PAVING DUGWAY GETS BACKING

City and County May Get Together and Fix Route to Canyon

Ogden city wants to pave the road over the dugway to the mouth of Ogden canyon with the work to begin immediately.

This was made apparent this morning when the city commissioners told Jesse S. Richards, secretary of the Ogden chamber of commerce that they would pave the road this summer if they can get some aid from the county.

The city commissioners authorized Mr. Richards to arrange an immediate meeting with the county commissioners so the matter could be arranged and the work started so the new paving could be used during the greater part of the summer.

CALLS ON COMMISSION

Mr. Richards first went to the county commissioners this morning carrying the message that the chamber of commerce had passed a resolution requesting the county to aid the city in the project which will cost approximately $25,000.

The road at present is in a deplorable condition, it was explained by Mr. Richards, and while Ogden is a city of the canyon throughout the country, tourists who come here are compelled to pass over one of the worst stretches in the state before they reach the canyon boulevard.

Canyon residents have also protested over the condition of the old paving, which is filled with deep holes and rough stretches. Last year the city filled in the holes with a tar mixture, but this method has proven practically useless as the holes again appear within a surprisingly short period of time.

When Mr. Richards explained to the county commissioners today that aid is needed by the city to do the work, due to the fact that no state or federal aid can be obtained, the county board members asserted that they believed they could find some manner in which to extend financial help.

Another plan is being put to the board in the event that the legality of aiding financially withouts action. The city will agree to pave and pay for the work if the county will build storm sewers in the southeastern section of the city to take care of the overflow waters of Burch creek.

The city and county recently got together on the storm sewer matter and decided to build them jointly as the waters originate on county land, and then flow into the city.

Mayor Francis feels that the dugway road is in reality a portion of the beautiful canyon road, which was built jointly by the county, state and federal government.

WANT JOB DONE NOW
Moroni Skeen, chairman of the board of county commissioners this morning expressed his anxiety in having the repaired the dugway road this summer and then making an attempt to have the road designated a state highway at the next session of the state legislature.

Vaudeville and Anita Stewart Film Draw Crowds to the Orpheum

Several vaudeville numbers and a motion picture, "A Question of Honor," starring Anita Stewart was the offering at the Orpheum theatre last night for a four-week's run.

Featuring the vaudeville acts was Dare-Devil Raymond who leaps 40 feet from the "bridge" in the wings of the stage, making a headfirst dive to a canvas chute.

The acts included "The Stage Carpenter" by Charles Gill & Co., Hogue and Hickson, Swedish national dancers, Adrienne Joffie, Jean.

Anita Stewart's admirers have renewed cause for upholding their favorite in the presentation of "A Question of Honor."

She has succeeded in giving a story of a society girl an amazing twist. This is perhaps to be expected in an adaptation of a Ruth Cross novel, and still it is questionable if any one but Miss Stewart could have made the character as distinctly individual as she has done.

She has taken the role of Anne Wilmont and draped it in the gorgeous freedom of the West and crystallized it in an emboldened spirit of womanhood.

In the foothills of the Sierras, Bill Shannon is putting across a big irrigation project that means salvation to hundreds of weary settlers who have tilled away at an unproductive soil. At the moment when his plans seem about to be realized in the construction of a big dam financial interests decide that the property is essential to their plans for a railroad right of way.

Plans to win the engineer over to their plans, they bring Anne out as a bait for him.

From that juncture the cross currents of the plot rise to a swift climax, culminating in a general riot and attempt to blow up the dam. Anne finds herself in the crisis and risks her own life to make good the debt against her conscience.

The story is full feature value, with the added advantage of Anita Stewart's talent and glorious exterior taken in the West. The star is more captivating than ever in her buckskin attire. "A Question of Honor" has registered as a distinct hit.

B. P. R. OFFICIALS LOOK OVER ROADS

B. J. Finch, district engineer of the U. S. bureau of public roads with headquarters in Ogden, and C. Cross, highway engineer, returned to Ogden today after spending more than 10 days inspecting roads in the southern part of the state.

Mr. Finch and Mr. Cross also attended a meeting of the public utility commission at Nephi.

The proposed Circleville canyon road was one of the first inspected. Surveys for this road have been completed and bids for its construction will be opened immediately, it is stated.

The two engineers also inspected the Red Canyon section of the Panhandle-Tropic road, Duck Lake section of the Cedar-Long Valley road; Sevier-Coal Fort, Marysville Junction and Wildcat canyon section of the Beaver road.

Roads in the southern part of the state are in good condition and the calendar this morning in Judge James N. Kimball's division of the district court. Probate matters are being heard in Judge George S. Barker's division this afternoon.

Tomorrow morning in Judge Kimball's division the trials of Della Ehn, Grace Graham and George McManis will open. The trio is charged with grand larceny for the alleged theft of dresses and cloth from an Ogden store. They are now in the county jail.

The passport official growled out, "Can you prove this lady is your wife?"

