FANATICS TO KILL CHILDREN.

Religious fanatics are as difficult to understand as people mentally deficient. In British Columbia there is a religious body known as the Doukhobors, with leaders who urge that the children be thrown into the Columbia river and the aged and sick be slaughtered in order that the middle aged be freed from encumbrances in their desire to escape taxation by becoming wanderers on the face of the earth.

This is a reminder of the biblical story of the king's command to kill all the male babies born of Jewish parentage. The Doukhobors have given the Canadian government much trouble. It is related that on more than one occasion they have made midwinter pilgrimages while both men and women were absolutely nude. One of the duties of the Royal Northwest Mounted police in times gone by has been to chase these pilgrims, wrap buffalo robes around the women and bring them back to their homes. Almost any small disaffection has been known to cause such a pilgrimage.

WITHOUT HIS EYES.

How tenaciously we cling to life! Down in Nogales, Arizona, Theodore Marburg, Jr., had both eyes removed by surgeons in an effort to save his life. To be blinded and still desire to hold on seems to be the supreme test of how dear life is.

Young Marburg is a son of the former ambassador to Belgium. He had lost his right leg while a member of the British flying corps overseas during the war. But with a leg off and eyes out, he continues the fight for existence.

SHAFROTH IN OGDEN.

News of the death of John T. Shafrroth, former United States senator from Colorado, will remind old Ogdenites of the days of the "boom" in 1889 and 1890. At that time Mr. Shafrroth held much of the bench land around the site of the Methodist university and gave promise of being a man of great wealth. The drop in real estate left him with his large holdings and in the years following he was a frequent visitor to Ogden, maintaining his faith in the future of the community.

KEEPING OUT THE FOREIGNERS.

It is well that congress had the foresight to put in operation restrictive immigration measure which, in the past eight months has kept the number of foreigners arriving in this country down to 192,000. Before the war, when the doors were wide open, the stream of immigration had reached the proportions of a flood and, with Europe in turmoil after the great struggle, the rush to this country would have been unprecedented.

On Monday the house passed a resolution extending the 3 per cent restriction until July 30, 1923. If this action had not been taken, there would have been an unlimited influx of foreigners after June 30.

Congress soon will proceed to enact a permanent law, the provision of which should be as stringent as the present measure.

EVERETT TRUE

BY CONDO

gentlemen's agreement" and Chinese students are not restricted. That is not an argument against the 3 per cent rule. It only points out loopholes which should be closed. The Japanese could be excluded. There should be no serious objection to the coming of any number of Chinese students. In fact the students should be encouraged to get the inspiration of American contact and education. Having a thorough system of identification and registration, with the committing of the students to the care of certain schools, there need be no uneasiness over the question of returning the students to their native land.

THINGS ARE LOOKING UP.

That was cheering news received yesterday from the federal reserve board, predicting an early return of prosperity and assuring the country that the upward swing of the pendulum of industrial activity was in evidence.

Of course the federal reserve board has made forecasts which have been far from being fulfilled, but this time the board gives proof of an improved condition at hand and of better times approaching.

Money is easier, prices of products have advanced, orders for goods are increasing and confidence is coming back.

DEFENDING AMERICANS.

Americans generally will endorse the declaration of President Harding and Secretary Hughes that American rights the world over must be respected and equal opportunities must be given Americans. This attitude has been taken following what seems to be a determined effort of foreign countries holding mandates over Mesopotamia, Persia and parts of Turkey to exclude, or at least hamper, Americans who desire to establish themselves in business.

It is stated that Ambassador George Harvey is under instructions to watch every development at the forthcoming conference of allied premiers in Paris. The meeting has just been called by Lord Curzon, British foreign minister, to determine a new allied policy for the near east. When the question of modifying the Sevres treaty is taken up, the American state department will be kept informed of each move in ample time. Every effort will be made to secure the annulment of present provisions of the treaty which permit widespread discrimination against Americans, and to prevent new clauses being inserted which would have similar results. Vigorous pressure has been brought to bear upon the American government during the past two months by Americans in the near east. The American commissioner in Constantinople has forwarded to Washington numerous protests from American firms. These protests invariably charge that allied nationals, with the open or tacit encouragement of their governments, are conspiring to exclude Americans from the work of developing the Balkans, Persia, the Turkish empire, Palestine and Mesopotamia.

