MAY FESTIVAL OF DEAF AND BLIND

Among the most interesting and praiseworthy annual events given in Ogden is the May Festival, by the State School for the Deaf and Blind. In previous years thousands of people have attended the festivities and Superintendent Frank M. Driggs expects more people this time than ever before. He is preparing a seating capacity for 5000 people on chairs and bleachers arranged on the grounds.

The festival will be held on the school grounds in front of the main building of the institution, beginning Friday at 5:30 in the evening and continuing to 7:30. The entertainment will be given exclusively by the students of the school.

Facilities have been extended over the state.

Railroads will give special rates to the festival and there is no question but that the lawn of the school grounds will be crowded with people. It is reported to the superintendent that there will be at least fifty in the governor's party and it has been arranged for the instructors of the Primary associations of the state now holding a convention in Salt Lake, 100 strong, to attend in a body.

The school is situated on Twentieth street, between Monroe and Quincy avenues. To reach the place most conveniently one should take the Twenty-first street car to Monroe avenue.

RENDITION OF THE MESSIAH IN OGDEN

Increased interest is being manifested in the production of Handel's great oratorio "The Messiah" at the Orpheum theatre, on Saturday evening next. The people of Ogden remember with pleasure last year's production of the "Creation." Squire Coop is to be congratulated. Standing alone, he proposes to bring to Ogden some 200 people in his efforts to give to the people a finished presentation of the greatest of musical compositions. With a chorus of 150 select voices, a symphonic orchestra of 40 pieces and eminent soloists, the great classic will receive an interpretation worthy of its sublime character.

The Messiah is not a narrative. There are no characters represented. It is divided into three parts. The first part is prophetic of the Savior's coming. The overture, simple, but effective, prepares the audience for the splendid religious sentiment and feeling that follows. Mr. Best's fine tenor solo, "Comfort Ye My People" is most effective at this time. "And He Shall Purify," the most difficult perhaps, of all the choruses work in part of Part I, is also "For Unto Us a Child is Born." Mrs. Brown's glorious voice is heard in this part in the solo, "Rejoice Greatly."

Miss Edna Cohn, contralto, a new voice and in a splendid one, sings with great feeling "He Shall Feed His Flock" humble sublimity is portrayed in this selection.

Part II begins with the big chorus and orchestral number, "Behold the Lamb of God." Christ is born. Anton Lund's fine bass voice was never heard to better advantage than in the rendition of "He Was Despised," in this part. "Thy Rebuke Hath Broken His Heart," tenor solo, "Why Do the Nations So Furiously Rage Together" bass solo, and the "Hallelujah" chorus are all given with fine effect in part two.

Mrs. Browning, in part III, sings with such excellent expression, "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth." The big number, "Worthy is the Lamb" chorus, orchestra and soloists is certainly an inspiration.

The "Amen" chorus, has seldom if ever been given here, is a fitting conclusion to one of the most intensely religious compositions in the library of music.

Salt Lake City Man Tells of the Benefits From Plant Juice

Mr. J. C. Kearns, a nephew of Senator Kearns of Missouri and one of the most popular salesmen in Salt Lake City, has tested Plant Juice and has strong words of endorsement for it. Mr. Kearns' home is at 335 South Tenth East street. He has long been a sufferer from stomach trouble and says:

"Plant Juice is truly the real thing; fine and dandy and I can't praise it too highly. It is truly all you claim for it. I have not been able to free myself from indigestion and other stomach troubles until recently, when I was attracted to Plant Juice. I have taken one bottle and a part of another and I am now entirely relieved. I eat what I please and have no trouble whatever. Besides the tonic effects of Plant Juice has toned me up and made me feel splendid. I will always use Plant Juice when I get to feeling off. For those who have stomach trouble, I am sure there is nothing so good."

When you hear anyone complaining of indigestion, foul breath, bad taste in the mouth, gas, bloating, palpitation of the heart, or who have yellow skins, blotched, pimpled, who are bilious, have indigestion, are depressed and morbid, or who suffer with any derangement of the liver, stomach, kidneys or blood, you can rely on it that Plant Juice will give them immediate relief and eventual cure. It is the greatest vegetable tonic of the century, direct and rapid in action. It will do you more good than anything you have ever taken. O. J. STILWELL REACHES OMAHA

Editor Standard: You asked for a statement concerning road conditions from Ogden east. Wyoming roads, when dry, as I found them, are much better than I was led to believe. If one were so familiar with conditions as to know the location of each badger hole, and gully, he could make a high rate of speed, but these occur at unexpected and rather frequent intervals.

