

How Many Tons Will YOU Use This Winter?

With coal selling at diamond prices, and a strong chance that prices will scoot still further skyward, it's a pretty important question.

It's a question of economy which the prospective stove buyer ought to stop right here and consider. If you save ten dollars on the purchase price of a stove, and it wastes that much fuel in the course of a year or two, you can see it's a pretty poor investment.

THE Estate Radiant Base Burner

costs a little more to buy than some other stoves, but ever so much less to support. The reason for its greater fuel economy lies in its larger radiating surface; its more effective circulating system; its perfect fire control. Other people make these claims, but we can prove them. Give us the opportunity—soon.

LIGHTNING DESTROYS THE COUNTRY CLUB BUILDING

At 6:30 o'clock this morning Rev. Frank G. Brainerd, of the First Congregational church and his young son Gareth, barely escaped death in the flames by jumping from the upper floor of the Congregational Country Club building at the base of the mountains near Ogden City reservoir.

At that time thunder and lightning played high jinks in a snow storm, one of the thunder bolts striking the base of the building and starting a fire. The building was beyond the fire limits and above the city waterworks system, rendering the fire department helpless in quenching the flames.

The club was a rock structure, but contained much woodwork. The wood being dry it burned like tinder making a bright blaze in the early morning. Having a little writing to do, and desiring a quiet place, Mr. Brainerd, with his son, last evening went to the club house for the night. Both were sleeping soundly this morning when the thunder began to roar. They were awakened by a crash but were not aware that the building had been struck until Mr. Brainerd arose to close one of the windows through which the snow and sleet were coming in upon the bed.

By this time the building was enveloped in flames and its destruction made certain. Before leaving the upper floor, Mr. Brainerd threw some of the bedding out of the house and that was all that was saved from the fire. All the club fixtures were destroyed and an organ which Mr. Brainerd valued highly as a family relic was consumed.

The building has been under lease by the Congregational church Country club organization and during the two seasons in which it has been used, something more than 600 guests have been entertained. Mr. Brainerd has upon different occasions, entertained among others, the Boy Scouts organization and members of the baseball team of Ogden. He states that the fixtures of the club consisted of 14 beds with necessary bedding, chairs, dishes, etc. In the four lower rooms there were clothing and other personal property of Rev. Brainerd estimated to be worth $100. The club itself loses $100 in furnishings. There was no insurance.

Mr. Brainerd cannot say that lightning set the place on fire as he was not awake when the heavy flash of lightning came, but a neighbor's boy, William Broadbent, who was doing his chores at that time, saw the lightning strike the base of the building.

The thunder storm was felt in the eastern part of the city to an alarming extent. When the heavy clap of thunder came at 6:30, residents in the neighborhood of Liberty park say the windows of the houses shook and people were frightened from their beds. The fuses in the Twenty-first street cars were burned out and the service slightly delayed. Snow and hail fell rapidly during the electrical disturbance.

JAMES W. STEVENS IS LAID TO REST IN CITY CEMETERY

James William Stevens, son of the late Sidney Stevens, and member of the firm which bears the family name, who died at his home in Preston, Ida., Monday, was well and favorably known in this city where he was associated in business and received his education under his father, who ranked high in the commercial and ecclesiastical upbuilding of this in mountain country, and who was active in public life until his passing away on May 18, 1910.

About eight years ago his father made him the manager of the Preston branch and as such he became one of the most successful and prominent of the business men of that community. He was sought at different times by his friends to accept high official positions and became a great favorite among his associates.

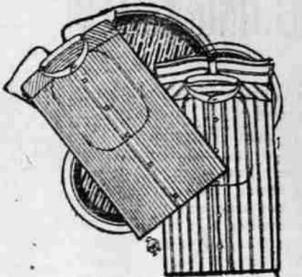

A short but beautiful service was held at his residence in Preston, where all the business houses of the city closed their doors joining the bereaved family in the service conducted by Bishop Johnson.

Loving tribute to Patriarch Solomon Hale, Sr. was paid to the noble character of the deceased and his lifelong association with the business firm. He affectionately mentioned his fond relations with the founder and president, the late Sidney Stevens. Sweet strains of music were furnished by the Preston choir and the Woodmen of the World escorted the remains to the train.

Wednesday and until noon on Thursday the remains were viewed by many loving friends and business associates at the home of his mother, Mrs. Sidney Stevens, where expressions of sympathy offered to his sorrowing relatives were received, to be held in grateful remembrance by his young wife, formerly Lillian Foulger, daughter of Sarah Kay and Wallace Foulger, and his mother and family, the following of whom were present: Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. DePuy, Mr. and Mrs. Gideon T. Alvord, Mr. and Mrs. H. Adolph Soderberg, Mr. and

THEY CELEBRATED ON SCHNAPPS JUST FROM GERMANY

In the police court this morning Dave Terry was given a home for the winter in the shape of a six months' sentence. Dave is the drunk who has been in possession of a menagerie for the past two or three days and was still in bad shape when he answered to his name, and as it was his fifth or sixth drunk in as many weeks, Judge Reeder thought best to have him taken care of.

Herbert Nichols, an obstreperous drunk, came against his "honor's" bad opinion of men who get drunk on and use foul language in the presence of women and children, and went to jail for 25 days.

Charles Miller, a German drunk, addressed the judge in his own tongue. His explanation for the condition he was found in interpreted to the court attendants by the judge, was that his brother had arrived yesterday from Strassburg, Germany, with a cargo of schnapps in two big bottles. These the two brothers proceeded to "kill" and Charles ended up in jail. As it was only a sociable drunk Miller was allowed to go.

George A. Carey, drunk, blamed family affairs for his troubles. This was his second time in court on the same charge and he promised that it would be the last. The judge gave him a suspended sentence of six
