PEA CANNING RUSH WORK ON GLOBE MILLS BEGIN OPERATION

Several Factories Start on Run While Others Getting Ready

With several factories started early this week on preliminary operations and others making ready for the run, the pea canning season in Ogden and northern Utah is underway. The prospects being for an output about equal to that of last year.

The Van Allen Canning corporation's plant on west Twenty-first street started operating in a small way last Monday and its Tremonton plant will begin late today or early tomorrow. The Wasatch plant of the Utah Packing corporation in West Ogden is also going ahead on the season's run and should reach normal during the coming week. The Morgan Canning company's plant at Storgun and its new cannery at Smithfield, said to be the largest of its kind in the west, will be canning peas within a week or ten days, according to anticipation of officers. The Woods Canning company has also started up its factories at Layton and Clearfield.

The Pleasant Grove Canning company is putting up strawberries at present, according to reports to the offices of the Utah Cannery association here, and, with a large crop to draw upon, has splendid prospects. Nearly all the canneries of Utah have made extensive improvements during the winter, especially in the way of promoting sanitation. The new inspection service of the national organization will also be a feature this year.

At the end of the pea season, cherries and apricots will be taken up. The output of apricots will be very light this year, officials predicted.

GERARD FAVORS IRISH FREEDOM THROUGH TREATY

SAN FRANCISCO, June 25.—James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany, and mentioned as a candidate for the presidential nomination, arrived last night. Mr. Gerard said he favored a declaration in the platform to the effect that before the United States becomes a member of the league of nations it request other members to release any nations under their dominion that are capable of self-government. Mr. Gerard said it would not be necessary to name such nations but he would have the effect of giving freedom to Ireland.

Mr. Gerard favored immediate peace and the ratification of the peace treaty with such reservations that would not nullify its objects. The former ambassador expressed the opinion that the sentiment of the country was in favor of prohibition and he favored leaving the subject out of the Democratic platform.

PRICES STAY AT TOP LEVEL FOR YEAR AT LEAST

Ogden Man Back From Convention Says Gradual Return to Pre-war Prices Expected in Year

Prices generally have reached their highest peak, but the return to the normal pre-war level will be gradual and cannot be looked for before next year. This fall a few commodities will be even higher in price than at present, but the majority will stand steady and decrease rather than increase beginning next spring. The complete readjustment will take nearly three years.

This was the composite sentiment expressed by leading business men and economists from all parts of the United States who spoke before the twenty-fifth convention of the National Association of Credit Men, held in Atlantic City, N. J., June 1 to 5, according to word brought to Ogden by E. H. Chambers, assistant manager of the E. H. Scoville Paper company. Mr. Chambers was a delegate to the convention representing the Utah Association of Credit Men.

In the opinion of the convention speakers, according to Mr. Chambers, prices will not be lower before the spring of 1921, even if then. Not a few goods will be higher this fall than they are now. For more than six months every wholesaler has been advanced costs. In many cases these goods could be replaced today, if at all, only at still higher prices.

"In certain lines, notably silks, prices have become inflated beyond reason," he said. "Reduced quotations in such lines are not systematic of the market as a whole."

"The cut prices sales now running over the country are confined mainly to spring ready-to-wear and kindred goods. As in every year when the coming of warm weather is late, retailers began cutting prices in May to avoid carrying the goods over."

"On staple merchandise, there is only one legitimate reason why any retail merchant should sharply reduce his prices, and that is the need of liquidation—when a loss—in order to meet bank obligations. The store which, without such compelling reason, can now afford to make deep cuts in prices on staple goods, by that very fact makes public confession that it has been charging an illegitimate profit for its wares."

Artificially high prices in general are artificially high. They must come down. The sooner they come down the better for everyone. But nothing is gained by ignoring the plain fact that wholesale prices and retail prices depend upon the cost of production. Until that comes down, talk about a lower level of prices is in vain.

The factors which will make for lower prices are undoubtedly gaining in momentum. The factors which make for higher prices are losing in momentum. But the latter are still in the ascendant, and it can be seen when the price lowering factors will become dominant.

"With food prices this fall remaining as at present or even going slightly higher, wages can not come down. There is an absolute shortage of the more important raw materials. The steep rise in rail and water shipping is depriving the mills of the materials they need to keep at work. It is a certainty that in most lines production still lags behind demand."

