

HOME BUILDING ACTIVITY GAINS

Water Connections Show Larger Number of Dwellings Going Up

Ogden's annual activity in the building of residences is reflected in the records of the city department which show for this year a total of 201 water connections have been made to city water mains. Some of these connections are being made for future use where houses are now under construction.

When compared with a total of 161 connections made during the twelve months of 1921, the increase is significant.

Within the last week six connections were made for new houses on Harrison and Twenty-ninth streets. These residences are being constructed by Arthur Shreveus and will soon be completed.

Other connections are being made on Twenty-ninth and Twenty-ninth streets for proposed new buildings.

A main is being installed on Fifteenth street which will later connect with the main on Twenty-ninth street in the vicinity of Hudson and Fifteenth street.

Water connections have been made in the block of Twenty-eighth street between Harrison and Twenty-ninth streets. The paving is being done on that street.

Applications for new water connections are being made daily and it is estimated that the total for this year will greatly exceed that of 1921. Large mains are also to be installed in various parts of the city which will relieve any possible water shortage next year.

CHURCH WOMEN TO SERVE SUPPER

The southwest corner of Twenty-ninth and Madison avenue will be a blaze of light Monday evening. The trees and eaves of the residence of Angus Kennedy and the front and back lawn made attractive by the use of flowers and other decorations, will be placed within a lattice-work enclosure at 2693 Madison avenue and outdoor supper will be served for the women of the Presbyterian missionary society.

There will be a musical program from 8:30 to 9 o'clock. Instrumental music will be furnished by Miss Ruth McCreary, Miss Marva McBride, Miss Marie Proudfit, Miss Martha C. Cole, Miss Edwin L. Howes, Miss Mary Robert, Miss Ida Anderson, Miss Megie Barry, and the Intermediate Victoria chorists led by Miss Esther Taylor.

Total numbers will be furnished by Joseph J. Brown, Mrs. Donald Jackson, and Robert McNally.

The menu will include chicken and strawberry shortcake.

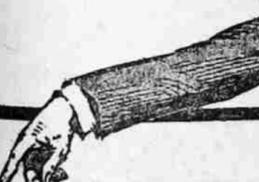

NO BRIDGE THIS YEAR, SAYS MAYOR

As a result of numerous inquiries which have been made as the result of the installation of new flooring on the North Washington avenue bridge over the Ogden river, Mayor Frank Braxas asserted yesterday that there is little prospect of a new bridge for this year, due to the pressure of more important projects upon the city.

He declared that the bridge money had not been spent, as had been rumored, and no bridge bonds have been sold at this time, the municipality already having exceeded its bonded debt.

However, the money for the bridge construction has not yet been raised and, therefore, could not have been spent for any other project.

WOULD BAR SHIPS THAT SERVE LIQUOR

WASHINGTON, June 17.—A bill denying entrance to American ports of any ship, foreign or domestic, on which liquor is sold, was introduced today by Representative Edmunds, Pennsylvania, ranking Republican of the merchant marine committee, which drafted the ship subsidy bill.

In addition to prohibiting such ships from entering the waters of the United States, the bill would impose a penalty of $10,000 upon any vessel which violates its provisions, would prohibit the clearance of such vessel until the fine is paid and would authorize the suspension or revocation of the license of the master of any American vessel which violated its provisions. The bill would prohibit the sale aboard ships of any liquors defined as intoxicating by the Volstead act but would permit the use of liquor for non-beverage medical purposes.

WOMAN EXPECTS TO BE SENATOR

Mrs. Peter Oleson May Be First of Her Sex in Upper House

By GEORGE N. BRIGGS
Special Dispatch to The Standard-Examiner
(Copyright, 1922, by The Standard-Examiner)

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 17.—Unless some of our very best political prognosticators are sadly off in their calculations, Mrs. Peter Oleson, of Cloquet, Minn., will find herself on Monday night next the first woman ever nominated for the United States senate by one of the major parties.

The odds all favor Mrs. Oleson in the Democratic primaries, and already she has made plans for the immediate start of her campaign against Senator Frank R. Kellogg, Republican incumbent. Senator Kellogg is certain of re-nomination and Mrs. Oleson feels equally sure of success at the primary polls. She has rather stubborn opposition, however, from Thomas J. Melgren, who has the backing of the Democracy of Ramsey county, where most of the Democratic voters of the state reside. Mrs. Oleson has made a woman issue of it, however, and it is expected that she will win the state will see that she is victorious.

The very fact that everybody tells her she hasn't the ghost of a show to defeat Senator Kellogg, who has been making Mrs. Oleson's name for some time, has made Mrs. Oleson determined to win, even at the sacrifice of a rough campaign.

TO TOUR

With the little she has been campaigning for ten weeks, she registers at the state, she has within two weeks of her nomination. Her plans are to spend some time in the state, and then to tour the other states.

This is a Democratic primary, said Mrs. Oleson today, and the most important thing is to draft the strongest available Democrat into the race, if I cannot beat Mr. Melgren in the primary it is certain I could not defeat Senator Kellogg in the fall. We are going to defeat Senator Kellogg, however, and I hope to be the one to do it.