East of Rock Springs there are long stretches of abandoned railroad grades which have been taken over by the state as highways. These might be dangerous in places if wet, but to me appeared safe for a 20-mile clip.

There is about 15 miles of sand east of Rock Springs, which, however, was negotiated on the high gear at an average of 15 miles per hour.

After crossing the divide east of Evanston, there are only a few grades requiring the low gear, although an elevation of some 5,000 feet is twice reached, the first about 25 miles west of Medicine Bow and the second about the same distance west of Cheyenne.

The roads for 100 miles each side of Cheyenne are the best auto roads rendered by Omaha and Sacramento. Much of this section appears to be traveled by autos only. The road consists of two paths 6 inches wide, made by the auto tires between which there are no stumps of horses' hoofs.

In their present condition, namely about 4 days behind a heavy rain, the roads of Nebraska are rough in places and dangerously muddy in others, but 80 per cent of the entire distance was good, and undoubtedly the other 20 per cent is not bad, when dry.

A farmer who drew me out of a mudhole, reported that the rainfall of last week was the greatest for 5 years.

In Nebraska there are no hills and no sand which limits one's speed.

When the roads are dry, one who wished to do so, could easily make 200 miles per day from Medicine Bow to Omaha. I have been 10 days covering 1,000 miles, but have travelled at moderate speed and in easy stages. The trip from Ogden to Omaha by auto is not a strenuous one. However Mrs. Stilwell does not agree with me in the last statement.

(Signed) O. J. STILWELL.

STARK WAS IN THE WRONG BEDROOM

But for his ability to prove that he has borne a good reputation for several years, John Stark, a section foreman at Roy, would be facing a serious charge. As he was able to convince the police of his irresponsibility last evening, a charge of drunkenness was placed against him instead of a charge of housebreaking. Stark was arrested in the bedroom of M. Wild, who lives near the railroad tracks in the western part of the city. Upon returning to his home last evening, Wild found Stark in his house and held him until the police arrived.

In police court this morning Stark stated that he was drunk and had mistaken the house for his own. Judge W. H. Reeder gave Stark a suspended sentence of six months.

Washington, May 21—Secretary Daniels leaves today for Annapolis, Md., to look over the future admirals in the naval academy there. He will return tonight. WILLIE GREEN HAD STOLEN BRASS

Released from the State Industrial school only a month ago, Willie Green, age 21 years, is now occupying a cell in the city jail with a charge of petit larceny against him. The young man was arrested at 8:30 o'clock this morning by Patrolmen John Russell and Thomas Lever following a telephone call from the Rio Grande roundhouse to the effect that a boy had just made away with some brass. When arrested, Green had brass in his possession valued at $8 by the railroad company's agent.

There was another young man near Green at the time the arrest was made. Green claims he was implicated, but the boy stated that he had been trailing Green until the police arrived. Until the case has been investigated, the name of the other boy will not be disclosed.

GUN SHOOT TO BEGIN NEXT WEDNESDAY

Beginning next Wednesday, May 23, and continuing three days, Ogden will be in the hands of gunmen, and it is said that they will hold away, not because they are men with guns, but because they will be the guests of the sportsmen of this city, coming from three states, Idaho, Nevada and Utah. It will be the eighth annual tournament of the Tri-state Sportsmen's association. Some of the best trap shots of the intermountain country will be in attendance.

Secretary A. P. Bigelow of this city has arranged an interesting program which has just been turned out by the printers, providing seven beautiful association medals and trophies to be shot for, with $830 in cash prizes. The shoot will be held at the Ogden Gun club's grounds on Madison avenue and Thirty-fifth street, the Washington car going within three blocks of the place. It is said to be one of the finest shooting grounds in the intermountain region.

The officers of the Tri-state association are: J. F. Gowan, president; George E. Browning, vice president; Ray Kingsley, vice president; D. Holohan, vice president; A. P. Bigelow, secretary and treasurer.
