MAN GOD'S OWN? BAH! SAYS PASTOR MORE LIKE FISH!

(N. E. A. Staff Special.)

LONDON, Nov. 9.—So called "old-fashioned church people" have been shocked and the scientists and more "modern" religious folk much elated by the publicly expressed views of the Rev. E. W. Barnes, canon of Westminster, on the origin of man.

Before the solemn church congress packed with archbishops, bishops and other divines, Canon Barnes declared: "Systematic observation has made it practically certain that man was not specially created by God, as, until two generations ago, all Christians believed."

"To the biologist man was cousin to the ape. His ancestry, as embryology affirmed, went through the amphibians to the fish. Such a discovery gave to all religious speculations as to the origin of man a background far different from that of the theologians who elaborated the doctrine of the Trinity."

Canon Barnes raised a storm between the orthodox and the heretics that may split the church of England into two distinct camps.

ARIZONA'S APEX LAW IS TESTED

First Such Suit in Courts of State Involves Valuable Ore Body

KINGMAN, Ariz., Nov. 10.—An ore body, alleged to be worth $2,000,000 and said to have slipped down from one mining company's property to that of another, was the basis of a suit on trial Tuesday in the Mohave county superior court.

The suit was brought by the Tom Reed Gold Mining company against the United Eastern Mining company and was based on the apex law of Arizona giving the discoverer of the apex or top of a ledge the right to the entire ledge even though it should pass underground beyond the side boundaries of the discoverer's property into the property of another.

The Tom Reed company claimed that a $2,000,000 ore body on its property was the apex of the ore body on what was known as the Big Jim claim, having faulted or slid down to within the Tom Reed's property line, a distance of several hundred feet. Witnesses for the Tom Reed company were on the stand today. The United Eastern, which had bought the Big Jim claim from its discoverers had not yet disclosed its defense.

MANY EXPERTS CALLED. Counsel from San Francisco, Los Angeles, Couer d'Alene, Idaho, and from Arizona were in court for the companies and witnesses, summoned included Horace V. Wrenchell, former president of the American Institute of Mining Engineers; Fred Searles, geologist; Dr. W. H. Emmons, professor of geology of the University of Minnesota and director of the Minnesota State Geological survey; J. A. Burgess, former general manager of the United Eastern mine; Percy Harrison, of Cripple Creek; Oscar H. Hershey, geologist; Albert Burch and Walter H. Wiley, mining engineers; Andrew C. Lawson, head of the geologic department of the University of California; and Bemis Phelps, superintendent of the Tom Reed.

Experiments demonstrating the vertical and horizontal workings of the disputed property had been prepared and were said to have cost many thousands of dollars. This was the first apex law suit brought in the courts of Arizona.

State Loses Point in Legal Contest; Hearing Again Friday

Preliminary hearing of Mrs. Laura Barker, charged with first degree murder in connection with the death of her husband, Charles Lee Barker, who died of arsenic poisoning, was adjourned in the city court yesterday until Friday.

A judgment was ordered following the taking of testimony of Charles F. McDonald, Rancho, Uta, druggist, and Dr. H. E. Worsell, who attended Barker during his illness.

The druggist testified that he sold Mrs. Barker a quantity of arsenic and presented his poison register as evidence of the transaction.

During the afternoon, George Halverson, counsel for the defense, and Joseph B. Bates, county attorney, contested over the admissibility of certain evidence regarding a conversation between the doctor and Barker's lawyer before the latter's death.

Attorney Halverson argued that such evidence could not be introduced on the grounds that proper foundation for the admission of the conversation had not been laid.

Mr. Bates contended that it was proper and legal and quoted at length from various authorities to prove his point, but lost his contention with the objection of the defense was sustained by City Judge D. H. Roberts. Mrs. Barker appeared less interested in the case than the spectators who thronged the court room. The hearing will be resumed Friday morning.

GERMANY HOPES FOR MORE FOOD

Brighter Winter Outlook Reported by Minister Before Reichstag

BERLIN, Nov. 9.—(By the Associated Press)—Hope for the betterment of Germany's food situation through increased home production and improvement in the method of handling importations was expressed by Andreas Hermes, the minister of food, in a statement to the main committee of the reichstag today.

