

BILL SWEENEY JOINS RED SOX

May Be Future Manager of Boston Club — Monty's Baseball Prediction.

NOW FREE LANCE

Bresnahan Schemes to Trade Sweeney — Plays Trump Card at National League Meeting.

(By MONTY.)
New York, March 13.—The signing of Bill Sweeney by the Boston Red Sox is a rather interesting occurrence from a number of angles. If surface indications mean anything, Sweeney is likely to be more than just a second baseman. That sounds like hinting at his becoming manager and displacing Bill Carrigan. It not only sounds like hinting but it is hinting. In the humble opinion of your Uncle Monty, Sweeney will be the next manager of the club, and before the 1915 season is over.

Why should the Red Sox want Sweeney when a capable young citizen like Harold Janvrin is on deck for second base duty? Janvrin's hitting was not remarkably heavy last year. He batted only .238. But he more than made up for that deficiency by his excellence in other ways. He had a good supply of speed on the bases and fielded his position competently. He stole 29 bases to only 18 pilfered by Sweeney for the Cubs. Sweeney batted only .218. Their comparative figures in fielding were 955 for Janvrin against 954 for Sweeney, about a toss-up, but Janvrin admittedly covered quite a bit more ground. Sweeney had slowed up a lot over his performances of previous years, before he was traded by the Braves to the Cubs in the celebrated Johnny Evers deal.

Sweeney's unconditional release. The unconditional release of Sweeney by Roger Bresnahan, new manager of the Chicago Cubs, a couple of months ago, occasioned only a mild surprise. Did Bresnahan have any sub-surface motive in turning Sweeney adrift? Roger had a rather disconcerting experience while manager of the St. Louis Cardinals. Playing under him was Miller Huggins, known as a heady ball player and one capable of managing a team if he ever got the opportunity. When the Cardinals slid down into the lower portions of the second division, St. Louis critics boasted Huggins as the man who could do better than Bresnahan. Finally, when Bresnahan went on his way to the Cubs, Huggins supplanted him as the St. Louis leader.

Immediately Bresnahan began to play a Huggins role with the Cubs. Johnny Evers was made manager of the team when Frank Chance was deposed but nearly everybody guessed at how long it would be before Bresnahan would succeed Johnny. Finally, it will be recalled, Evers had his run-in with Owen Murphy. He was turned loose and Hank O'Day was taken from the umpire corps to see if he could make a better manager than he had been with Cincinnati two years before. Evers went to the Boston Braves. All the time that O'Day managed the Cubs last year, Bresnahan was regarded as his certain successor, sooner or later, and he finally got the job at the close of the season.

From the moment that Bresnahan took hold of the Cubs last fall, he realized that he had a man under him who might conspire, as Brutus did against Caesar, to get Roger's job. This idea of having a man around who might rise up and crowd him out had been impressed upon Bresnahan by having seen a lot of it already. He got right on the job in an effort to trade Sweeney to some other club.

Plays Trump Card.
At the several National League meetings during the winter, Sweeney was the trump card Bresnahan played whenever he tried to make a trade for new talent. Nobody seemed to want Sweeney, however. Bresnahan was determined to get rid of Bill and, in an effort to receive something in return for him, asked for waivers. He thought he at least could get the waiver price from somebody. But not one club would pay it. There was nothing left to do but keep Sweeney or release him unconditionally. Bresnahan chose the latter course. Let Roger deny it if he will, but it is certain that Sweeney's presence made him uneasy about his own position.

As soon as Sweeney became a free agent, Joseph J. Lannin, owner of the Red Sox, was advised to get in touch with him which he did, and the result was that Sweeney is now on the Boston American roster, listed as a second baseman. Bill Carrigan probably will arise to point out that it was himself and not Lannin that carried on the negotiations with Sweeney. That will be perfectly truthful, but it will not be denying that Lannin gave him the high sign to trail Sweeney and sign him at the best possible terms.

