WHY SHAY LOST HIS JOB AS MANAGER

"Danny" Shay who managed the Helena ball team until Sunday, owes the loss of his position to the dislike of the Helena fans, according to information received from the players now in Ogden.

During the illness of Menges a few weeks ago, when Quigley was removed to the position of shortstop and Shay played at second sack, his troubles began. A high wind was blowing during one of the games in which the manager participated and the balls could not be judged by the infielders of the outfielders. When several files dropped in the vicinity of Shay, that gentleman became the butt of some sarcastic remarks from the fans. According to the story told, Shay stood it for a few moments and then he broke loose and told the citizens of Helena what he thought of them.

Shay's arraignment of the supporters of the game in that town was not received with pleasure and his downfall began from that date.

HIGHWAYMEN PLEAD GUILTY

District Attorney Places Only One Offense Against Them, But Claims That Will Be Enough to Hold them in Prison for Life, if the Board of Pardons is Guided by Information to be Forwarded in Regard to the Career of the Holdups in Ogden.

When Thomas Martin, James Maxwell and Oscar McSwiggin, confessed highway robbers, were arraigned before Judge James A. Howell this morning only one information was read to them and to only one count of robbery were they called upon to plead. They all entered pleas of guilty and the court announced that sentence would be pronounced at 5 o'clock next Friday afternoon.

The men showed no hesitancy in their answers of "guilty" to the charge of robbing M. Biel of $10 at his place of business on Twenty-fifth street, July 21, and they advised the court that they did not care for the services of an attorney. Apparently they were pleased to plead to the indictment on only one of the counts and throw themselves upon the mercy of the state board of pardons.

After the reading of the information charging robbery at the Biel place, the court asked if the men were not to be arraigned on the other information, to which the district attorney replied that he did not care to have them arraigned on the other charges at this time. The court showed some impatience in the matter and said that a plea to all the charges should be entered. The attorney replied that he preferred to have the arraignment on the Exchange saloon robbery passed until after judgment in the other case and the court then consented, stating however, that the court could do nothing more than sentence the men to the state penitentiary for an indeterminate period.

Dissatisfaction over the manner of disposing of the desperate characters was expressed after adjournment of court by citizens, and District Attorney Davis was questioned regarding his attitude, to which the attorney replied that he would assume all the responsibility for the arraignment as he believed it was the most expeditious and the better way to dispose of the cases. While he did not intimate that a compromise had been entered into with the prisoners, yet he stated that it is understood that the recommendation of a life term will be forwarded to the state board of pardons on the one count.

Mr. Davis stated further that it would be impossible to give the men more than a life term in prison and that the board of pardons could release them from their incarceration at any time on a half dozen counts as well as on one, and furthermore, that the information on the other counts, and all facts connected with the men's crimes in this city on July 21, would be placed at the disposal of the pardoning board for its guidance.

However, it is the opinion of many that the men should have been called upon to answer the other charges and a record made in the district court for the information on the other counts, and all facts connected with the men's crimes in this city on July 21, would be placed at the disposal of the pardoning board for its guidance.

Whether the men will be dismissed can only be conjectured at this time but an inference is drawn from the attitude of the district attorney today that he will move for a dismissal of the other counts. At least, they will be left in abeyance, unless the district attorney changes his mind. The prisoners appeared neatly dressed, with well combed hair and clean hands and faces. They did not have the appearance of criminals as they stood before the judge and there were no tell-tale lines of desperation on their faces. The sheriff says they have been good prisoners and vet officers are of the opinion that they have been in prison before. They appear to understand the ways of prison life. They were unmoved and showed no signs of discomfort when they entered their pleas and seemed to understand their rights under the law when they told the court they did not desire the aid of legal counsel.

J. Marcan was also arraigned before Judge Howell on the charge of forging the name of A. C. Nelson to a $25 check, July 21. He asked for the statutory time in which to enter his plea which was fixed at 5 o'clock Friday evening.

SEEKS TO HAVE CANYON ROAD CHANGED

This morning the city board of commissioners referred to the superintendent of streets the petition of property owners asking for a readjustment of expenses connected with the removal of stone block curb and gutter on Twenty-fourth street, between Grant and Wall avenues, and replacing them with concrete. The property owners claim that they were put to an unnecessary expense in the improvement and they feel that there should be some consideration given the matter.

The petition to build a concrete sidewalk on Ogden avenue, between Seventh and Eighth streets, was referred to the superintendent of streets.

