 Boston, Sept. 29.—New York having clinched the National league pennant, presented a makeshift team to day, which won one game, 5 to 3, and lost a second to Boston by 8 to 1. Darkness stopped the second contest in the seventh inning. Jim Thorpe, the former amateur athletic star, played his first full game as a member of the Giants. He drove a home run into the centerfield bleachers and also made a single in the first game. Thorpe also pulled down several difficult flies. New York scored all its runs in the first game off Hess, Quinn, who succeeded him, holding them to one safe drive in the last four innings.

 Perdue was taken out after the third inning or the second game, James finishing the contest and holding New York to one hit. Schauer, New York's $11,000 recruit twirler, was given a tryout by New York and was easy for the local batsmen. Errors aided Boston in piling up runs.

Johnson's Again Victor.

 Today was McBride day, having been set aside in honor of George McBride, Washington's captain and shortstop. He was presented with a handsome diamond watch fob and a huge basket of flowers by the "fans" of Washington. Vice President Marshall made the presentation speech.
 The lone run of the game came in the seventh inning. The locals could do little with Wyckoff, who pitched a sterling game. His support, however, was wobbly. Gandil opened with a single and stole second. Morgan beat out an infield tap, Gandil going to third. Williams then forced Morgan at second, Gandil coming home with the winning run. Score:

OLD MAN TRIES NEW SERUM ON TURTLES

Paris, Sept. 29.—For some days past the turtles in the Jardin des Plantes have suffered from a mysterious affection, characterized by spasmodic movements. The professors attached to the museum were completely non-plussed by the unknown diseases and all treatment proved unavailing.

When taken in charge he said that his name was Frederic Ambrosetti and that he was formerly a professor of zoology at Milan. Washington, Sept. 30.—Considerable misbranding has been going on in lemon oil, the United States bureau of chemistry has discovered. This is due, it is said, to the remarkable increase in the cost of the article, which before the disastrous earthquake in Sicily that destroyed the city of Messina a few years ago, could be bought for 75 cents a pound, whereas now its cost is $5 a pound. Recently one American shipper was fined $200 for selling misbranded oil, and at another place seizure has been made of 350 pounds of the so-called "standard quality oil of lemon," which, it charged, consists of "washed lemon oil reinforced with citral." Philadelphia, Sept. 30.—Dr. Leo S. Rowe, of the University of Pennsylvania, one of the representatives of the United States on the international claims committee established under the treaty of 1903 with the Republic of Panama, who returned here from Panama last night, issued a statement on the work of the committee today. He said:
 "The decision of the United States to acquire title to all the land in the canal zone involves much more than the expropriation of a large amount of property. The policy adopted by the government of the United States was not only to acquire title to all the land in the canal zone, but also to depopulate the zone. In other words, the goods of small farmers who had for many years cultivated small tracts of public land as a means of livelihood were to be driven from their homes. This involved the necessity of passing on a great number of claims for damages."