Red Sox Lost 1914 by Loafing.
The Red Sox, in the opinion of many experienced students of the game, should have won the American league pennant last year. They loafed about two-thirds of the time. Carrigan could not inject any spirit into the team, could not get the men to deliver their best goods. He lacked the necessary magnetism, or presence, to achieve 100 per cent of the possibilities of his players, or even anywhere near 100 per cent of them. Sweeney is of a type that, in the opinion of many, would stir up more ambition among the men if he were in charge of the team.

The Red Sox appear quite a bit stronger than any other team in the American league for the race that lies just ahead. They ought to begin to win a big majority of their games right from the jump-off. If they don't keep your weather eye peeled for the announcement of Carrigan's demotion and Bill Sweeney's elevation to the position as manager before many weeks have rolled by.

INDOOR BASEBALL GAME IS PLAYED

Ogden Savings Bank
234 & WASHINGTON AVE.

REMEMBER that every day counts in getting a good start on the road to success.

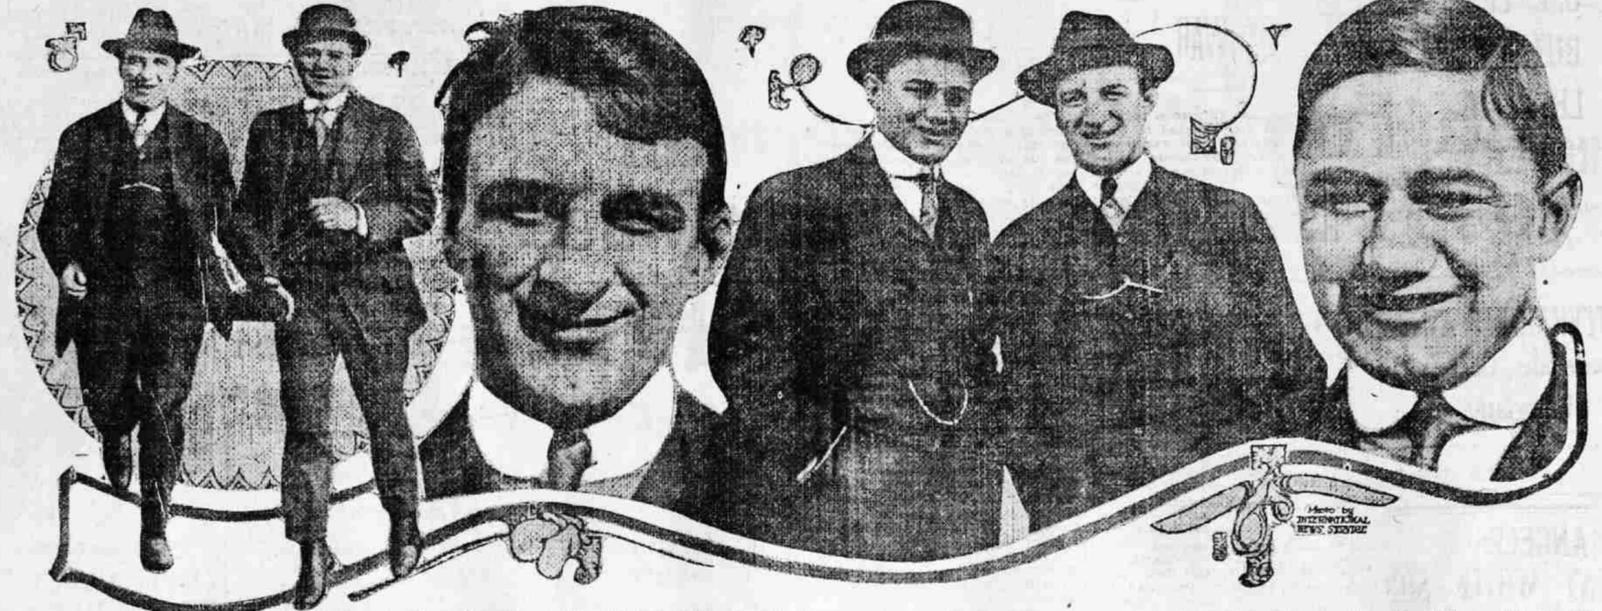

Begin now by starting an account with the Ogden Savings Bank.

