

YOUNG BOYS CAUGHT AT NIGHT ON A JOY RIDE

After a chase in which four automobiles pursued one that had been taken by "joy riders," three youngsters, all juveniles, were arrested and turned over to the juvenile authorities. Two of the riders got safely away.

The boys arrested are Vivian and Paul Pickett, twin sons of William Pickett, 956 Twenty-third street and Victor Thines, 327 Twenty-eighth street. The boys are of the same age, 15 years.

The machine "borrowed" belonged to R. A. Seager, 2667 Barlow avenue, who left it at Twenty-sixth street and Madison avenue while attending a meeting in the Fifth ward hall. When missing it at 10 o'clock, the police, the sheriff and the James garage were notified. From each place, automobiles were sent out to scour the city.

H. C. James of the garage caught up with the boys on Adams avenue between Twenty-sixth and Twenty-seventh streets. The amateur chauffeur was unable to make Twenty-seventh street hill. The boys were turned over to the police who had gone in another direction.

Although Saeger had extracted his spark plug, the boys came provided with one. H. C. James reported that he had a number of plugs stolen and the police state that plugs have been taken from the delivery automobiles.

STRANGER ATTEMPTS TO GET AWAY WITH A SUIT CASE

Relying solely upon his nerve, John Martin, a Chicago waiter, attempted the steal of a suit case from the basement of Wright's department store this morning before the numerous clerks, but he failed. He is now in the city jail with a charge of petty larceny against him.

Martin entered the store about 10 o'clock this morning and went down the basement. He informed the clerks there that he would look around for a few moments and that they need not attend to his wants until he called them. Although he was not attended, he was watched by Frank Inabitt.

Martin investigated the suit cases and selected one, valued at $17.50. In a matter of fact, he grasped the handle and began to make for the stairs. Inabitt was at his side as he began to walk up the stairs. "Who sold you the case?" asked the clerk.

"Why, he did," said Martin pointing to Hyrum Lund, the floorwalker who had just passed him on his way down the stairs.

"Well, wait just a moment," said Inabitt. He called to Lund and asked Lund if the case had been sold by him. When Lund replied that he had just entered the basement, the clerk took a grip on the man's coat and held him until Sergeant C. E. Layne and Patrolman Jerry Keilher put the fellow under arrest.

TALKING PICTURES HERE NEXT WEEK

The seemingly impossible has at last been accomplished—moving pictures that talk and laugh and sing. Thomas A. Edison, the wizard, has at last made this possible and these wonderful talking pictures will be seen at the Orpheum three days, beginning Sunday, November 9. Mr. Edison does not claim that his pictures are the first talking pictures, but he does claim that they are the first and only practical and genuine talking pictures perfected and presented to the public. The Edison talking pictures are genuine; that is, the film and record are taken simultaneously and every sound and every action is faithfully reproduced. A full evening's entertainment is given. POSTOFFICE SEEKS TO IMPROVE THE WRITING

Publicity given by the newspapers to the deciphering of "freak" addresses on letters by clever postal clerks has done much toward causing carelessness on the part of postoffice patrons when writing addresses, according to Daniel C. Roper, first assistant postmaster general, who has sent a notice to Postmaster W. W. Brown, urging that the patrons of this office be directed to write addresses correctly and accurately. It is stated that much of the delay in the delivery of mail is caused by insufficient address.

PRINCIPAL TOOK THE JOKE GRACEFULLY AND WON OUT

It developed today that the boys who tried to organize a strike at the high school are but a small minority and that the real school body had no sympathy with the few.

It was also learned that Principal Peterson took the joke gracefully and that the minority at the school had misunderstood the school is under popular government and there are but few students who do not abide by the laws.

PETER R. SHUPE DIES AFTER A SHORT ILLNESS

Peter R. Shupe, a lifelong resident of Ogden and one of the best known blacksmiths of the city, died at 10 o'clock this morning at his residence, 722 Twenty-sixth street, after an illness of kidney and bladder troubles. He had been ill but little more than a week. He was taken to the hospital last Saturday but was removed to his home again last evening. His wife and children were at his bedside when he died.

Peter R. Shupe was born in Ogden, December 11, 1864, and since then there has been but little time when he was out of the city. He learned the trade of blacksmith and opened a shop in Wilson Lane, working there until ten years ago when he opened a shop at 2634 Washington avenue. He attended to his business at his shop in Ogden, also.

COLEMAN CASE IN THE DISTRICT COURT

This morning in Judge J. A. Merrill's division of the district court, a divorce case of Anna C. Coleman against Albert C. Coleman was taken up for trial. The hearing is still in progress. Both parties in the case have made serious charges of infidelity, the plaintiff alleging cruelty and the defendant, in a cross-complaint, claiming that the plaintiff has not been true and that she has not taken proper care of the children.

The forenoon was taken up in hearing the testimony of the plaintiff, which she has been treated by her husband the past few months, which she has said that he always testified that her husband had wronged her and otherwise mistreated her. He had consorted with other women, she said, and had conducted himself improperly. Testifying to the plaintiff's interests, she is possessed of a homestead eight miles from Grand Junction, valued at $4000, furniture and fixtures in the Eldora rooming house on Twenty-fifth street, and money in the Commercial National bank, the amount of which she did not know. She said that he always had been stingy with her and did not treat her as a wife should be treated.

There are other witnesses for the plaintiff who will take up most of the afternoon, after which the defendant will have his story to tell regarding the counter-charges against Mrs. Coleman.

FOLEY—Funeral services for Bartley Foley will be held Sunday at 2 p. m. at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Foley, 2332 Jefferson avenue, conducted by Bishop O. M. Sanderson. Remains will lie in state Saturday evening and Sunday until time of services. Interment in Ogden City cemetery.

PYGMY ROSES IN AFRICA

A brother of Dr. Schuyler in a book written by the Duke of Mecklenburg, tells of journeys down the German Congo and across the South Cameroons, incidentally contributing some interesting notes of the pygmy races of the forests, who got on many women of which he got on many friendly terms. Round the camp fires at night, and over the illustrated papers of civilization he discussed the affair of Europe with the wildest folk of the equatorial jungles. The pygmies are everywhere hunters of great game.

There exists a kind of mutual contempt between the Bontus on the one hand and the pygmies on the other, whereby the latter is supplied by the former with fruits, hunting weapons, and various indispensable trifles, in return for which the give up some of their coveted elephant meat and ivory.

There is no question of the dwarfs being in subjection to other tribes as some travelers have asserted. The pygmies are fully aware of their importance as providers of meat.
