FEVERS FROM BITES.

Another lesson in the part flies play in carrying disease has been learned in a study of the deer fly fever in three isolated districts in Utah.

There is a fly in central Africa which conveys the sleeping sickness, and now a deer fly is found to inoculate humans with a bacteria which develops in rodents.

Deer-fly fever is described as sometimes fatal, but always painful and weakening in the extreme, and renders its victim totally disabled, so far as work goes, for some weeks.

More than one of the fevers in the west have been caused by bites. For a long period "spotted fever" puzzled the medical men, and then it was discovered that the disease was from the bite of a tick.

WHITE SOX SCANDAL.

When Cicotte, the famous White Sox pitcher, told the story of his infamy to the grand jury in Chicago, he wept and when he came out of the confessional he said:

"I have regretted a thousand times in the past year the crime I committed. I dread to think of the effect my wrong-doing will have on my children."

This is the old, old story of yielding to temptation and then being overwhelmed with remorse. Had Cicotte given just one minute to deep contemplation of the offense he was about to commit and had he looked forward to the mental distress he was inviting when he was face to face with treachery and false dealing, he might have escaped the disgrace and humiliation now upon him.

There is need in America for the purifying influence of honesty. All our sports, with this exposure in baseball, are brought within the power of the corrupter.

There is a demoralizing suggestion in this baseball scandal, which may not sink home now that the swift hand of retribution is upon the White Sox team.

Comiskey, as owner of the White Sox, did the right thing when he telegraphed the indicted men, that they were suspended and, if found guilty, would be driven from organized baseball.

THE CENSUS OF 1920.

In the census of 1920, Montana has made a most creditable showing and with an increase of 45.6 per cent, the copper state has gone ahead of Utah and Idaho.

Many of the farming communities have grown in population and the mining camps have taken on new life, although in the past year Butte has been slumping owing to the depression in the copper industry.

Montana's increase has been from 376,000 in 1910 to 547,594 in 1920, or a growth of 171,540.

Nevada's entire population will not equal Montana's increase in ten years.

Louisiana today has 1,797,798, or an increase of 141,410, which is 30,000 less than is credited to Montana.

NO PLACE FOR CHILDREN.

Complaints are being received by the city commissioners to the effect that the apartment houses of Ogden have closed their doors to prospective tenants with children.

One of the hotel men of Ogden has stated that family after family has left the city owing to the refusal of apartment house owners to allow children to enter.

A woman with four children has tramped over the greater part of Ogden, seeking accommodations for herself and little ones, and the one answer she has received is this:

"We do not want children in our apartments."

How is this city to grow, if children are to be barred from shelter?

Unless a family has a home of its own, serious trouble is confronting the father and mother. Once they are outside the protecting roof of a house, little encouragement is given them. They can beg and entreat, but the one reply will be:

"Too bad. We can do nothing for you. You have children. Good-bye."

POLITICAL SPEAKERS.

Utah, as never before, is receiving attention from the political parties.

Already Governor Cox has been in the state, also Roosevelt, the vice presidential candidate, representing the Democratic side.

Of the Republican forces, Governor Harding of Iowa and young Teddy Roosevelt with Robson, have been here, and the schedule calls for Senator L. L. Lenroot of Wisconsin, Herbert Hoover and former Senator Albert J. Beveridge of Indiana.

There was a time when Utah could obtain but a feeble response from the big parties. Today the most persuasive speakers are being thrown into the political arena in this state.

TWO NOTES

This was the note that Cory Conon's boy laid on Mr. Scribble Scratch's desk. "Dear Mr. Schoolmaster. I am sorry that Pety cannot be at school today for his writing examination, but I have to take him to the doctor's to find out what is wrong with his quills. He has lost so many lately that he is nearly bald and he

He handed the note to Nancy and just then Nick came in with the poke-berry ink.

"P. S.—Why can't Pety write better? He can read reading but he can't read writing."

Mr. Scribble Scratch looked very queer when he read this. First because they couldn't have any examination that day unless the little porcupine boy were there to furnish the pens, second, because it was only too true that he couldn't write. He and Nancy had promised to let him off from his writing lessons if he would be so kind as to furnish the pens.

He handed the note to Nancy and just then Nick came in with the poke-berry ink. "Dear Mr. Schoolmaster. The Reduced Cost of Tire Mileage for Your Small Car

Do you realize that Goodyear Tires are priced no higher today than in 1910 and that their mileage actually costs less than it did a decade ago?