WE PAY 4% COMPOUNDED QUARTLY

SPORTS

LATEST PHOTOGRAPHS OF PRESENT AND FORMER WORLD LIGHTWEIGHT BOXING CHAMPIONS

SPORTS

The photograph shows Willie Ritchie, who lost the title to Freddie Welsh in London last summer, and the imperturbable Freddie himself, who lost the title to Ritchie Thursday. Both Ritchie and Welsh are gentlemanly young fellows, natty dressers, of good address, educated, yet and cultured, too. Ritchie is a tango expert now, with his sister he does a dancing act in vaudeville. He accuses Welsh of doing a dancing act in the ring, of waltzing away, and hesitating instead of mixing it.

winning team made the high individual score of 82. The final score of the game was 313 to 298 and the complete summary follows:

BUCHMILLER & FLOWERS.
Herrick	59
Greenwell	65
Kelly	52
Shuffelburg	89
Noodles	48
Totals	313
FORESTRY SERVICE.
Metcalf	59
Trube	50
Brown	56
Ingram	67
Harris	67
Totals	298

of the St. Louis Cardinals. Playing under him was Miller Huggins, known as a heady ball player and one capable of managing a team if he ever got the opportunity. When the Cardinals slid down into the lower portions of the second division, St. Louis critics boasted Huggins as the man who could do better than Bresnahan. Finally, when Bresnahan went on his way to the Cubs, Huggins supplanted him as the St. Louis leader.

Immediately Bresnahan began to play a Huggins role with the Cubs. Johnny Evers was made manager of the team when Frank Chance was deposed but nearly everybody guessed at how long it would be before Bresnahan would succeed Johnny. Finally, it will be recalled, Evers had his run-in with Owen Murphy. He was turned loose and Hank O'Day was taken from the umpire corps to see if he could make a better manager than he had been with Cincinnati two years before. Evers went to the Boston Braves. All the time that O'Day managed the Cubs last year, Bresnahan was regarded as his certain successor, sooner or later, and he finally got the job at the close of the season.

From the moment that Bresnahan took hold of the Cubs last fall, he realized that he had a man under him who might conspire, as Brutus did against Caesar, to get Roger's job. This idea of having a man around who might rise up and crowd him out had been impressed upon Bresnahan by having seen a lot of it already. He got right on the job in an effort to trade Sweeney to some other club.

Plays Trump Card.
At the several National League meetings during the winter, Sweeney was the trump card Bresnahan played whenever he tried to make a trade for new talent. Nobody seemed to want Sweeney, however. Bresnahan was determined to get rid of Bill and, in an effort to receive something in return for him, asked for waivers. He thought he at least could get the waiver price from somebody. But not one club would pay it. There was nothing left to do but keep Sweeney or release him unconditionally. Bresnahan chose the latter course. Let Roger deny it if he will, but it is certain that Sweeney's presence made him uneasy about his own position.

As soon as Sweeney became a free agent, Joseph J. Lannin, owner of the Red Sox, was advised to get in touch with him which he did, and the result was that Sweeney is now on the Boston American roster, listed as a second baseman. Bill Carrigan probably will arise to point out that it was himself and not Lannin that carried on the negotiations with Sweeney. That will be perfectly truthful, but it will not be denying that Lannin gave him the high sign to trail Sweeney and sign him at the best possible terms.

Red Sox Lost 1914 by Loafing.
The Red Sox, in the opinion of many experienced students of the game, should have won the American league pennant last year. They loafed about two-thirds of the time. Carrigan could not inject any spirit into the team, could not get the men to deliver their best goods. He lacked the necessary magnetism, or presence, to achieve 100 per cent of the possibilities of his players, or even anywhere near 100 per cent of them. Sweeney is of a type that, in the opinion of many, would stir up more ambition among the men if he were in charge of the team.

The Red Sox appear quite a bit stronger than any other team in the American league for the race that lies just ahead. They ought to begin to win a big majority of their games right from the jump-off. If they don't keep your weather eye peeled for the announcement of Carrigan's demotion and Bill Sweeney's elevation to the position as manager before many weeks have rolled by.

INDOOR BASEBALL GAME IS PLAYED

Ogden Savings Bank
234 & WASHINGTON AVE.

