Neither Boasts But Huggins Is More Outspoken Than McGraw

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—(By the Associated Press)—The New York Giants and Yankees, standard bearers of the National and American leagues, were today to meet in the first of a series of ten contests in preparation for the opening of their two successive struggles for premier baseball honors. The Giants were victors last year in a ten-game series, the Yankees in the last eight games. The laurel this year will go to the team winning four out of seven.

Even Babe Ruth was unable to satisfy a last minute desire for tickets. The Yankee slugger appeared at the Giants' offices in his quest. "Sorry Babe, but there isn't a hope left," he was told. He was but one of many.

Advance guards of delegations from all parts of the United States, Canada and adjoining points were on hand early today. The influx was expected to reach its height tonight.

REPORTERS BY HUNDREDS.
Close to 500 newspapermen from 24 parts of the continent were on hand to supply millions of newspaper readers with first hand accounts of the series. Two hundred additional press applications could not be granted because of limited facilities.

PITCHING VS. HITTING.
Those who asserted vehemently that the predominant pitching of the Yankees would be the decisive factor were emphatically answered by those who believed that the hard hitting, quick thinking and aggressive attacks of the Giants would overcome any disadvantage on the mound.

Both sides played at their best.
Huggins was perhaps a little more outspoken. "We have a great lot of pitchers," he said. "We have a terrific hitter, in Ruth—a game, hard hitting, fighting ball club—a far better team than last year. The Yankees are physically fit, mentally primed. We have just come out of the toughest fight ever waged for a pennant. On paper we look stronger than the Giants, but the series is not on paper."

McGraw's staff, faltered badly in the latter part of the campaign, appearing to be out of sync.

Financier Suggests It Is Better to Cancel European Obligations

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—A picture of America, recovering from the "ruddy buffets and deep wounds" of 1917 to 1921, and with characteristic courage binding up her bruises and slowly moving forward to new goals was drawn today by Thomas W. Lamont, associate of J. P. Morgan, in addressing 1922 delegates at the convention of the American Bankers' association. "But we have not yet cause for unbounded confidence," he cautioned the bankers. "We must not forget that, before the race is won, we still have some high hurdles to jump."

WOULD NOT HESITATE.
"One thing is certain," he stated. "If some one, on April 4, 1917, had been able to give us our choice as to whether we should give up freely for all time five billion dollars or give up the lives of several hundred thousand of our citizens, there would have been no hesitation as to our choice."

Only Military Matters Taken Up First Day of Conference

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 3.—(By the Associated Press)—The Turkish cavalry has retired from its advanced positions in the Chanak area, decreasing the danger of conflict there. This withdrawal, which is described in messages from the Dardanelles as "slight," was supposed here to be in consequence of word received by the Turks that the Mudania conference was in session. The Turks, however, were said still to be well within the neutral zone.

THINKS AGREEMENT LIKELY
Franklin D. Roosevelt, the French envoy whose personal conversation with Mustafa Kemal Pasha made the armistice conversation possible, expressed the belief that an agreement will be reached.

OPTIMISM PREDOMINATES
It is not yet definitely known how many delegates will attend the conference, but it is stated from some sources that in addition to the allied and Turkish generals, the conference will include M. Franklin Bouillon and two Greek military representatives. Estimates of the probable duration of the meeting differ considerably, some believing it may be over in a few hours, and others suggesting that days may elapse before a settlement is reached clearing a way for a subsequent peace conference.

MUDANIA LIKE ITS NAME-MUD DESCRIBES IT

Town Squalled With Few Evidences of Modern Life

MUDANIA, Oct. 3.—(By The Associated Press)—Never was there a stranger setting for a conference of world powers than this little village on the southern shore of the sea of Marmora. Even the presence of the great warships of England, France and Italy seemed incongruous in the tiny cove veiled with rocks and mud which is Mudania's harbor, for their only neighbors were a few scattered fishing boats and nondescript barges.

TOWN SQUALID.
Nothing about Mudania is impressive, save for the bulk of snow-capped Mount Olympus rising majestically in the distance. The town is squalid and depressing. There is not a single building of architectural pretensions, the houses are of mud-shaped like huge beetles and the stores thrust their latticed windows into the narrow crooked streets.

ONE FLASH OF LIFE.
The town has been of little importance, either to business or politics, since the days long since past when it was the port of entry for Brusa in the period when that city was the capital of the Turkish empire. Once, however, about a year ago, it flashed into prominence when the now deposed King Constantine of Greece made his triumphal entry into Asia Minor in the vain dream that this was to be the beginning of the re-establishment of the Greek empire. Such was the setting today of the conference to discuss the military representatives of the allied powers hurried across 50 miles of water from Constantinople.

DIGNITARIES DEPART.
The departure from Galata was fixed for 7 o'clock in the morning with the arrival here at noon and the opening of the conference at 1 o'clock. The British delegation included the commander in chief, Brigadier General Sir Charles Harington and Colonel H. G. Gribbin and Major T. G. G. Heywood of the general headquarters staff. The French and Italian delegations were similarly limited.

EVERY effort was made to maintain complete secrecy and privacy for the conference and the bay was effectively barricaded as though the surface of the Sea of Marmora were marked out with barbed wire entanglements. For 48 hours nobody has been permitted to enter the area around the gulf of Gemlik without special papers.