Thought He Was in on Game; He Was---Just $200

A tale of woe of how he entered a skin-game to film-flam another of his money, but received the double-cross and got beat out of $200 himself, was told this morning to Deputy Sheriff Charles Finck and Charles Mohlman by Antoni Koloziez, a Russian, who recently came here from Colorado.

The man beseeched the officers to find the men who got his money and a hunt of the city is now being made.

According to the tale told by Koloziez, he met a stranger early this morning who claimed to be a Frenchman, and they became friendly. They walked together to Lester park where they sat upon a bench.

Soon a third man came and sat upon the bench and the Frenchman struck up a conversation with him and later they began to match dollars.

They asked Koloziez to join the game, but he at first refused. The Frenchman then whispered to him that he was working a skin-game on the other fellow and would win his money which he would divide with Koloziez later.

He further whispered that if Koloziez entered the game and lost his money it would give the game an appearance of fairness, and they would equally divide the money they won from the other fellow later.

Koloziez cheerfully lost his $200 and then the Frenchman whispered that he would meet him later in a rooming house, give him back his $200 and divide the winnings.

He explained, in a whisper, that to divide the money there would make the other fellow suspicious.

So Koloziez went to the rooming house and waited for four hours of fretting, when the Frenchman did not show up, he took his tale of woe to the sheriff's office and pleaded with the officers to find the two that robbed him and return his money.

Mercury Goes to 100 Degrees on Hottest Day

All former heat records of Ogden for the present year were shattered yesterday when the mercury rose to the 100-point mark at the city hall. The heat period of the day came after 6 o'clock in the evening.

This high point was shown on the noted standard weather bureau thermometer which keeps a continuous temperature record and makes it possible to determine the temperature at any time past through a small needle which sketches a line on small printed paper disks.

The report which will be officially made to the weather bureau from Ogden yesterday is 94 degrees, because the thermometer from which the report is made is not the one at the city hall. The official record is taken on a thermometer at the home of Charles H. Bass, local weather observer. His thermometer showed but 94 degrees at the hottest period yesterday.

Continuance of the heat spell was forecast for tomorrow by the United States weather bureau. Last night's minimum temperature was 65 degrees.

FIND NO TRACE OF MOTORIST

Chief Wires for Name of Owner of Car Killing Ogden Boy

No response had been received up to 1:30 o'clock today in a telegram sent out by Chief of Police Curtis L. Allison to all surrounding towns asking for any information relative to the Ford automobile with the Missouri license number 2575, age 19, which struck and killed Ellis Barker, 13 years of age at the intersection of the Riverdale road and Grant avenue Saturday afternoon.

Chief Allison said that the man will finally be apprehended, in his opinion, inasmuch as all surrounding points had been notified. He had telegraphed the secretary of state of Missouri, he said, for the name of the owner of license number 2875, as well as the number of the motor so that the car might be identified regardless of its license number being changed but has as yet received no reply.

Funeral services for the boy will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. in the First ward meetinghouse, Thirty-third and Grant avenue. Bishop D. H. Ensign will preside. The body may be viewed at the home, 2417 Hudson avenue, today and tomorrow until time of funeral. Interment will be in the City cemetery.

GLANDS TESTED IN OLD EGYPT

Doctors 3000 Years Ago Also Attempted to Restore Youth

CHICAGO, June 19.—(By the Associated Press)—The restoration of youth to the aged, attempted recently by means of annual glands, was also attempted at least 3000 years ago, according to Dr. James H. Brast, of the University of Chicago. An "Introduction of Transforming an Old Man into a Youth of Twentry" is set forth in the Edwin Smith papyrus, the Egyptian document which Dr. Brast has discovered contains the earliest and scientific spirit on the part of Egyptian physicians of 1800 B. C. or earlier. The incantation, on the contrary, he said, is characterized by reliance on home focus. Brast's theory is that an extraordinary book on surgery and external medicine fell into the hands of a quack who was more interested in charms for making old gruous boys combined in the same roll. Thus in the papyrus magical formulae jostle an exposition of delicate surgical operations heretofore believed to be decidedly modern.

FROM COLT'S FACTORY

The guns were manufactured by the Colt Patent Firearms Company, which has been sold by the Auto Ordnance company.

Their inventor is said to be General John E. Thompson, father of Colonel Thompson, the latter being a close friend of George H. American ambassador to Great Britain.

There was considerable mystery about the guns after their seizure by the United States shipping board and department of justice. Frank Williams claimed ownership of the guns, but the Auto Ordnance company and Ed them in a warehouse. He they had been stolen from the house and asserted he did not know how they got on the ship.

He later was arrested and said to have admitted that he the guns to a group of strangers.

SECURITY MAINTAINED

The indictments were returned by the January federal grand jury, concluded its work in April. Information concerning the indictments was withdrawn, it was indicated, because of the inability to reach those indicted.

The technical indictment against the men as a body charge them "conspiracy to set on foot and vide the means for the military territory of a foreign prince who name United States were peace."

It was growing dark, and the boys, kneeling on the pavement, wiped their faces with their hands. "What's the trouble, my boy?" asked kindly. "I've lost my pen, waited the 'youngster' the master said, 'if you don't find it before here's a match.'"
