How to Fight the High Cost of Living

Buy Only What Is Needed—To Live Decently in Spite of High Prices a Problem—How a Standard Reader Studies and Makes Some Small Savings—“Come Handy” Articles Disastrous to Slim Purse—Weeds That Make Good Salads—Root Beer

BUY ONLY WHAT IS NEEDED.

To live decently in spite of high prices is so important and vital a subject to the vast classes of small salaried people that the Standard certainly deserves a great deal of credit for trying to solve this perplexing problem with the help of its readers. My husband earns $18 a week, which is our sole income, out of which I must feed and clothe a family of five, including three half grown children, besides paying for a home, also insurance and doctors' bills. It will be readily seen that in any case this question of how to make the dollars go farthest has become an important study.

Now, there appear to me several good ways of saving. First, the using of everything, no matter how small, in the shape of eatables. Slices of stale bread may be made into cheap puddings or crumbed for breading, thus saving crackers, small pieces of meat and potatoes for people, croquettes, or browned hash on toast. Even a cup or two of sour milk mixed with a little soda, flour and salt added and beaten well makes palatable pancakes.

Then we must guard against spending money on unnecessary things, the buying of fruits and vegetables out of season, such as lettuce and radishes in winter, olives, fancy crackers and expensive canned goods. Turnips and carrots are cheap and more healthful than hot-house greens, and 15 cents worth of ingredients will make enough oatmeal cookies to outweigh in nourishment ten times the amount spent in buying the boxed confections.

Another saving, greater, perhaps, than realized by most people, is accomplished by baking bread at home. I have found by actual weighing and figuring that a bag of best wheat flour at 65 cents and 1 cent's worth of yeast for each baking will yield an amount of bread equal to 36 bakers' loaves, a saving of $1.20; not bad, when the family are hearty eaters. Another great help is a small savings bank, the registering kind if possible.

FOR SUMMER DAYS.

A dainty blouse and skirts, with new and pleasing trimming, in the shape of eyelets and lacing cords, is sketched here. Plain white and tan-colored linen are combined, and the eyelets are worked in turkey red tambour cotton with lacing cords made of the same thread, tightly twisted and tied in the form of tassels at the ends. This thread has the merit of holding all of its color when washed.

CHICHESTER'S PILLS

Little Pink Pills for Constipation. Sold by druggists everywhere.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case that fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio. Sold by Druggists.

sible. One or two nickels dropped in every day will not be missed and it is certainly encouraging to see how quickly the money accumulates and saving becomes both profit and pleasure.

As to the matter of clothes, advantageous buying is largely a matter of a little thought and care. Watch the ads and attend sales at reliable stores. Buy only what you need and beware of laying up articles "to come handy some time," which is disastrous to slim purses.

WHY MEN PASS SOME GIRLS BY.

Almost any nice looking girl is capable of attracting a good, sensible, marriageable young man. It usually rests with her as to whether their acquaintance shall ripen into love or end in casual friendship. Some girls are so thoughtless that they pay no heed to what kind of young man that he may be whom they meet, whether he is a rattle brained young fellow who takes no care upon himself, sports clothes in the latest fashion, with his bills paid by "the governor," or if he is a serious young man who has his own way to make in the world and knows of the value of saving the pennies.

The fellow who whistles care to the winds may think a girl most delightful in laces and frills, ribboned and bejeweled, with a new frock on each time he calls. He may be easily amused by her small talk and out-spoken mimicry of the different girls they both know. It does not take much to amuse him. The serious minded young man of slender means is likely to feel out of place when calling upon a girl who is rigged out like a Parisian doll. The same mimicry which entertains the other fellow completely falls with him, for the reason that he sees none of the faults that she is trying to describe to him of them. He is aware only of their sweetness and goodness. He cannot laugh at this girl's speech or that girl's halting walk, the size of her feet or that of her oversensitive bashfulness.

The sensible young man is one who feels quite sorry for the unfortunate young woman who is being made fun of behind her back. It has the effect of nipping in the bud all of the admiration and respect which he had in his heart for the narrator.