The grain deliveries from inland sources were lagging behind, the food minister said, and he proposed to accelerate them by demanding the closer cooperation of the federated states and the producers. The threat of rigorous penalties for illicit trafficking in wheat and flour, also was held out by the minister.

Herr Hermes added that requirements would call for further heavy purchases at home and abroad.

While the production of beet sugar shows a slight increase, the minister said it was proposed to continue the official rationing of sugar.

Herr Hermes informed the committee that the government proposed the suppression of smuggling along the German-Dutch frontier by the use of armed forces, and that permission to this end had been granted by the Rhineland commission.

Christmas Seal Drive Starts Thanksgiving

Ogden and Salt Lake will be organized for the sale of Christmas seals under the supervision of Heber M. Wells, former governor of Utah, who was appointed publicity director of the seal sale campaign at a meeting of the central committee. Mr. Wells will also act as general director of sales throughout the state.

Headquarters will be opened this week at the Hotel Utah in the rooms formerly occupied by the state republican committee, and a working force of district and precinct committees and chairmen outlined.

The first presidency of the L. D. S. church, in compliance with the request of the National Tuberculosis association, with which the Utah Public Health association is affiliated, has set aside December 5 as Tuberculosis Sunday. Other churches in Utah will be asked to do likewise. On this Sunday sermons will be preached in churches the country over on the menace of the white plague.

Immediate work of organization will begin in Ogden and Salt Lake, so that everything will be in readiness for the opening of the campaign Thanksgiving day.

STOREKEEPERS STRIKE AGAINST REFORM LAWS

BIENOS AIRES, Nov. 10.—(By the Associated Press)—As a protest against the heavy taxes passed by the Cordoba provincial authorities on alcoholic liquors, tobacco and playing cards, all the wholesale and retail storekeepers in that province have declared a strike and adopted a resolution to close their shops November 15 and to keep them closed until the law is annulled.

