The Standard

William Glasmann, Publisher.
AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER
(Established 1870.)

This paper will always fight for progress and reform, it will not knowingly tolerate injustice or corruption and will always fight demagogues of all parties. It will oppose privileged classes and public plunderers. It will never lack sympathy with the poor, it will always remain devoted to the public welfare and will never be satisfied with merely printing news; it will always be drastically independent and will never be afraid to attack wrong, whether committed by the rich or the poor.

HORSES ABUSED IN THIS CITY

A year ago Judge Volney C. Gunnery called the attention of the Standard to the mistreatment of horses during the hot weather. What the Judge said then is well worth repeated. We quote as follows: Standard—It is asking very much of the horses that they are expected to stand, often tied in bunches of three or four hitched to the same post, and fight flies and endure the hot sun, without breaking away. Most people make no provision for the protection of the animal from the millions of vicious flies that are so active at this season and for weeks to come, and frequently the head of the animal is held high in the direction of the streaming sun rays. Of course these abused horses would be fully justified in breaking every strap that binds them and going in search of more comfortable conditions, and but for the danger to other people who are innocent of such cruelty I would be pleased to witness the successful effort of such animal so treated to free itself, even to smashing vehicle and harness. I think that the police department of the city has the authority and the power to regulate these things and cause relief to be given to the horses, and remove the danger that is always present. While writing these lines I hear a noise on the street and looking out the window see a horse, tied to the hydrant at the Utah National bank corner, climbing onto the sidewalk and trying to follow my advice and break away from flies and sun. A big strong, unthinking and unmerciful fellow has grabbed the bridle rein and is jerking at the bit viciously, after the horse is quieted and then beating the animal with a strap. If the man was put into the same miserable plight he puts the horse he would doubtless fight his way out at whatever cost. I have often been told that there is a member of the police force who bears the special obligation and duty of looking after the matter of abuse or improper management of animals within the city, but if there are ever any signs of activity along that line they are surely hard to discover. Every now and then, on side streets especially, within the city, one may see cruelty in its highest form in the way some people feed the tired, hardworked overheat and hungry horses. This is performed by placing a bag containing grain over the nose of the horse and extending a strap over the head to hold the bag up close against the mouth and nostrils of the horse, and close fitting about the jaws, so that the animal pours the hot poisoned breath into the grain, and has no means of obtaining fresh air to breathe. These bags usually have not even small air holes (which sometimes are found, but always insufficient) and frequently boys handling horses, and even the men who have no care or have no sense, fasten the bags so tight that the animal is on the verge of suffocation all the time that the instrument of torture is there. Do officers protest and try to put a stop to such cruelty? People who rob a horse of a tolerable chance for air to breathe ought to be sent to the penitentiary, for it is about the most cruel thing, and entirely unnecessary and unprofitable. (Signed) VOLNEY C. GUNNELL.

BUSINESS THROUGHOUT THE COUNTRY.

What is the business outlook? Bradstreet's reply to this question, as follows, is encouraging: "Optimism concurrent with good buying furnish the keynote for this week's trade report. Visiting buyers have held sway in most of the country's leading markets and the general run has bought with more or less liberality. In consequence, house trade has broadened perceptibly. "The situation is encouraging, and it is patent that the prolonged policy of buying from hand to mouth has stripped shelves, as the result of which a reaction toward rather extensive buying has set in. Advances from textile mill centers indicate that idle machinery is starting up, and at the same time complaints of slow deliveries abound." Dan's Review agrees with Bradstreet's as to the brighter outlook, and says: "Expansion in commercial activity is generally maintained, although more or less irregularity is manifest in reports from the leading trade centers. Movement of merchandise continues liberal and the low position of stocks at all points leads to increased preparations for future requirements. Notwithstanding the deterioration in corn, agricultural prospects are favorable and confidence is fully sustained, sentiment responding to the improvement in the monetary situation. "Enlarged offerings of accommodation are noted at a recession in rates and the forthcoming distribution of government funds is expected to prevent any financial stringency this fall. The trend of security values was somewhat uncertain because of conflicting advices from Mexico, yet standard issues show substantial gains over the low point of the year." When congress adjourns there will be nothing to prevent an increase in the industrial activities of the country. At present the business interests are buying only to meet their immediate needs and were the wholesale houses to go into the manufacturing centers to stock up, there would be more orders than the factories could handle.

OGDEN RIVER NOT A WASHTUB.

The mother who washed her baby's clothing in Ogden river undoubtedly performed that act of polluting the water without thought that the filth would be carried down to the drinking cups of hundreds. There is a heavy fine provided for those who defoul a stream from which drinking water is obtained, but in this case leniency should be shown as the woman certainly did not know that she was committing a wrong against anybody. But it was well that the mayor, when the violation of the law was called to his attention, proceeded to take steps to warn the people against a repetition of that offense, so that in the future no one might plead ignorance of the law or fall to understand the degree of the offending against public health.

WHEN CHILDREN ARE IN DANGER.

Summer complaint among children is reported in many parts of the city, and a number of deaths have been recorded. There is no affliction to which a child is heir that works destruction so insidiously as the hot weather diarrhoea.