Witticism is delightful now and then, even to the ears of the sternest of men; but they soon weary of it if offered for a steady diet. Unconsciously the sensible man finds himself comparing their glibness with the one who has ridiculed them. Somehow the scale in his heart turns in their favor. Out of curiosity he may make the first call upon them. He knows they are expecting him, yet he finds them in their simple everyday attire. They talk to him sensibly on everyday matters.

The sensible young man leaves the presence of such a girl deeply impressed with her goodness, with a sense of her charitable disposition and her good will toward all. He passes by the home of the frivolous girl to call again at the home of the other girl. It does not take a strain of long drawn out eloquence to entertain a sensible man. He appreciates a girl who will let him get in a word edge-wise now and then, or, in fact, do his share of the talking.

It is positively irksome to most men to have to sit and listen to the small talk which many girls subject them to. This kind of girls should understand the reason why many sensible, marriageable men pass them by. Girls should have a care in regard to over-dressing, to speak kindly of others, if they would gain respect which deepens into love.

SHEPHERD'S PURSUE

This is another valuable little plant, that may be found along the roadside. Its green seeds stripped from the stem and strewn over lettuce or tomatoes makes a pleasant addition to salads; that, tried once, will always be welcome again. It has a suggestion of watercress, and on this account is sometimes known as wayside cress.

OTHER GOOD SALADS OF WEEDS

Among the other piquant and wholesome "weeds" that make excellent salads are wild chervil, lamb's lettuce or ramplan and sorrel. All these should be young and tender.

POT GREENS.

For pot greens the list is still long. Purslane, the farmer's pest, resembles beet greens in delicacy of flavor, while mustard, the young leaves of milkweed, dock, even tender young nettle greens, may all be utilized to advantage as early vegetables.

ROOT BEER.

Just here, let me give you an old recipe where roots seem thrown together hit or miss yet with surprising good results. "Take," says the old chronicler of "small beer," "a pint of bran, a handful of hops, some tender twigs of spruce, hemlock, or cedar, a little bark of sassafras, with roots (a handful of each) of burdock, plantain, and dock and two of dandelion. Boil up in a gallon of water, strain, add a spoonful of ginger, a quarter cupful of molasses, and a cupful of yeast. Let it work, then bottle."

Bloom of Youth Now Easily Attained

(From Popular Science.) You no longer need to "doctor" that sallow, freckled, black-headed, rough, blotchy, pimply or over-red skin. You can remove it, instead—easily, painlessly, inexpensively. By a new scientific process, which anyone can use without assistance, the dead and near-dead surface skin, with all its imperfections, is gently, gradually absorbed—and a radiantly youthful and beautiful complexion comes forth! Go to your druggist, get an ounce of pure merozolized wax; at night apply enough of this to completely cover the face; don't rub it in. Next morning remove the wax with warm water. The result after a few days is astonishing. You wonder why this secret wasn't discovered long ago.

Let the wrinkled folks also take hope. Put an ounce of powdered talc into a half pint of witch hazel, bathe the face in the solution and—say! there's nothing that will so effectively, so promptly smooth out all those hateful lines. You'll find this lotion, as well as merozolized wax, works equally well on neck and hands. (Adv't.)

SURPRISE PARTY.

Miss Marie Mahoney was pleasantly surprised at her pretty little home on Wall avenue by a merry crowd of her young friends.

The evening was spent by playing many pleasant games and vocal and instrumental music was enjoyed throughout the evening.

Those present were: Edna Ludwig, Amy Blackmore, Rose Spidel, Ruth Gilkes, Edna Carroll, Rosalie O'Connor, Nell Conroy, Mary Carr, Marie Mahoney, Messrs. Willie Spidel, William Updegraff, Uleran Thines, Jack Conroy, Harry O'Connor, William Moran, Charley Bushear, Frank Reed, Lee Turner, George Updegraff.

At the hour of eleven a dainty little supper was served by the hostess' sister Mrs. A. E. Corbett and Miss Anna Conroy.

Miss Mabel Bell, the popular and efficient young lady who has been employed in the silk and trimmings department at Wrights for several years accepted a like position with Walker Bros. in Salt Lake and began her work there on Monday of this week. Miss Bell has a host of friends in Ogden who will miss her in a social way as well as in the store where she so cheerfully and painstakingly served them.