REMEMBER that every day counts in getting a good start on the road to success.

Begin now by starting an account with the Ogden Savings Bank.

WE PAY 4% COMPOUNDED QUARTLY

winning team made the high individual score of 82. The final score of the game was 313 to 298 and the complete summary follows:

BUCHMILLER & FLOWERS.
Herrick	59
Greenwell	65
Kelly	52
Shuffelburg	89
Noodles	48
Totals	313
FORESTRY SERVICE.
Metcalf	59
Trube	50
Brown	56
Ingram	67
Harris	67
Totals	298

of the St. Louis Cardinals. Playing under him was Miller Huggins, known as a heady ball player and one capable of managing a team if he ever got the opportunity. When the Cardinals slid down into the lower portions of the second division, St. Louis critics boasted Huggins as the man who could do better than Bresnahan. Finally, when Bresnahan went on his way to the Cubs, Huggins supplanted him as the St. Louis leader.

Immediately Bresnahan began to play a Huggins role with the Cubs. Johnny Evers was made manager of the team when Frank Chance was deposed but nearly everybody guessed at how long it would be before Bresnahan would succeed Johnny. Finally, it will be recalled, Evers had his run-in with Owen Murphy. He was turned loose and Hank O'Day was taken from the umpire corps to see if he could make a better manager than he had been with Cincinnati two years before. Evers went to the Boston Braves. All the time that O'Day managed the Cubs last year, Bresnahan was regarded as his certain successor, sooner or later, and he finally got the job at the close of the season.

From the moment that Bresnahan took hold of the Cubs last fall, he realized that he had a man under him who might conspire, as Brutus did against Caesar, to get Roger's job. This idea of having a man around who might rise up and crowd him out had been impressed upon Bresnahan by having seen a lot of it already. He got right on the job in an effort to trade Sweeney to some other club.

Plays Trump Card.
At the several National League meetings during the winter, Sweeney was the trump card Bresnahan played whenever he tried to make a trade for new talent. Nobody seemed to want Sweeney, however. Bresnahan was determined to get rid of Bill and, in an effort to receive something in return for him, asked for waivers. He thought he at least could get the waiver price from somebody. But not one club would pay it. There was nothing left to do but keep Sweeney or release him unconditionally. Bresnahan chose the latter course. Let Roger deny it if he will, but it is certain that Sweeney's presence made him uneasy about his own position.

As soon as Sweeney became a free agent, Joseph J. Lannin, owner of the Red Sox, was advised to get in touch with him which he did, and the result was that Sweeney is now on the Boston American roster, listed as a second baseman. Bill Carrigan probably will arise to point out that it was himself and not Lannin that carried on the negotiations with Sweeney. That will be perfectly truthful, but it will not be denying that Lannin gave him the high sign to trail Sweeney and sign him at the best possible terms.

Red Sox Lost 1914 by Loafing.
The Red Sox, in the opinion of many experienced students of the game, should have won the American league pennant last year. They loafed about two-thirds of the time. Carrigan could not inject any spirit into the team, could not get the men to deliver their best goods. He lacked the necessary magnetism, or presence, to achieve 100 per cent of the possibilities of his players, or even anywhere near 100 per cent of them. Sweeney is of a type that, in the opinion of many, would stir up more ambition among the men if he were in charge of the team.

The Red Sox appear quite a bit stronger than any other team in the American league for the race that lies just ahead. They ought to begin to win a big majority of their games right from the jump-off. If they don't keep your weather eye peeled for the announcement of Carrigan's demotion and Bill Sweeney's elevation to the position as manager before many weeks have rolled by.

Ogden Savings Bank
234 & WASHINGTON AVE.

REMEMBER that every day counts in getting a good start on the road to success.

Begin now by starting an account with the Ogden Savings Bank.

WE PAY 4% COMPOUNDED QUARTLY

UTAH DEFEATS B. Y. U.'S. 38 TO 20

Crimson Squad Takes Lead From First Whistle and Blocks Champions to the End.

Salt Lake, March 13.—The Brigham Young university quintette was decisively defeated by the university five by a score of 38 to 20.