"Fancy Goods Decline. "One encouraging sign during the last sixty days is a greatly increased demand for the less expensive grades of merchandise—dependable quality goods at moderate prices—and a relative falling off in the demand for the higher priced 'fancy' grades which have been in such feverish demand for several seasons. It indicates the mind of the buying public is changing. The average person seems to be returning to the habit of seeking a good article at a fair price rather than accepting the more expensive thing without question."

Prominent Speakers. Among the prominent speakers at the convention, Mr. Chambers said, was Governor Henry J. Allen of Kansas, Howard Marshall of New York, Senator Walter E. Edge, of New Jersey and the leading business men of the country, in addition to government economic experts.

A resolution was passed at the sessions, according to Mr. Chambers, declaring against federal taxation as at present and especially directed against the excess profit and income tax. The resolution stated that the excess profits tax encourages the conducting of business on a higher level of cost, places a premium on business extravagance and is detrimental to the public interest. The resolution called upon congress to proceed at once to repeal the present excess profit law.

Public Utilities Seek Statement in Platform. WASHINGTON, June 25.—Efforts to incorporate a plank in the Democratic platform declaring for preservation of public utilities will be made tomorrow before the resolution committee in San Francisco, according to an announcement by the American Gas association.

Shortage of essential materials and great increase in cost of labor and materials necessitate public regulation, the announcement said.

PEAS AND BEANS MARKETING SOON

Vegetable Output From Local Gardens About Ready

Green peas, from local farms, promise to be the latest addition to Ogden tables and within a few days, probably a week, plenty of this vegetable will be on the market at a comparatively low price.

String beans, although somewhat retarded by frost, will shortly put in their appearance together with cucumbers from local gardens.

The tomato crop, while not ready for harvest, bids fair to be ready in about a month and will displace the California product, whose price, 25 cents per pound, has not altered appreciably since the initial appearance of the tomatoes this spring.

In the fruit line, watermelons, plums, and gooseberries mark the latest arrivals. The gooseberries, which are local products, retail at a low price. The watermelons, which are being shipped from other portions of the country, are selling for seven and a half cents per pound.

Cantaloupes, of fair size, are being marketed at about twelve and a half cents each, although some of the smaller ones have been offered at ten cents each.

The strawberry crop has reached its climax and is on the decline. It is stated, but prices for this fruit continue to be unusually high.

At no time this season will the berries retail at the old price of two cups for a quarter, it is stated.

Cherries will be numerous and fruit of the early variety is now being sold at the average cost of twenty-five cents per pound.

THIS CHAP OVER SEVEN FEET TALL GOING TO FRISCO

How's the weather up there, old top?" said an eager onlooker at the Union station today.

The gentleman in question, a small-town man, but seven feet two inches tall and weighing slightly more than 200 pounds looked down and answered, "Rather cool, thank you."

The tall man answers to the name of Frank Mitchell of Cheyenne, Wyo. Mitchell is a cowboy and is enroute to the Democratic convention, where he expects to rope a victory for his party. He caused considerable interest at the depot today, onlookers staring at him for several minutes.

Jackson Hole Folks Take Day Off, Fix Road

Labor costs, team hire, cost of materials, and several other expensive items were eliminated, and good roads are present in Jackson's Hole as the result of a community work day, held Tuesday, June 22, according to forest service advisers.

The entire community, armed with shovels, picks, teams, scrapers and other road building equipment, turned out for the task and through their efforts materially improved nearly 15 miles of road.

The affair was looked upon as an old-fashioned community party and while considerable work was accomplished, the day was one of pleasure it is said.

Prohibition Officer Visits Cache Valley

David Thomas, federal prohibition inspector for Utah was in Ogden today on his return to Salt Lake after making a survey of prohibition conditions in Cache county. During the trip Mr. Thomas visited practically all towns and cities in Cache valley. The northern portion of the state is in excellent condition in regard to following the prohibition law and the people of the section are doing all in their power to cooperate with the government officers, according to Mr. Thomas. Some of the people of the territory are manufacturing small quantities of liquor in their homes for personal use, but there is a total absence of trouble from the manufacture in the home, Mr. Thomas said.
