Wrights' July Clearing Sales

BATTERIES TO BE CHARGED IN OGDEN

Announcement was made today, by the engineering department of the Union Pacific system, that the space in the depot building recently cleared by the removal of the old heating plant will be used in the future as a charging station for storage batteries used in lighting cars and on the semaphore system. The station will be operated under the direction of the signal service of the Harriman lines.

The machinery necessary for the plant has been ordered and will be quickly placed in position, as the signal department has ample need for the station. While the ground floor is to be used for the charging station, the boiler for heating the hot water for use in the depot building will be placed in the basement.

Because of the increasing use of storage batteries on cars and in the block signal work, the department had planned a building for the charging apparatus, but held back for a time because of unsuitable location. The only spot available was in the southwest end of the yards, which would necessitate much switching of cars. When it was learned that the old plant was to be abandoned, arrangements were made whereby that location was secured for the signal department.

While the electric lighted trains have dynamos to supply the current, the storage batteries are needed when the train is at rest or the cars are side-tracked. Such charging as has been done in the local yards was by means of a small plant at the signal department building, at Twenty-sixth street and Pacific avenue.

on land and open up the interior. As a result, Alaska has been in a dormant condition for eight or nine years. It is my opinion that the government could spend to better advantage in Alaska the money it is outlaying on the Philippines.

"Notwithstanding the fact that Alaska is the greatest bargain Uncle Sam ever made and has returned over $60 for every dollar invested, seemingly but little effort is made to improve navigation in these waters. Thousands of dollars are being spent on the Philippines in the way of coast lighting and very little in Alaskan waters.

"Alaska bids fair to be one of the richest parts of our country, if not the richest, and it is hoped that the government in the near future will adopt a definite policy as regards its development."

PROGRESSIVES AT A LAWN SOCIAL

One need only to have been in attendance at the Progressive Lawn social on Saturday evening on the Toppence lawn, to feel assured that the Progressives of Weber county are much awake to the principles of their platform and that they are very optimistic as to the future of their party.

The lawn was prettily decorated with bunting and Japanese lanterns and every one present was served with ice cream and cake, generously provided by the ladies. There were about sixty of the party's enthusiasts in attendance. The gathering was presided over by J. M. Forristall and addressed by Wesley K. Walton, state chairman, Hon. Nephi L. Morris, former Progressive candidate for governor, and William E. Cadmus of Peoria, Ill., national organizer.

Mr. Cadmus narrated his experience while organizing Progressive service clubs throughout the nation, and said there was no intention to amalgamate with either of the old parties, which declaration was vociferously applauded. He said the Progressive platform under the outline of the Progressive service is considered under four divisions or departments: (1) Social and industrial justice, considering labor, child welfare, social insurance and immigration problems; (2) conservation, taking up problems of national resources, country life, health and productive efficiency; (3) cost of living and corporation control; (4) popular government, which considers equal suffrage, judicial reform, the initiative, referendum pledged itself to solve.

After fully explaining the needs of these clubs for their educational value, the chairman invited those present to become charter members of the Ogdén City Progressive Service club, which met with hearty response and the nucleus for a strong budget and organization was formed. The chair appointed a committee of five to call a meeting at an early date to form a permanent organization.

The prayer was offered by George F. Richards, and Joseph F. Smith, Jr., pronounced the benediction. President C. W. Penrose presided.

TROUBLES OF AERO BOATS

Muskegon, Mich., July 14.—Glenn H. Martin, the California aviator, was ready today to continue his flight in the Chicago to Detroit flying boat cruise. Beckwith Havens and Roy Francis, the other contestants, were still at Pentwater. Havens is having trouble with broken pontoons, it is said, while Francis is waiting for better weather. To win the prize, the cruise must be contested.

INVESTIGATION OF BAD WRECK

Los Angeles, Cal., July 14.—Investigation was begun today to fix the blame for the Pacific Electric accident last night at Vineyard station, where twelve were killed and nearly 250 injured. The curve in the tracks of the Venice Short Line at that place partially is held responsible for the failure of the motorman to see the stationary cars with which his train collided.

WHY THEY WERE CALLED 'MORMON'

Salt Lake, July 14.—The Mormon church is not the church of Peter or Paul, or John, or Joseph Smith or Brigham Young, but the Church of Jesus Christ, declared Apostle James

E. Talmage, in a sermon in the Tabernacle yesterday on the organization of the church. Many tourists and visitors were in the congregation and much of the speaker's remarks were for their better understanding of what the Mormon church is.

"The word 'Mormon' is a nickname as applied to this church and our people," said Apostle Talmage. "We are not followers of Mormon except as he was a follower of God. We are not followers of the world to be a Christian, the only greater thing to actually be one in fact.

"A good name is a thing to be prized, but it is not the greatest thing," he continued. "I am glad there is a difference between reputation and character. Reputation is what people say of us; character is what God and his angels actually know of us. It is an unfortunate thing to have one's reputation assailed, but we can remember that what people may say of us does not harm the inner shrine—character. This church has been assailed and it has been some annoyance at times, but it has not hurt the church, which is steadily growing all the time."

Apostle Talmage then went on to a discussion of the name of the Mormon church, about which many visitors have asked. In the scriptures, he said, Christ commanded that the church be in His name, and so it was called the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. Many churches have been named after men and after their plan of organization, he said, and in 1830, prior to organization of the Mormon church, not one was in the name of Christ.

The name of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints was given the church by authority from on high, when the true church was restored to the earth," he said.

"The church is open for your investigation," concluded Apostle Talmage; "it is open to all who believe its truths, and true worship of God."

At the beginning Mr. Talmage spoke of the pleasure it had given members of the church to have the N. E. A. hold its annual convention in this city. The church has welcomed the visitors, he said, and now wishes them good speed on their homeward journey. No attempt was made by the Mormons, he said, to proselyte among the educators or to force their religious views on visitors.
