

GREECE DEAD BY HER OWN HAND

That Is View of Situation
Taken by Foreigners
In Athens

ATHENS, Nov. 19.—(By the Associated Press).—Like a college town after a football game, Athens, turned out to celebrate this afternoon, the first national expression shown here in many weeks. It is not months, the crowds, having managed to get some sleep after strenuous days and refreshed in the sunny, calm weather, let themselves go. They organized a parade in University street, marched past the home of the fallen Venizelos, went on to the king's palace, thence to the stadium and back again, overflowing into the side streets.

DEMONSTRATION FOR KING.

The crowds were good natured and made up of soldiers, young men and women. They were about, in carriages and automobiles, all carrying lithographs, paintings or photographs of former King Constantine and also of the former German emperor. Between snatches of songs of Constantine, there were shouts of "where is the man who voted for Venizelos?" We think there was one. We want to see him!

The falling darkness brought carousing and disorders which were contributed to by soldiers coming in from Smyrna where there have been troubles with the soldiers, who have been insisting on being permitted to come home.

Local foreigners express the opinion that greater Greece is dead by her own hand and reduced, over night from a second rate power to a comic opera condition. The Venizelists are packing up and scurrying to leave the capital and retire to the provinces, although there, and in places like Corfu and Saloniki the Royalists already have forcibly taken possession of affairs.

Many Tourists Going Over Arrowhead Route

Hundreds of automobiles are traveling over the Arrowhead route between Ogden and the coast according to A. B. Brown, highway engineer for the United States Bureau of Public Roads who has just returned from an inspection tour of roads in Nevada. The roads in Nevada are reported to be good in most sections of the state although a few rough sections are to be found in some parts of the state according to Engineer Brown.

Travel in particular over the Arrowhead trail both west and east is reported to be heavy. The majority of the cars making the trips in both directions are out of state cars. It is said.

In company with W. N. Frickstad of the local office and George Boden, assistant engineer for the state of Nevada, the roads on project 37 were inspected by these men and Mr. Brown. The road from Las Vegas to St. Thomas is being constructed over a road bed formerly used by a railroad. This road when completed will make a connection with both the Arrowhead trail and the Overland route. It will open up a new road between Ogden and the coast.

The road between Elko and Hall's Creek, twenty miles in length was inspected by Highway Engineer J. H. Young. This road connects at Lucin with the Overland trail.

At Reno Engineers Young and Boden attended a meeting of the American Association of Engineers at which Governor Boyle and Senator-elect Oddie were present. Considerable discussion arose over the Chamberlain bill and also over the Townsend bill, two bills which will be put before congress at the next session.

To secure information for Weber county beet growers, relative to the sugar contents of beets grown in the county, C. T. Hurst, agricultural chemist, has been employed by the Weber county farm bureau. Mr. Hurst is now located at the local factory of the Amalgamated Sugar company, making analysis and checking the cossette and individual grower's tests made by the factory chemists. The record of tests made since the factory started in operation this season, indicates that the beets from local growers will average 15 per cent or better in sugar contents.

Mr. Hurst is a graduate of the Utah Agricultural college, having specialized in the study of agricultural chemistry and sugar beet investigation. His work will be not only in Weber county but in Cache county as well.

Recover Automobile Stolen From Texas

After a search for several months, a Chandler chummy automobile, which is said to have been stolen from Houston, Texas, was recovered last night by Deputy Sheriff Dick Wootton and Joseph Chadwick.

A man supposed to be B. K. Freeman who was driving the car, made his escape and is being sought by the officers. The car was brought to Ogden two months ago and had been repainted a bright yellow color. It bore a Texas license number.

When the officers found yesterday that the car had been seen in Ogden, Freeman, it is said, started for Salt Lake. He was intercepted at Layton by Sheriff Nalder who telephoned the sheriff's office here. Nalder was instructed to hold the car and arrest the driver, but Freeman, it is alleged, made his escape while the officer was telephoning.

Complete Three Miles of Work on Cutoff

Three miles of the work being done on the Lucin Cutoff by the Southern Pacific company has been completed at a cost of $800,000, according to local officials. This work has been completed from Withee's Spur to Promontory Point. The remaining improvements outlined for the trail will require three years to complete.

New ties and rails will be used in the improvements, which will cost about $3,000,000, or about the same amount as it originally cost to build the cutoff, which was completed in 1903 and which is regarded as one of the greatest engineering feats in the world's history.

Redecking of timbers is also included in the program of improvements. More than fifty men are working on the improvements and the work is being rushed to completion.

It is estimated that more than 2,000,000 passengers have passed over the Great Salt Lake cutoff via the Southern Pacific during the past ten years.