Mrs. Frank Zimmerman is again located in her old home on Monroe avenue, after an extended trip to southern Nevada and California points.

Mrs. Earl Geiger is very ill at her home on Twenty-eighth street. She is suffering from a combined attack of grip and acute inflammatory rheumatism.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

The Historical society will meet at 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon, May 3, at the home of Mrs. P. H. Malson, 2579 Grammeury avenue. The program will begin promptly at 3 o'clock.

PEOPLE IN OGDEN LIKE THIS MIXTURE

Ogden people, who have tried simple back-bone bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adler-I-ka, say it is the best bowel and stomach remedy they ever used. A. R. McIntyre, Druggist, 2421 Washington Ave. states that JUST A SINGLE DOSE usually relieves constipation, sour stomach and gas on the stomach QUICKLY. Those who have used only the more ordinary bowel and stomach remedies are surprised at the QUICK action of Adler-I-ka. (Adv't.)

JAMES MAHER IS UNDER ARREST

James Maher, a former employe of the Pintech Gas company, was arrested last evening after he had started a fight with Depot Patrolman McIntyre and was locked up in the city jail on the charge of disturbing the peace.

It is alleged by the patrolman that Maher had lost his job because he had been secreting tramps beneath the cars that he filled with gas and that Maher blamed the patrolman for the loss of his job.

NOTICE

The Dance and show to be given at the Fourth Ward tomorrow night is postponed indefinitely. (Adv't.)

MRS. PHILLIPS IS CALLED BY DEATH

Mrs. Elizabeth Compton Phillips, wife of Jacob Phillips and one of the pioneer residents of Weber county, died yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the family home, 2937 Madison avenue, from the effects of a paralytic stroke which she suffered last Friday.

Mrs. Phillips was born in Arnold, England, December 12, 1844. She joined the Mormon church in 1864 and immigrated to Utah in 1869, coming direct to Ogden, where she has made her home ever since. She is survived by her husband and the following children: Mrs. Emma Shreve of Ogden, Mrs. Lettie Denkers of Salt Lake, Edward Phillips, George A. Phillips and William J. Barnes of Ogden, and thirteen grandchildren. She also leaves the following brothers and sisters: Mrs. Maud Child, Mrs. Nellie Child, Mrs. Lettie Malin, Mrs. Eliza Murdoch, Mrs. Morone Compton, Walter Compton, Ephraim Compton, all of Ogden and A. W. Compton of Bingham.

Funeral services will be held Sunday at noon at the Fourth ward meeting house, Bishop E. A. Olsen officiating. The body may be viewed at the home Saturday afternoon and evening and Sunday from 9 to 11 a.

him laughed as they have seldom laughed before at the droll antics and mannerisms of the grotesque comedian. The combination of Hitchcock and "The Red Widow" had them going every minute and that is some accomplishment at the end of the season, when the jaded theater-goer is ready to cry quits. Probably nothing in a musical comedy line this year has kept an Ogden audience in such continual good humor.

Hitchcock is irresistibly funny in the role of Colonel Cleero Hannibal Butts of Yonkers, manufacturer of the C. N. B. corsets. Flora Zabeil as the Red Widow is handsome, dashing and clever, with a voice that is in harmony with her pleasing personality. With the positively overpowering quality of the star's droll humor, "The Red Widow" would—with its clever libretto and sparkling music—win instant favor. But that is not all of the show. The entire cast is excellent; the chorus is vigorous and good to look upon in every scene; the costumes are gorgeous and the scenic effects brought little ripples of applause from the audience also.

Raymond Hitchcock has a way of getting into conversational intimacy with the audience that makes his efforts along comedy lines most novel. And with a generous dash of colloquialisms of local interest he establishes a strong bond across the footlights which he never relinquishes for a moment. The manner in which the folks responded to every word and gesture must have been gratifying to the star. His curtain speech at the close of the second act was as different from the usual talk as Hitchcock is different from the usual comedian.