Although the title goes to the Provo aggregation as the result of its one-point victory over Utah on the B. Y. U. floor two weeks ago, the game last night was a back smearer on the record of the champions. Utah finished second in the race, another instance of the best team losing the flag.

In every department of basketball Utah was superior. The guarding in particular was some of the best that has been seen on a Utah floor this season. Beal and Knowlton repeatedly broke up the team work of the visitors as they went down the floor. Beal played a grand game, holding his man down, getting into the team work, blocking, passing and in fact everything that a guard should do.

From the first whistle Utah went into the lead. The Crimson squad which played the greater part of the game went after the Y players from the jump. With Beal and Clarke tossing in basket after basket, Utah soon had a healthy lead, while the attempt of Roberts' champions to get in the going was blocked. It was all Utah's game in the first period and the score at the end of the half stood 26 to 11.

When the second half opened Utah settled down to hold the advantage and it did. Although the scoring was 12 to 9 in the final period in favor of Utah, the state university crew was playing a solid, safe game and never in danger.

As the last period was about half over Roberts sent in McDonald, Eggertson and Woodbury. This was practically the same move he pulled off at Provo when the B. Y. U. took its spurt and the game two weeks ago. But this time it proved ineffectual.

Norgren left in his original line-up until about three minutes before the game ended. The Utah basketballers had lost their eyesight suddenly and were missing chance after chance from the field. In an attempt to break this luck the Utah mentor took out Clarke, Briggs and Knowlton and sent in Van Pelt, McIntyre and Romney. The new players guarded well, but were little better than the first crew in shooting baskets and the game came to a close with the ball under Utah's basket and the entire Crimson team trying to score the goal.

In the first half B. Y. U. scored but one field basket and had only a few more chances, so hard was the guarding. Utah hooked eleven field goals in the first period. In the final period both teams made three field goals each.

The game closed the season for the Utah college fives. The victory by such a heavy score was vindication of the Crimson and was far sweeter than had the Utah five won the title and the victory merely been a confirmation of the success of the team.

The lineup: Utah, Stead, McDonald, J. Udy, Chipman, Egerton, Clark, Polt, Luke, Egerton, Briggs, McIntyre, Hales, Woodbury, Knowlton, Romney, Taylor, McDonald, Udy, Chipman, Egerton, Clark, Polt, Luke, Egerton, Briggs, McIntyre, Hales, Woodbury, Knowlton, Romney, Taylor, McDonald, Udy, Chipman, Egerton, Clark, Polt, Luke, Egerton, Briggs, McIntyre, Hales, Woodbury, Knowlton, Romney.

Goals from field—McDonald 1, Chipman 2, Eggertson 1, Udy 6, Clarke 5, Briggs 2, Beal 1. Goals from foul—Chipman, 12 out of 25; Beal, 10 out of 15.

Referee—Watson. Umpire—Rose. Timekeeper—Summer.

FED FRANCHISE TO REMAIN IN NEWARK
New York, March 12.—The Federal baseball league franchise recently moved from Kansas City to Newark will stay in Newark. James A. Gilmore, president of the league, announced following a special meeting here today. All clubs in the league except St. Louis were represented. The case is now in the courts, where Kansas City representatives are seeking to enjoin the league from taking the club away. A decision is expected Monday in Chicago, but it was reported tonight the case would be settled out of court and Kansas City interests would be given $25,000, the amount the league received for transferring the franchise.

ARMY LIEUTENANT MAKES NEW MARK

Sau Diego, Cal., March 12.—What is said to be a new American endurance record for an aeroplane carrying passengers was established here today by Lieutenant Byron Q. Jones, U. S. A. With two corporals in his machine, the officer remained aloft seven hours and five minutes. The total distance covered was approximately 441 miles. An altitude of 5000 feet was attained.

UTAH COLLEGES FIX SCHEDULE

Spring Athletes to Start Training at Once for Big Battles.