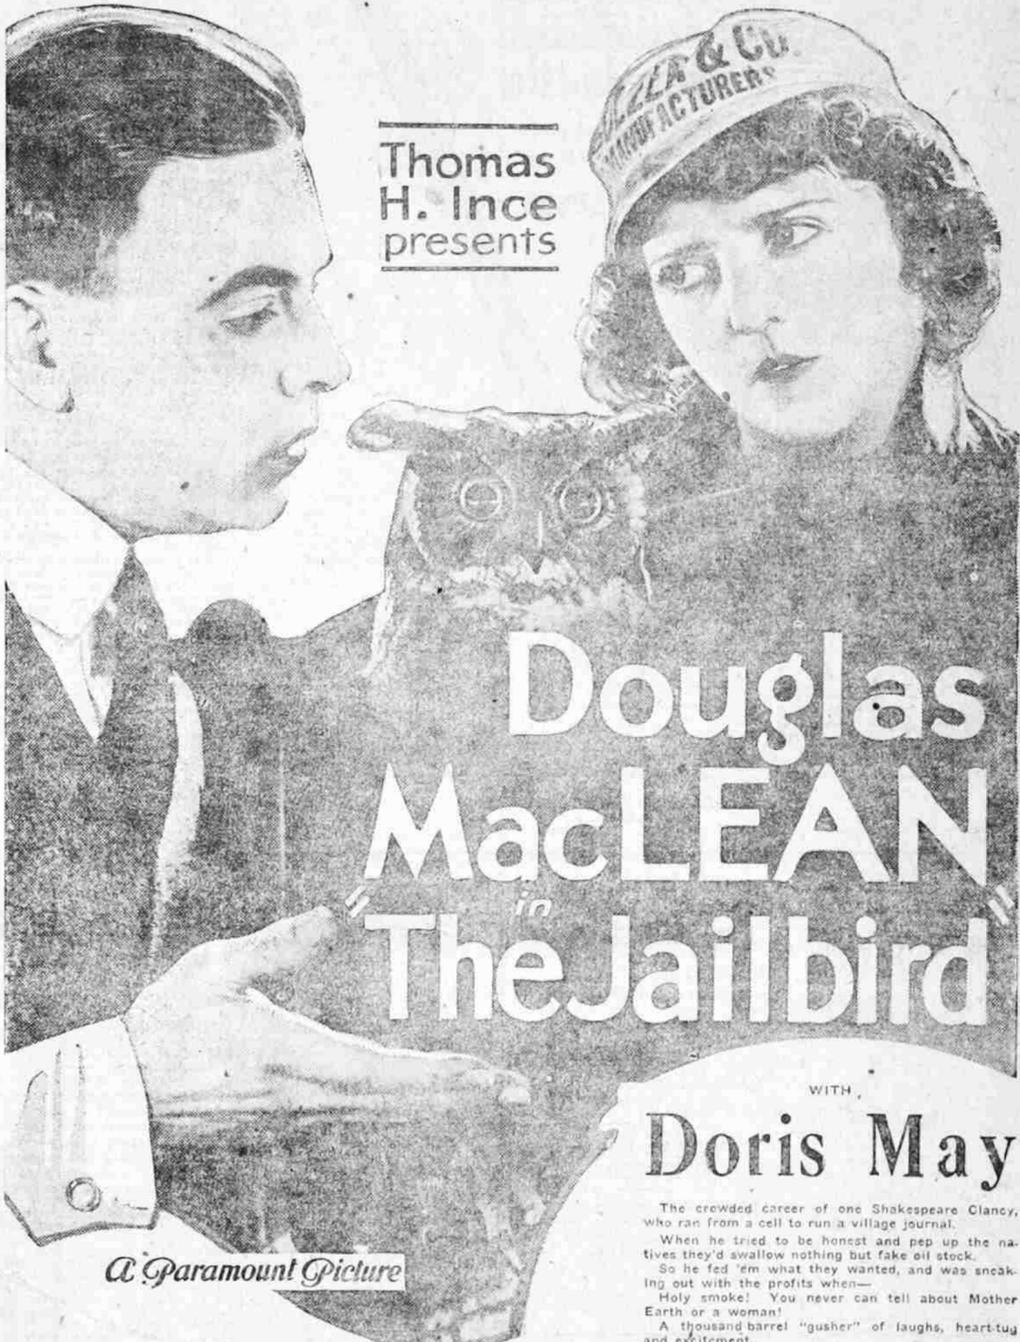

The taxes were imposed in order to check what the legislators described as a tendency on the part of the people to over-indulge in drinking, smoking and gambling.

JUGO-SLAVS GET ITALY'S DEMANDS

Little Nation Receives Ultimatum Prior to Opening Parleys

RAPALLO, Italy, Nov. 9.—(By the Associated Press)—To what may be considered an ultimatum sent to the Jugo-Slav delegation here regarding the pending negotiations between Italy and Jugo-Slavia over the Adriatic question, Count Storza, the Italian foreign minister, as head of the Italian delegation, laid down Italy's definite minimum claims. These, the document stated, were:

- 1. The Italian frontier, including the Julian Alps, Nevoso mountain and the railway from Fiume to St. Peter Junction.
- 2. Territorial contiguity between Fiume and Italy.
- 3. Fiume to be a state entirely independent, without any control by the league of nations.
- 4. Annexation of the islands of Lussino, Piccolo and Cherso to Italy.
- 5. Annexation of Zara to Italy.
- 6. Annexation of several of the Jugo-Slav islands to Italy for strategic reasons.
- 7. Guarantees for the protection of the Italian minorities in Dalmatia, remaining under Serbian rule.
- 8. Demilitarization of some of the Dalmatian positions which will be allotted to Serbia.

SUSPECTED POISONER OF WIFE HELD NOT GUILTY

CARMARTHEN, Wales, Nov. 10.—Harold Greenwood, on trial here charged with the murder of his wife, was found not guilty by a jury Tuesday. The defendant, who is a middle-aged lawyer of the small Welsh town of Kivwells, was charged with poisoning his wife who died June 16, 1919, after that he might marry his present wife, who was Miss Gladys Jones. The body of the first Mrs. Greenwood was exhumed in April last and a verdict of murder was returned against Greenwood after an inquest. It was said poison, believed to have been administered in wine, was found in the body.

The present Mrs. Greenwood is the daughter of a newspaper proprietor.