Some of the best authorities advise that a doctor be consulted immediately when the little ones show the first signs of ailing, particularly if the summer complaint is accompanied by fever. Food only in small quantities and that which is easily digested should be given, but first of all a dose of castor oil.

The Utah state board of health each season should issue a bulletin on this subject, with instructions as to preventive measures, treatment, etc. The Standard would give space to these bulletins and do all possible to keep the mothers well informed as to the disease.

An Eastern doctor, treating on this subject, says: "Any baby with diarrhoea should be seen by a physician. In simple diarrhoea the risk in disregarding this advice may not be great. If there is blood in the stools, or the baby has fever, the risk in disregarding the advice is extremely great.

As Kilmer says, as soon as loose bowels appear, food should be stopped and a dose of oil given. Water will usually satisfy for a while. Too much food in hot weather is almost as bad as bad food. After the system has rebelled against too much food, it will continue its rebellion against any food for a while.

The diarrhoea usually has an object, although it accomplishes that object in a harmful way. The object is to rid the digestive apparatus of something that is troublesome, and that is why the advice is to give a dose of oil to begin with. Neglected diarrhoeas, are responsible for the heavy baby death rate. For a while after the diarrhoea starts, the baby is not much disturbed. The condition is not serious. If neglected, the child slowly drifts down stream, and presently is caught in rapids from which there is no escape.

MORE WATER IS TO BE OBTAINED

The connecting of the Utah Light & Railway company's large pipe line with the conduit at the mouth of Coldwater canyon should overcome the water shortage with which the city has been threatened.

The wooden line of the Light company, over six feet in diameter, carries a great stream which, being tapped by the new big water main in the canyon, can fill the city reservoirs in half the time now required by the old conduit leading to Wheeler canyon.

Within the last few days the city reservoirs have been at low water mark, but from now on the reserve supply will be increased.

HUERTA IN A SERIOUS PREDICAMENT.

Victoriano Huerta, provisional president of Mexico, is between the devil and the deep sea in his dealings with the United States.

President Wilson, through John Lind, has requested Huerta to withdraw from the presidency, after calling a national election, in order that the people of Mexico may be free to elect a successor to Madero. Huerta knows that the minute he loses control and ceases to be a dictator his own head is in danger. There is more than one Mexican waiting the opportunity to eliminate Huerta in much the same manner that the assassin did away with Madero.

Then, furthermore, Huerta realizes that his yielding to the United States will alienate from his standard the strongest elements of his present following.

There is but one thing for Huerta to do and that is to pose as an enemy to this country, and at that he is inviting a peril quite alarming, for if the United States finally decides on intervention to enforce respect for American rights, Huerta and all his kind will be struck a tremendous blow.

WORLD'S MARKETS

WALL STREET
New York, Aug. 23.—With the exception of Atchison and Lehigh Valley, which receded one half, the standard stocks were generally higher at the opening today. The holiday in London deprived the market of a lead from that source, and first prices disclosed only small changes. Exceptions were Canadian Pacific, which rose two points and Denver, Rio Grand preferred, which gained 2 3/4. Trading was heaviest in steel and Reading.

The market closed easy. Following out the usual procedure of covering some of their outstanding contracts, shorts were in the market for stocks and their buying furnished the chief impetus to the moderate advance that occurred. Considering the small volume of business, the speculation showed unusual breadth, a feature being the material gains in numerous obscure issues. Steel, Reading and Union Pacific moved up in concert and to about the same extent as Chesapeake & Ohio moved up steadily to 60, increasing its advance to over three points since the dividend was cut. In the final dealings general profit taking caused fractional recessions all around. Bonds were steady.

Market Summary.
New York, Aug. 23.—Speculation was held in restraint this week and the volume of business on the stock exchange fell away to small proportions. Price movements were hesitating. The undertone was heavy in the latter part of the week, but losses were not severe. Uncertainty as to the outcome of the Mexican tangle was the uppermost consideration. Crop news was relegated to second place as a market factor and reports of rain in some sections affected by the drought were of little influence. Reduction in the price of steel billets indicated a less satisfactory situation in the steel trade. In the money market there was a slightly easier tendency.

Chicago Grain.
Chicago, Aug. 23.—Corn narrowed today, the news from foreign and domestic fields carrying nothing to give either bulls or bears decided support. There was fairly active trading among pit speculators, but the range of prices was small. Cables were easier, but this was partly offset by shorts who covered over Sunday. December started a shade to 1-4c lower at 68 5/8 to 3/4c, touched 68 1/4-1/2c, and reacted to opening figures.

Wheat was irregular. Cables were lower, but some scattered buying of near months kept prices steady. The market opened 1-8c lower to 1-8c higher, with December unchanged to 1-8c lower, at 90 1-2 to 5-8c, within which range it seemed inclined to hold. December oats opening a shade to 1-8c off at 44 5/8 to 5-8@3/4c, steadied around the former figure. First figures on provisions were unchanged to 10 cents lower with January products as follows: Pork $20.92 1-2; lard, $10.95; ribs, $10.27 1-2.

Wheat—Liberal offer later caused an easing in prices. The close was firm, however, with December at 90 3-8c, a net loss of 1-4c. Corn—Later the market weakened on expectation of large increase in receipts of cash corn. The close was easy, at a net loss of 5-8 to 5-8@3-4c, with December at 68 1-8@1-4c.
