

CINCINNATI AND CLEVELAND HOLD WINNING PACE

Brooklyn National Pitchers Unable to Check Western Visitors, Lose Three Series.

NEW YORK, June 20.—The ability of the Cincinnati Nationals and the Cleveland Americans to maintain a winning pace against the eastern teams in the present intercollegiate series has enabled them to retain the leadership of their league. Each disposed of its chief eastern rival, the Brooklyn Nationals and the New York Americans, respectively, last week.

The Brooklyn National pitchers have been unable to check the western visitors, losing series to Cincinnati, St. Louis and Chicago. St. Louis' spectacular climb, which started in the west, met with a surprising interruption in Philadelphia, where the Quakers won three out of four. Both Chicago and Pittsburgh have recovered from their losing slumps.

There's Jack over there. He is an older man than I and deserves the place. Moakley is one of the few great coaches of the present day. He has developed some wonderful men.

Four clubs standing out as perennial sure things—Until some dark horse gets smart with the reins.

When Indians tackle Tanks and Robins meet Reds. 'Tis a game of see-saw. For the first place beds.

Season is being yet. Things can happen fast—Sometimes stars blow up. Down they go at last.

Making all the noise. Like Pat and Robbie. But be careful, boys.

With the season going into the mid-summer stage things are burning with the first division clubs of both major leagues.

The Cleveland Indians and the Yankees are spitting over the upper belt like a couple of colossals in the American, and Pat Moran and Uncle Wilbert are staging the same kind of show in John Heydler's circuit.

Right now these four clubs are so close together in the scramble that a slip on the part of either for even a day makes them trail.

WHAT THEY SAY

A friend of Jimmy Clabby, Tim Somers, has just returned from the Antipodes with the news that the outcome of the middleweight championship fight to make Australia his home.

Jimmy Clabby isn't going to quit the ring, but will make his home at Napier, Australia in the future. He was married last May to a New Zealand girl. Jimmy seems to be good at a drawing card as ever. He drew down from 200 to 400 pounds every time he fights. The game is going to be good in Sydney and other spots, so he can keep as busy as he likes.

The Davis cup isn't going to be so easy to get now around, according to a French critic. Here's what he says about Andre Gobert, the Picardy net player.

Andre Gobert may blast the hopes of all contenders for the Davis trophy cup. He is one of those big men who uses his size to advantage. This capacity accounts for 90 per cent of his genius. The other half of his power is in the perfection of his stroke and the intelligence to exploit it tactically.

New York's new boxing law is bringing out a swarm of match makers. Kid McCoy, hero of other days, is among them. The Kid says:

In arranging a card I will do just as the vaudeville managers do, put on bouts of all kinds, so that each fan is sure to see something he likes. For instance, I'll match a slugger against a boxer, as that generally makes a good fight, and I'll throw in a few covers. Then I will match two sluggers and two clever fellows. That will make a variety bill just like vaudeville. I will take care to have boxers from all divisions, so it won't be a lopsided bill.

Chicago's White Sox fans are disappointed that Chick Gandil did not take advantage of the five-day notice to return to the fold from the outlaws. He's out for three years now.
