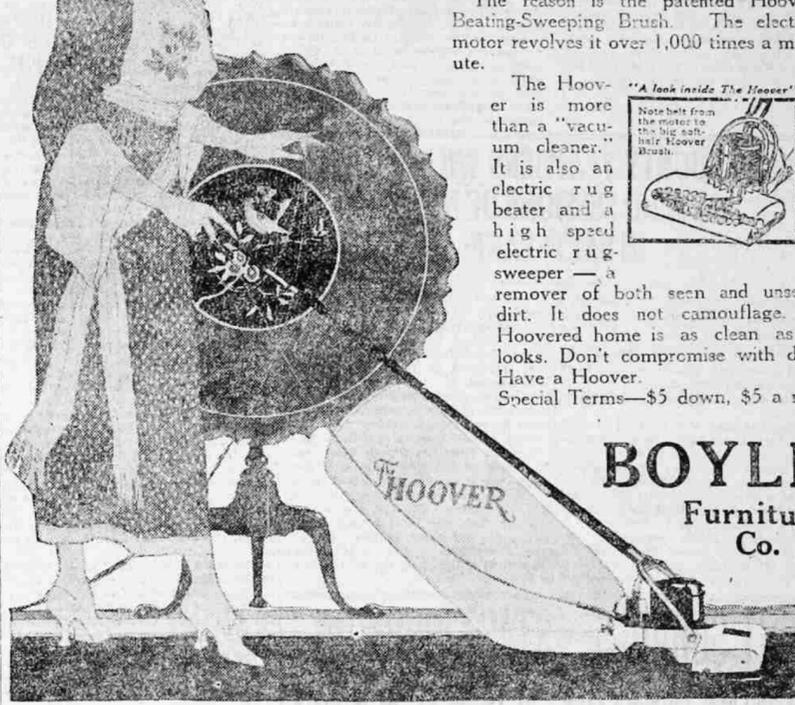

electric suction sweeper

The Hoover Does Not Camouflage

COULD you but "X-ray" your apparently clean rugs! Could you behold the hidden dirt they harbor! Could you watch them wear as footsteps grind soft nap against sharp imbedded grit! Then you would promptly have a Hoover.

From their interiors a Hoover would beat forth quarts of unwholesome filth.

Only the Hoover entirely dislodges and inhales such imbedded dirt. Only The Hoover sweeps up even the stubbornest-clinging lint, threads, hairs and litter.

The reason is the patented Hoover Beating-Sweeping Brush. The electric motor revolves it over 1,000 times a minute.

The Hoover is more than a "vacuum cleaner." It is also an electric rug beater and a high speed electric rug-sweeper—a remover of both seen and unseen dirt. It does not camouflage. A Hoovored home is as clean as it looks. Don't compromise with dirt. Have a Hoover.
