The majority of subscribers to the Standard desire that it shall not be discontinued when their subscriptions expire. This is the reason why, if you want the Standard discontinued to your address when the period for which payment is made has expired, you are asked to notify the publisher by card, letter or personally, or notify your mail carrier. It is as easy to stop the Standard as it is to start it, and the paper will not be sent longer than you pay for it. If it is your desire that it be discontinued and so notify the publisher. One subscriber gets angry if we stop his paper, while another gets angry if we keep on sending; the latter believes we want to force the paper on him. ## TRYING TO SAVE THEIR OWN NECKS.

In dealing with a newspaper lost to honor and shame, one feels more inclined to take a club than to resort to words, and it is with that thought in mind that we continue the consideration of the Examiner's outrageous lie in which the direct charge was made that the police records in 1911 were burned by "one of the higher ups." Our one regret is that there is not some speedy method by which the perpetrators of the false accusations could be brought before the pillory of public opinion and there exposed and punished. Men who will stoop to bearing false witness as the Examiner people did yesterday morning and, when driven into a corner, attempt to escape as they did this morning, because they have not the honor or the moral courage to acknowledge their culpability, are baseborn, low and criminal at heart.

And we will go further, and say that the men who are the owners of the paper and pretend to respectability in this community, have a duty to perform. They know their paper is being used as a medium of slander, without justification; they know the story of the burning of the police court records is a black falsehood, and they cannot stand by and disclaim responsibility, for they participate in this libel if they fail to demand of their creatures the retracting of the charge.

Ogden in the past has had all kinds of campaign sheets, employed to spread misstatements, but we recall nothing that equals the Morning Examiner in mendacity and villainy. There has not been one political article in this campaign by the Examiner that did not seem to openly boast of, and display a pride in, prevarication. The tone of the paper is that of a parvenu who, swaggering, wants to be known as a clever liar who can "put one over on the other feller, see!"

We are positive the Examiner's methods cannot win. We are convinced the people of Ogden will repudiate the paper and all that it stands for. No community can afford to nurture a viper of that kind. Men of strong convictions may differ and indulge in sharp comment, but the man of worth, of honor, of probity never stoops to besmirching another's character—even a political enemy—by becoming an Ananias.

This morning, to save itself from criminal libel, the Examiner made the following editorial reference to its own reports as to the burning of the police records:

"The Examiner did not, nor does it now, bring any charges against William Glasmann, who was mayor at that time; nor against Thomas E. Browning, who was chief of police. Neither has the Examiner charged that the records of the municipal court or other departments are missing. The Examiner has not accused Mr. Glasmann, Mr. Browning nor anyone else in authority at that time with ordering the records burned."

The entire article, as it appeared Monday morning, was filled with insinuations pointing directly at William Glasmann and Thomas E. Browning, and now comes this craven disavowal. The explanation is unnecessary. The accusations, as pointed out by The Standard yesterday, were so crude and bungling as to disprove themselves.

To in part justify its untruths, the Examiner in the same editorial, says:

"Records of original entry are missing. That much the Examiner charged and the charge is repeated. These records are the most important in a case of any kept in the police station, for they show the first transactions between the officers of the law and the persons arrested."

In the news department of the paper the reference is to police department slips or pieces of paper on which the desk sergeants make memoranda to be permanently transcribed into books kept for that purpose.

Does any intelligent reader accept as true the statement that slips of paper, not even in book form, constitute the most important records in the police department? A school child would ask, "Why, if those slips are so important, are they not in record form, well bound and protected to endure the decay of time?" As a matter of fact, those slips are transcribed into books of record kept for the purpose and, any one familiar with police affairs, will tell you that after the slips are thus transcribed, as they are each day, they have no value whatever as part of the police records and should be treated as waste paper. The imperishable records of all police affairs are kept in the vaults of the municipal judge, and they tell the whole story of arrests, fines, forfeitures, bail money, etc., and those records for 1911 are to be found today in the keeping of Judge W. H. Reeder.

The Examiner's article on Monday said "books" and records of the police department for 1911 were burned. The Examiner's editorial of today is a confession that there were no "books" burned and thus it admits that its entire slander was without a scintilla of truth.

There should be a grand jury called to not only inquire into police affairs, particularly the police department of today, but to bring the outlaws on The Examiner to an accounting before the bar of justice.

A REAL POLICE SCANDAL.

Editor Standard: I notice that the corporation sheet is very anxious to have an investigation made of the Police Department. It suggests that a grand jury be impaneled. I second the motion. Since my return from Nebraska I have heard enough to convince me that the entire city administration will be indicted by the grand jury if one is called. The stench going up from the road travelled by some of the "higher ups" in the Police Department smells to high heaven, and, if a grand jury is impaneled—which I hope will be done immediately—

I Wonder:
If the Chief of Police, W. L. Norton, will willingly testify that he used the police patrol wagon to ship hogs to his ranch in Box Elder County, and

I Wonder:
If he would testify that his hogs are Durock Jersey or plain Poland China, and

I Wonder:
If the Chief of Police, or his superior, T. Sam Browning, will testify that a touring car has been purchased for the Police Department and that they have the word "Police Department" branded on the hood of the car, and that they have a black cover made to cover the words "Police Department" so that when the chief takes his family out riding at the city's expense, no one will know that it is the police department that is taking the family on a junketing trip, and