PROPOSES HUGE HIGHWAY FUND

Senator Stanfield Would Make Available Half Billion for Roads

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—To make available $500,000,000 per year for the next five years to carry forward the work of cooperative road construction, a bill introduced yesterday by Senator Stanfield of Oregon amending the federal road law. He stated that such legislation was necessary to keep the road work going forward.

Utah road officials have asserted that it is their hope that some definite program such as that in Senator Stanfield's bill will be adopted as a settled policy by the federal government. It was on the supposition that such a program is almost a certainty that the states of the union adopted the plan that the counties which put up the money for federal aid road projects should share in the federal aid on the same basis as the state receives it, putting up 25 per cent of the cost of the road construction to 74 per cent provided by the federal government. In no one year can all the counties of the state be benefited by this form of federal aid. It is pointed out, but if the aid is extended over a term of years, practically all the counties will have opportunity, though some may have to receive state aid in addition when their roads are important state or interstate highways.

YOUTH DENIES OTHER CRIMES

Roy Donnell, Confessed Slayer, Brands Brighton's Statements False

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal., Feb. 21.—Roy E. Donnell, confessed slayer of C. A. Faus, denied emphatically last night that he had ever been implicated in any other crimes excepting the Faus murder. He branded the statement of G. L. Brighton as absolutely false that he had been mixed up in other crimes and said that while he knew Brighton, Brighton had talked of nothing but crime. Donnell denied any knowledge of the three holdups that shot C. A. Nickerson a week or so before the Faus murder. He also denied knowing anything about "Chick" Weatherbee being implicated. Talking about Brighton he said:

"It's not Brighton's fault I wasn't pulling all kinds of jobs. Holdups were about all he talked about when he met me. He wanted me to go with him, but he never told me what particular plan he had, except the tailor shop, and I don't think he robbed that. I wouldn't go with him anyway. Brighton knew I was broke, up against it, and hungry. He would give me a little money now and then and kept pressing me to do holdup jobs. I stalled him as long as I could, thinking I could get a little money from him when I needed it."

"Finally he put up this Faus robbery and I was up against it and did as he told me to. If the Salt Lake officers want to know who else was in with Brighton they should find out who he borrowed that .38-caliber revolver from that he gave me. It wasn't his, although he might have owned it once. I know he sold a 38 one but I didn't know who to. When the Faus robbery was ready he told me he would get me a gun and he came back with the .38, so I know he didn't own it. I don't know any jobs Brighton pulled, because he never told me, but he was always talking about how he would like to stick somebody up, and he always had plenty of money."

UTAH DEBATERS BEAT MONTANA

Aggies Take Negative Side on Closed Shop Question

POZEMAN, Mont., Feb. 21.—The Utah Agricultural college debating team defeated the Montana State college team here last night by a vote of two to one. The subject was Resolutions not only in Utah but in every state of the Union, at present, is that of the physically and mentally subnormal," declared Dr. Heber J. Seers, head of the department of hygiene at the University of Utah, after his return from a two-month trip to California and the Hawaiian Islands.

SUBNORMAL PRESENT PROBLEM TO STATE

(Special Dispatch) SALT LAKE, Feb. 21.—The big problem now before the legislature of every state of the Union, at present, is that of the physically and mentally subnormal," declared Dr. Heber J. Seers, head of the department of hygiene at the University of Utah, after his return from a two-month trip to California and the Hawaiian Islands. While on his trip, Dr. Seers spent a large part of the time studying the subnormal as well as conditions of leprosy and special work of the hygiene of the school child. He spent two weeks in California and a month and a half in the Hawaiian Islands. Dr. Seers is now working out methods for bringing the subnormal child up to normal and providing educational facilities for those who are either super-normal or sub-normal. Some of the physical defects that are holding the children back in their school work are such diseases as infected tonsils and adenoids and bad eyesight. Special attention must also be paid to the subnormal mentally, he said. There should be given special training by each state.
