WEDDING RECEPTION IS BEAUTIFUL AFFAIR.

Over 200 guests were present last evening at one of the most beautiful wedding receptions ever tendered in Ogden when Miss Leash Pardoe and Mrs. W. E. Bassett entertained in honor of their daughter Kathryn Smith and Mr. T. Earl Pardoe, who were married yesterday in the Salt Lake Mormon temple. From 8 o'clock until 11 guests were received at the Bassett home, 2731 Madison avenue, which had been previously decorated for the occasion. In the reception hall trailing smilax and sprays of fern were most effectively arranged and in an alcove from the hall a green bowered booth where fruit punch was served, carried out the green color scheme. Little Miss Claremonde Ballif, daintily gowned, presided here. As the guests arrived, Miss Hattie Smith, assisted by little Miss Fern Pardoe and Master Eldon Bassett as ushers, received the guests and escorted them to the upstairs dressing room where their wraps were taken. Mrs. Thomas E. Pardoe, next in the receiving line, presented them to Mesdames William E. Bassett, T. B. Cardon and the bride, Mrs. T. Earl Pardoe, who escorted them to the nuptial corner of the large and exquisitely decorated parlor, where the bride's maids, Miss Ethel Johnson of Salt Lake, and Miss Leash Pardoe, the groom, Mr. T. Earl Pardoe and Clyde Greenwell as best man were introduced. The guests were then ushered into the dining room by Miss Mildred Pardoe.

Throughout the Bassett home every conceivable flower of the spring lent its loveliness to the occasion. In the large double parlor pink Killarney roses and pink and white carnations arranged in vases and jardiniere bedecked the room. Sprays of smilax and ferns intertwined formed a bower in the nuptial corner from the center of which was suspended a beautiful bouquet of fragrant white carnations. Jardiniere and tall vases of pink and white carnations were prettily placed in the spacious drawing room while smilax and maiden hair fern adorned the chandeliers. Banked in front of the fireplace were carnations and daisies in profusion and resting on the mantelpiece were pretty bowls of yellow daisies. Smilax and fern made a pretty border for the mirror frame. The dining room was a perfect bery of tiny yellow roses entwined with smilax. An individual tray luncheon with the desserts, cake

At 10:30 o'clock the debutantes present gathered in the reception hall for the purpose of catching the bouquet of bride's roses, which was to be thrown to them by the bride. Amid a flurry of excited laughter, Mrs. Pardoe ascended the stairway to a point of vantage and with her back to the charming and expectant young ladies, threw the classic bouquet over her right shoulder. It was caught by Miss Leash Pardoe, one of the bridesmaids, who was immediately congratulated by everyone within reach.

Out of consideration for the batchelors present, the groom was persuaded at a special innovation, to throw them a bouquet that they might also gain hope of future domestic bliss. He chose the bouquet of white carnations that hung from the middle of the smilax bower at the top of the nuptial corner. The batchelors, in almost equal number, took the place of the debutantes in the reception hall and when the groom threw the bouquet it was caught by David S. Cook, who generously divided it among his fellow batchelors.

After an extended honeymoon trip throughout Utah and Idaho, Mr. and Mrs. Pardoe will be at home to their friends in this city where they will make their future home. Following is a list of the guests bidden:

women, the college graduates of today, should not accord with the majority in all things, but should independently follow the findings of their own minds. "There is a fascination in numbers," he declared, "so that we are in danger of being enslaved by big numbers rather than devoted to greatness. The world doesn't need more men, but more man—not more brotherhoods, but more brotherhood—not more bigness, but more greatness—not more truths, but more truth."

Proper Thing Now Is to Peel Off Soiled Skin

Those who abhor sticky greasy, shiny, streaked complexions should religiously avoid creams, powders and rouges during the heated days. There's no need for them anyway, since the virtues of mercerized wax have become known. No amount of perspiration will produce any evidence that you've been using the wax. As it is applied at bedtime and washed off in the morning the complexion never looks like a make-up. Mercerized wax gradually takes off a bad complexion, instead of adding anything to make it worse. It has none of the disadvantages of cosmetics and accomplishes much more in keeping the complexion beautifully white, satiny and youthful. Just get an ounce of it at your druggist's and see what a few days' treatment will do. Use like cold cream.

GOSHEN PRAISED BY PEOPLE OF BOZEMAN

Bozeman, Mont. June 3.—Dr. Elmer I. Goshen of Salt Lake delivered the address today at the commencement exercises of the Montana State College of Agriculture. It was one of the strongest speeches Bozeman people have heard on the part played in world's history and played today by the men and the women who think and are not afraid to pay the price of thinking. It was a mastery effort. "Be among the company of men, the minority that dares to think and dares to pay the price," was the theme of Mr. Goshen's address and his advice to the graduating class of twenty-two young men and women. The speaker pointed to the fallen fortunes of Egypt, Greece and Rome, as example of the penalties of people dominated by creed and oligarchy and priesthood and who were afraid to think. "The majority never rules," he declared. "It has been the minority—the men who were scoffed at, persecuted and martyred—the heretics who have benefited the world by their presence in it." His dominate thought was that the coming men and

Death By Accident Pays Double $1,000 Policy Pays $2,000

Facsimile of check paid to Mrs. Mary A. Garner for death of her son, Walter Garner, who was killed in a motorcycle accident May 9. W. G. Hunter, special superintendent of the Kansas City Life Insurance Co., was in Ogden yesterday and delivered this check in person to Mrs. Garner. He stated that the check was issued within two hours after the report of death was received at the home office. In carrying this policy Mr. Garner showed his good business judgment by providing for his mother and protecting his business associates. Being a young man of exceptional qualities both morally and physically he was made eligible for a special form policy the Kansas City Life has been putting out to selected risks, providing for double indemnity for accidental death and paying the full amount should the policy holder become physically disabled. As a result, while Mr. Garner carried only $1,000, his policy was made operative for $2,000. Mr. Garner had paid but two premiums on his policy.