I Wonder:
If the people really know that Chief Norton, who was receiving $150 per month, resigned his office for one day and that A. G. Fell and T. Sam Browning raised his salary to $200 and the next day reappointed him in order to beat the devil about the bush and evade the law. The spirit of the law is that no officer shall have his salary increased during the time for which he is elected and appointed, and, of course, if the chief resigned for one day and was reappointed for a new term the law was not violated, and

I Wonder:
If the people think that the increase in his salary to $200 was not sufficient, without a touring car purchased by the city with a cover placed over the police department sign in order to hide from the voter the fact that the chief was using city gasoline and wearing out the city's auto taking his family and friends riding, and

I Wonder:
If the people know that Chief Norton quite frequently visits his ranch in Box Elder County and stays away a number of days, and

I Wonder:
If the taxpayers feel that the chief's salary ought to go along just the same, whether he is here or not, but that the salary of the young lady stenographer working for $2 per day should be "doctored" during absence while attending the funeral of a sister. Still Mr. Standard Editor I have the honor to subscribe myself,

Very respectfully yours, (Signed) I WONDER.

HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL TEAM READY FOR THE SEASON

With but four days to pass until the opening of the Utah State high school football league season, the students of the Ogden high school are becoming worked up to a high degree of enthusiasm over the chances of the Orange and Black eleven winning over the Jordan high school boys in the first game. This contest will be played at Glenwood park, next Saturday, and, according to Athletic Manager Trip, virtually every student of the local school will be on the ground to encourage the players. A good sized crowd of "rooters" is also expected to accompany the Jordan team to Ogden, so from all prospects the Saturday contest promises to be interesting.

The Ogden high school squad was strengthened yesterday by the appearance of Lee Treseder, a former student of the school. He is a big, rangy youth and showed up well at the end in the scrimmage last night. Although there was considerable disappointment among the football players over the inability to secure a game with an outside team before the opening of the season, the Orange and Black second team had proved strong enough to give the first eleven some hard workouts.

The schedule for the season has been announced as follows:
October 16—Jordan vs. Ogden at Ogden, West Side vs. Granite at Salt Lake City.
October 23—Granite vs. East at Granite, Jordan vs. West at Jordan.
October 30—Ogden vs. East at Salt Lake City.
November 6—East vs. West at Salt Lake, Granite vs. Ogden at Ogden.
November 13—Granite vs. Jordan at Jordan.
November 20—East vs. Jordan at Salt Lake, West vs. Ogden at Ogden.

PAUL ARMSTRONG COMPANY ARRIVES

Members of the company that will present the Paul Armstrong play, "To Save One Girl," at the Alhambra-Orpheum, with the regular Orpheum bill commencing Thursday matinee, arrived in Ogden yesterday. Their appearance in this city represents their only stop on a transcontinental journey from New York to San Francisco, where they are to play an special engagement at the Orpheum theatre there.

Heading the company is the distinguished actor, Ernest Strong, said to be one of the most forceful of the young generations of American actors. Playing opposite him is Miss Madeline Delmar, a gifted ingenue who has interpreted her role in this playlet for several seasons.

There are nine members of the company, the playlet being a depiction of real life in the city as it confronts the girl who is forced to make her own living, depending for the courtesies of life from the men she comes into contact with. It is said to be one of the strongest vaudeville plays ever produced and should be one of the sensations of the Alhambra-Orpheum season.

The vaudeville company which will present the third week's Orpheum bill at the Alhambra is one of the largest companies touring the circuit. Including the ladies and gentlemen in the headline act, the Armstrong play, there are twenty-seven performers on the bill. Many of these performers have international reputation, the program being one of the cosmopolitan vaudeville aggregations for which the Orpheum circuit is notable. Paul Armstrong, the author of the play, "To Save One Girl," also was the author of the famous pictures, "The Escape." —(Advertisement).

"Neal of the Navy," at the Lyceum today and tomorrow, also Chas. Chaplin in "Work."

"To Save One Girl," by Paul Armstrong, the author of "The Escape," is acted by seven on the Orpheum circuit at the Alhambra-Orpheum this week.

NO ACTION IN VON PAPAN CASE

Officials Unable to Decipher Messages—Letters Thus Far Not Sufficient to Require Recall.

Washington, Oct. 12.—Indications today from state department officials are that no action was likely in the case of Captain von Papan, the German military attaché here, who entrusted to James Archibald communications to his government along with those which caused the recall of Dr. Constantin Dumba, the Austrian minister.

It was learned that officials had been unable to decipher von Papan's messages, and it was inferred that no attention was paid to his letter to his wife in which the phrase, "Idiot Yankee" was used. Officials would not say whether the other letters he had written were sufficient to require his recall, but the intimation was that although the examination had not been completed, no such action was contemplated.

"Think of the all the luxuries a millionaire husband like me could give you," said a septuagenarian millionaire to a summer girl on a white beach, and he took her hand in the moonlight.

But the summer girl, drawing her hand away, responded:
"A millionaire father would do just as well. Marry mother, won't you? That's a dear."