Of course such a prediction is classified as "saying" up here where Republicanism is men and drink, and Democrats are almost as scarce as liquor licenses. Nevertheless there is a lot of sympathy for the peppery lady of Cloquet, who has made such a whirlwind campaign and has met with such glowing receptions everywhere that the uninitiated would consider her chances of election better than the average.

SUPPORT APPARENT

The surface shows plenty of support more than enough to win the Democratic running for office, but the Republican leaders say it is preposterous to expect Mrs. Oleson or any other Democrat to beat Senator Kellogg, who has the strong Republican organization of Minnesota behind him. Just what sort of campaign Senator Kellogg, who is an extremely dignified man, will choose to wage against Mrs. Oleson in the event of her nomination, remains to be seen. It will be a novel experience for a senator to have a full-fledged running opposition and it will be up to Senator Kellogg to set precedents as to the rules of etiquette and courtesy in such a contest. Personalities will be barred—on the senator's side, at least, but he will find that in Mrs. Oleson he has an opponent of no mean political ability and tactical skill.

DEBATE CHALLENGE

Already Mrs. Oleson has challenged Senator Kellogg to joint debate. She wants to discuss with him the issues of the coming campaign, and above all, she wants to cross-question him on the record of the Republican who have been in power in congress ever since the elections of four years ago. As Democratic national committeewoman in Minnesota, Mrs. Oleson has spoken over most of the United States. She is as much at home upon the stump as she is at the kitchen range—perhaps more so, by this time—and the campaign she has just waged for the Democratic nomination has been full of glowing references to her.

The campaign has been made largely in the Ford sedan, which was presented to Mrs. Oleson by the women of Minneapolis. In return for the unusual gift, she has inspired the women of Minneapolis with new hope as to their part in political factors. And because of this Mrs. Oleson feels there would be glory even in defeat. But she adds that the strenuous campaign she has made for the nomination is nothing compared to what she will do to win the November election, for she intends visiting every village and hamlet of 300 inhabitants and over.

As the result of a ruling by the state attorney general, Mrs. Oleson is on the

GULBRANSEN The Player-Piano

Four rolls and the right player-piano—the Gulbransen!

"You'll be delighted with your Gulbransen, Mrs. Brown—that I know."

"Another thing I know: You will want to play it correctly, artistically."

"Study these four Instruction Rolls a few evenings, Mrs. Brown; they will do for you what practice exercises and a good teacher do for the pianist."

"Except that they are simple; not at all difficult, monotonous, tedious—like finger exercises."

"Far from it! They're just as much fun as learning the latest dance step or driving a new car."

"Your friends, hearing you play, will pronounce the Gulbransen a fine instrument—will say it is different from other player-pianos—and it is!"

ANNOUNCES END OF CANTON RULE

One Report Says Sun's Army Crushed; Another That He Will Fight

PEKING, June 17.—(By The Associated Press.)—General Chen Chiung Ming, formerly civil governor of Kwantung province, whose troops seized Canton Friday, announced today that the south China or Canton government has been terminated and that henceforth Canton would unite with the north in recognizing the old Republican parliament.

Dispatches from Canton describe the collapse of the southern government as complete. Sun's military forces crushed and the former Canton president himself a fugitive.

BY EDNA BOOKER
(International News Service)

SHAMHEEN ISLAND, Canton, China, June 17.—A decisive battle between General Chen Chiung Ming, whose military coup resulted in occupation of Canton Friday and Dr. Sun Yat Sen, president of the southern China, who was forced into flight by the army, is expected tonight or tomorrow.

Dr. Sun, who fled by gunboat to Whampoa, has rallied his forces. The navy has remained loyal to him and his gunboats are now arriving on the Pearl river.

He has sent an ultimatum to General Chen that the guns of his ships will be turned on the city if it is not evacuated by Chen's forces within nine hours. While not large, the guns are of sufficient calibre to cause great damage if the city is shelled.

Sun Yat Sen's loyal soldiers who were in Kwangsi province fighting Wu Pei-fu's northern forces are hurriedly returning. They are expected to reach the outskirts of Canton tomorrow. Chen has 25,000 soldiers in the city.

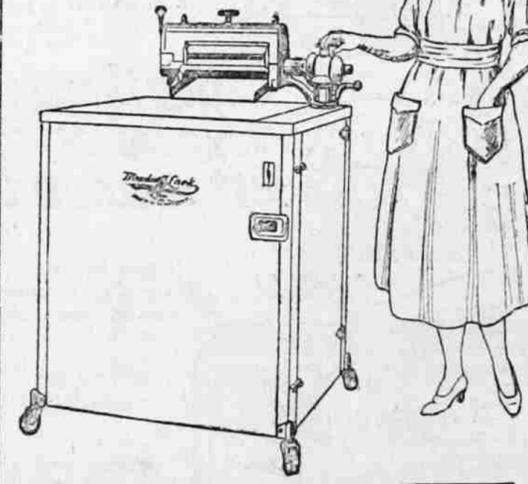

Foreigners are all concentrated on Shamhean Island and, it is believed, will be safe.

MOSCOW ASSASSIN REPORTS DENIED

BRUSSELS, June 17.—The ministry of foreign affairs today officially denied the reports current here Friday that Emil Vandervelde, former minister of justice, has been assassinated at Moscow, where he went as counsel for the Socialist Revolutionists on trial there. The foreign ministry has been in touch with Moscow by way of Berlin.