As the colonel of the New York state guards, who goes to Russia on business and who is inveigled into taking the "Red Widow," a nihilist, on his passport, when his own wife decides to remain in London, the situations surrounding Cleero become as humorous as they are complicated. Especially in this so as his son goes to St. Petersburg to follow Yvette, a dancer, and later "Mother" Butts arrives on the scene and is thrown into prison as an impostor. The plot is quite tangible and there are nihilist choruses, bombs and more detailed fun than one could describe.

But while the lines and situations in "The Red Widow" are sensational, it is Hitchcock's impromptu humor that wins him favor all the way.

The supporting company is far above the average, and included therein is a Miss Coverdale, a girl who could not be considered a $10,000 beauty, but makes up for any deficiencies in this respect by her remarkable dancing. Her exposition of modern terminology was a truly inspired interpretation and decidedly artistic. George White as Oswald Butts is Miss Coverdale's dancing partner. Among the others prominent in the company are Marie Richmond as Captain Basil Romanoff, Edward Metcalfe as Ivan Scorpioff, Charles Prince as Dick Graham, George Mack as Popova, head of the nihilists, and a score of others. The music throughout is strikingly tuneful and pretty, Hitchcock's song, "I Shall Never Look at a Pretty Girl Again," making, perhaps, the biggest hit with its unique and clever pantomimic "business."

Not to be overlooked is the maze of marches and gallops of swimming girls in white Russian costumes, the "White Fete" march in the last act being a brilliant number. The musical effects rendered by the large orchestra traveling with the show were scarcely less enjoyable than the performance itself.

How to Destroy the Dandruff Germ

BY A SPECIALIST That the dandruff germ is responsible for nearly all the diseases to which the scalp is heir, as well as for baldness and premature gray hair, is a well known fact, but when we realize that it is also indirectly responsible for many of the worst cases of catarrh and consumption, we appreciate the importance of any agent that will destroy its power. We are, therefore, particularly pleased to give herewith the prescription which an eminent scientist states he has found, after repeated tests, to completely destroy the dandruff germ, in from one to three applications. It will also almost immediately stop falling hair and it has in numerous cases produced a new hair-growth after years of baldness. This prescription can be made up at home, or any druggist will put it up for you. 6 ounces Bay Rum, 2 ounces Lavender Compound, one-half drachm Menthol Crystals. Mix thoroughly, and after standing after an hour it is ready for use. Apply night and morning, rubbing into the scalp. It is especially effective if you wish it perfumed, add half a teaspoonful of To-Kalon Perfume, which unites perfectly with the other ingredients. While this preparation is not a dye, it is unequalled for restoring gray hair to its original color. (Adv't.)

GOVERNMENT LAND AGENTS IN TROUBLE

The conduct of various United States commissioners in Utah and southern Idaho is being investigated by the field force of the United States land office and it is believed that startling disclosures will be made in the near future. Two commissioners in Idaho have already been convicted and fined in Idaho on a charge of false certification of official papers, and the investigation is probing into other alleged acts.

The probe began several months ago and was a result of numerous complaints by homeseekers. The Utah field service corresponded with the commissioner of the general land office, and upon the receipt of advices to proceed, special agents of the local force were put on the trail. The allegations against the United States commissioners do not embrace any acts of theirs as agents of the department of justice, but include the alleged acts committed as arbiters in land office cases or in the taking of land-office depositions. The charges against the two Idaho commissioners, against whom true bills were made out by a grand jury, and two were convicted and fined, were that they would certify that certain witnesses appeared in land office cases when no such witnesses were seen. The commissioners were Otto B. Flasher of Arco in the Hailey district and David Burrell of American Falls.

The Utah field service, which is the investigating department of the land office, is understood to have received an almost unprecedented number of protests from homeseekers and others in the last few months. Many different methods of extracting money were set forth. In a few cases, it is said, the commissioners sold relinquishments for lands on which nobody had a claim to relinquish.

"The Girl in the Taxi"

Great big audiences are making the Ogden theater resound with screams and shrieks of laughter this week, by the remarkably clever performance of the hilarious comedy, "The Girl in the Taxi." It is one big package of mirth. Next week, "The Square Man." (Adv't.)