Baseball Schedule.
May 3—B. Y. U. and U. A. C. at Logan.
May 7—U. of U. and U. A. C. at Logan.
May 13—B. Y. U. and U. of U. at Salt Lake.
May 17—U. A. C. and U. of U. at Salt Lake.
May 18—U. A. C. and B. Y. U. at Provo.
May 24—B. Y. U. and U. of U. at Provo.

Track Schedule.
May 1—U. A. C. and B. Y. U. at Provo.
May 8—U. A. C. and U. of U. at Logan.
May 15—State meet at Logan.
May 22—Rock Mountain Conference meet at Denver.
May 24—B. Y. C. and U. A. C. at Logan.

At a meeting of Coaches Roberts of the Brigham Young university of Provo, Norgren of the University of Utah at Salt Lake, Jensen of the Brigham Young college at Logan and Teetzel of the Utah Agricultural college at Logan, held yesterday afternoon at the Kanyon hotel, the above schedule for track and baseball was made out and the plans of the coaches now are to start their spring athletics at once for the big battles. Already the men at the Logan institutions and also at the state school have been working out every afternoon, and Coach Roberts will get his men out Monday if the weather permits on the B. Y. U. campus. All coaches are confident at this early date that they will have winners, and the baseball and track matches this season promise to furnish the lovers of these branches of the college sport some lively times. All four schools have old men back in the field, and the coaches are working hard to establish some new records this season.

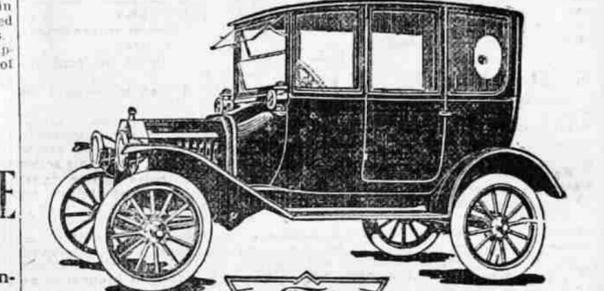

GEO. WINGFIELD BUYS A RACER

Nevada Solon to Enter Racing Field—Takes Options on Properties for Mile Track.

Juarez, Mexico, March 13.—The latest patron of the turf is George A. Wingfield and now that he can see horses race in his own state, Nevada, it is expected that he will invest even more heavily in thoroughbreds. Wingfield's recent purchase of Montgomery for his stud is the beginning of his career as a breeder. His friends say that soon he will become as great a figure as were Marcus

Daly and James B. Haggin. Like these two predecessors, Wingfield has his financial ability to enter the racing field on vast western mining interests. He bought large blocks of stock in the Mohawk mine for as low as 19 cents a share and sold it for $25,000. Then he invested in Montana and Tonopah mining shares, getting this stock for 3 and 4 cents per share and unloading it at $7 and $8. In fact, every investment that he made proved a bonanza, and before he was hardly known outside of Nevada he had become the richest man in that state. Wingfield spent his boyhood days in California, going to Nevada as a youth during the first gold excitement in that state. His friends say that he is now about 40 years old. There has been no regular racing in Nevada aside from the fair meetings since 1900, when a meeting was held at Reno under the rules governing the Pacific Coast Jockey club. Reno has a good mile track, but a new grand stand will have to be built, the old one having been destroyed by fire a year or so ago. Both Tonopah and Goldfield are good locations for mile tracks, and it is understood that Wingfield has secured options on these properties.

The Ford Sedan is high class in appearance and appointments. All the luxurious conveniences you desire in a family car. It carries five passengers comfortably. The seats are restful, and splendidly upholstered with cloth of the highest quality. Large doors give convenient entrance on either side. Plate glass windows give the qualifications of the closed limousine for inclement weather, and plenty of fresh air when open. With high quality in detail is economy in maintenance—less than 2c a mile. Ford Sedan $1050.00; Couplet $825.00; Touring Car $565.00 Runabout $515.00. All fully equipped, f. o. b. Ogden. On display and sale at James Auto Co. Buyers will share in profits if we sell at retail 300.000 new Ford cars between August 1914 and August 1915

Becker's Best

-the beverage that insures true temperance in the home

-order from your local dealer

Becker Brewing & Malting Co. OGDEN, UTAH