The communication from L. H. Ashton, suggesting that the canyon road leading into Ogden over the dugway, near the Bench canal, be made to follow the bank of the canal and enter the city on Jackson avenue was placed on file. Mr. Ashton's reason for the change, as he states it in his communication, is to avoid the heavy grade over the high ground at the entrance to Harrison avenue.

The board passed a resolution providing for the canvassing of the bond election return next Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

The following claims were allowed and the auditor instructed to draw warrants for the several amounts: Kissel Motor Car company (for police patrol) $2000.00

EXPERIENCE OF CULVER IS RECALLED

With the experience of George W. Culver still in their minds, the police are doubtful that success with attend John Hamner's efforts to recover his famous diamonds by offering a reward of $1000 and asking no questions. The police fear that the $1000 will go to the holders of the stones without an exchange.

After the Culvers were robbed of valuable jewelry by the blackknights of Ogden, Culver received a note stating that, for a sum of money his valuables would be returned. Reaching the vacant house on Twelfth street to which he had been directed, guns were thrust at Culver and the money he had taken to regain his jewelry was taken from him and no valuables were returned.

Hamner has not asked for the assistance of the police in his plans and hopes that the size of the reward will secure for him the gems he values so highly.

Improvements are to be made on the Kaiser buildings just west of "The Standard" building but, until the expiration of the leases held, no great changes will be started.

The old Independent Telephone building is about razed and the work of tearing down part of the Real building is progressing for the opening of Hudson avenue through the block. The Read building is to be extended, giving a longer frontage on Hudson avenue so that the part torn down to make way for the avenue will not decrease the floor space in the modern harness factory that will result when the improvements are completed.

TARIFF BILL OPPOSITION

German Societies of U. S. Send Protest to President Wilson on the Proposed Duty on Foreign Books

Washington, July 29.—German societies throughout the United States have sent protests to congress and to President Wilson against the proposed duty of 15 per cent on foreign books. German books are now on the free list, but would be subjected to the 15 per cent tax under the tariff bill now pending in the senate. The German organizations declare the proposed duty would be a tax on "scientific and literary progress."

President Wilson has taken a similar position as to the duty on books in foreign languages, particularly those of an educational or scientific character.

Attempts to have Democratic leaders determine immediately when the new duties on wool and woolen products should go into effect failed today in the senate.

Senator Brandegee for the woolen industry, asked for a joint resolution, fixing a date, and Senator Warren seconded the appeal in behalf of sheep raisers.

Chairman Simmons replied he had brought the question to the attention of Chairman Underwood and hoped to have a conference during the day.

ELECTRIC POWER DEVELOPMENT IN THE SOUTH.

No portion of our country is making swifter or greater strides in developing power of rivers and transforming that into the power of electricity than some states of the South, Tennessee, the Carolinas, Alabama, Georgia, and others are rapidly justifying the most hopeful predictions of former years. The abundant waters emerging from unrolling springs of mountains and foothills are being harnessed while yet swift in their dashing brightness to furnish horsepower by the millions. While in the cities and other communities of the lower lands of several states the belching stacks tell of the consumption of the coals of the Virginias and other states in the production of steam for the turning of the wheels, there are already great plants, and others are being erected to produce from the rushing waters of numerous rivers the cleaner power of electricity to be used in great factories, at the dams and those at a distance, fed through the wires.

We read of the rapid advance of India in the multiplication of spindles to compete with Lancashire in production of cotton fabrics, and then in our own South, where numerous great factories already in operation at a dozen points tell of activities in the same line, and others are rapidly rising to join their voices in the harmonies of great industries.

One of the greatest enterprises in our country for developing electric power from water power, if indeed, it is not to be the very greatest of all thus far, next to Niagara, has been commenced on the Yadkin river at Whitney, N. C. This historic river narrows at this point from 1800 feet to sixty feet, where its deep torrent rushes through a gorge. Here it is to be harnessed for production of at least 150,000 horse power. The investment alone for the dam and other features of this plant will cost over a million dollars, being one of the largest orders following those for the New York tunnels. The power house will be about 600x100 feet. The greatest portion of the power will run eight miles to the site of the plant, which will occupy eighteen acres in the immediate vicinity to be financed and operated by a French company with a capital of $10,000,000. There will be a surplus of power to drive shops at a distance.—Cincinnati Enquirer.