JURY RETURNS A VERDICT

The jury, consisting of J. H. Hill, B. F. Blair and J. M. Hanson, sitting at the inquest held in connection with the death of Arthur Ortlepp by electrocution last week, returned the following verdict last evening:

"We the jury find that the said Arthur Ortlepp came to his death at 2:12 on the afternoon of April 24, by coming in contact with a wire carrying 45,000 volts of electricity at the substitution of the Merchants' Light & Power company on Thirty-first street and Lincoln avenue, and that the cause was accidental and not felonious. We further find that the company did not provide a sufficiently high fence for the protection of its employees."

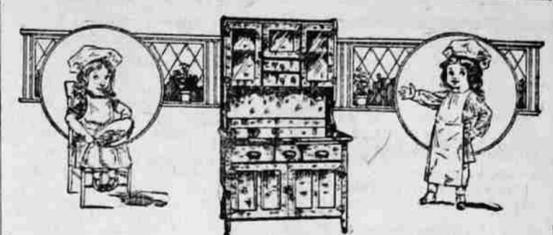

SALT LAKE FIREMEN IN ZION ARE TO STRIKE

Salt Lake, May 1.—Seventy-seven firemen, including captains and lieutenants, tendered their resignation yesterday afternoon to Fire Chief W. H. Bywater to take effect Monday, because the city commissioners refused to grant increases in their wages. Should the firemen resign Monday Salt Lake will be without a fire department.

At present firemen of the first year receive $75 and are required for duty 24 hours a day. When worth warrants their promotion to the second grade they are advanced to $80 a month and as first grade men they are paid $85 a month. Lieutenants receive $90 a month and captains $95 a month. Third grade men want an increase of $15 a month, second grade $10 a month and first grade men $5 a month. Captains and lieutenants are each asking for increases of $10 a month.

BIG STRIKE IN SALT LAKE

Salt Lake, May 1.—As a result of failure to reach any understanding with their employers regarding working conditions and wages for the ensuing year fully 500 union men, representing four building crafts—bricklayers, painters and structural sheet metal workers—may go on strike here today or in the near future. This is the predicted sequel of a decision reached at a meeting of the Master Builders exchange, held in the Eagles hall last night. By a unanimous vote the members of the association, representing 80 per cent of the building contractors of Salt Lake, decided to abide by their former decision and offer no concessions to the working

Are You the Lucky Girl Who Is Going to Have This Splendid Little Kitchen Cabinet?

We are going to give this dandy cabinet to some little girl on the first of June. There is one girl who is going to be happy as she can be, because she'll have the finest plaything ever made.

Just think, a Michigan Kitchen Cabinet, just like mother's, only smaller. Every girl, not over fourteen years old, can enter the contest for this cabinet.

Just get an instruction sheet from our store—the rest will be fun. This sheet shows a lot of pieces which are to be cut apart and pasted together again to make a picture of the cabinet. After you get them pasted up, think of all the things mother could keep in a Michigan Cabinet and make a list. The girl who has the nicest, neatest puzzle, and the best list will get the cabinet.

The next time mamma goes down town, you ask her to take you along so that you can see the prize in our window. You can look the big cabinet over, too, so that you can tell better what can be kept in it.

men other than those in effect last year.

Besides deciding to deny the increases in wages asked for by the various crafts whose agreements expired last night the exchange withdrew the temporary raise of 50 cents a day granted to the structural ironworkers on April 1. While the employers were in session in the Eagles hall the painters and paperhangers and the sheet metal workers were holding meetings in the Labor temple. While individual members of both unions said that they would strike this morning, officials of the organizations denied that a strike had been called and said they had nothing for publication.

er, the trusty who escaped from the state prison Monday and was recaptured through information given by a 17-year-old girl whom he is alleged to have attacked was arraigned before Justice Harry S. Harper yesterday on a charge of attempted criminal attack. He pleaded guilty and was ordered held for the district court. The complaint was sworn to by H. C. Taggart, a prison guard. The young woman appeared in the complaint as "Jane Doe." Fuller's face bore eloquent evidence of the powers of defense exercised by his intended victim. It was a network of long scars that told of bloodletting scratches, inflicted by the girl before she fled to a telephone to summon the prison authorities. Fuller was taken back to the penitentiary to await trial. He is now serving a sentence of three years for a statutory offense.