During this period Goodyear has been able steadily to increase the amount of mileage built into its tires and, consequently, the cost of Goodyear mileage has actually declined.

In no part of the Goodyear line has this decline been more marked than in the present 30 x 3, 30 x 3 1/2 and 31 x 4-inch sizes of Goodyear Tires, made especially for small cars.

If you own a Ford, Chevrolet, Dort, Maxwell or other car taking these sizes, go to your nearest Service Station for them—get the unusual value contained in their construction and delivered in their mileage.

30 x 3 1/2 Goodyear Double-Cure Fabric, All-Weather Tread $2350. 30 x 3 1/2 Goodyear Single-Cure Fabric, Anti-Skid Tread $2150.

Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes cost no more than the price you are asked to pay for tubes of less merit—why risk costly casings when such sure protection is available? 30 x 3 1/2 size $450 in waterproof bag.

of adults even if they have stopped growing. Another important content in milk are the vitamins. One is present in the fat, and the other in the watery part of the milk. Of the two the fat soluble vitamin is of more importance, because we get a quantity of the water soluble vitamin in many of our other foods.

No family should think of buying meat until it has bought enough milk to give each member of the family one glassful for each meal.

One member of our family is afflicted with cataracts on both eyes. Have you any information to offer as to what to do to effect a cure?

The public health service has no bulletins which deal with the subject of cataracts. This condition consists in a change whereby the lens of the eye become opaque. Treatment requires the services of a skilled physician eye specialist, and consists usually in the removal of the opaque lens, in other words, in the extraction of the cataract. The treatment of cataracts, however, varies with the variety. It is suggested that you discuss the matter with your family physician and have him refer you to some reliable eye specialist for advice and treatment.

TIME MADE CHANGES. TOKIO, Sept. 28.—Premier Hara visited his native town a few days ago. He hired a ricksha at the station. After a few steps, the ricksha man turned around and said: "Ain't you Mr. Hara?" "Yes," answered the Premier, "and who are you?" The ricksha man gave his name and it then was discovered that the two had been school-mates many years ago. They spent a happy half day together talking over old times.

The present-ruling family of Japan came to the throne in 650 B. C.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—The 1920 census figures show that Iowa has fewer federal employees, and her people have made fewer applications for government jobs, than any other state in the union. Incidentally federal officials have remarked that it is harder to fill a government job in Iowa than in any other state, and sometimes residents from other states have to take federal jobs in Iowa.

On the other hand the people of Virginia hold the most government jobs, and thousands of applications are pending from that state.

Back in the days of Ann Lee the Shakers of Lebanon, N. Y., advertised that they would hold a "shaker dance" at the corner of Eleventh street and Pennsylvania avenue here. That was about a half century ago. The notice of this affair is still a matter of record among the old showbills in a case at the congressional library.

In the gay city of Washington, the center of culture, within a block of the White House, many distinguished persons take their meals in a stable—a place that formerly housed race horses.

It is the National Woman's party tea room. It is on the alley in the rear of the party's home, 14 Jackson place. Even members of the tariff commission—Edward P. Costigan and wife, for instance—go down this alley and in at the same door where many a fleet-footed steed has passed, to eat. This tea room is probably one of the most popular in the national capital. The walls have been painted and the horsefeed room is used as a kitchen. The stall partitions were removed. Mrs. Ruth Quick, former picket, is in charge and has made a big success of it financially, and as a social center, so much so that recently it has been necessary to put eating tables in one end of the militants' ball room to accommodate the overflow.

MILK AS A DIET. The importance of milk as a part of the daily diet cannot be too often, or too frequently stressed. Indeed, there is no other food quite as valuable taken by itself, and there is no substitute.

Milk contains protein of a more valuable kind than is found in most other foods. Whole or skimmed milk is a valuable meat substitute, and, when we drink milk, we necessarily need less meat.

Milk is rich in fat, and a pint of milk contains a little more than half an ounce of fat; about the same quantity as an ordinary serving of butter. Milk also contains an amount of sugar.

When we drink milk we are getting a quantity of sugar, fat and protein, and these burn in the body and produce energy.

Milk is exceedingly rich in calcium of lime, which is necessary for the growth of the bones and the teeth in the young and a necessity in the diet
