WOMAN SHOTS A MAN WHO ATTEMPTS TO ENTER HER HOME

While attempting to force his way into the home of Mrs. Annie M. Taylor on Pacific avenue, near Twenty-eighth street, about midnight last night, Charles Eddy, a local resident well known in police circles, was shot by Mrs. Taylor, both bullets entering the left leg above the knee. Following the shooting, Eddy, who is said to have been intoxicated, made his way to his own home about a block distant and nothing was learned of the affair by the police until today, neither of the principals desiring to make it known.

Persons who heard the shooting, however, informed the police department this morning and an investigation was made by Detectives Charles Pincock and George Wardlaw. Eddy was found at his home, suffering severe pain from his two wounds, which were made with bullets from a .32 calibre revolver. Aside from saying that he was intoxicated last night and did not know much about the manner in which he was wounded, he would make no statement. Mrs. Taylor, when interviewed by the officers, explained that a man had requested admittance to her home and, upon being refused, started to force his way in. Fearing for her safety and that of her children, she shot him. No arrests were made.

CHILDREN ARE CAUGHT TAKING LETTERS FROM BOX

Putting aside his role of special traffic officer and taking up that of detective for several hours a day for the past three days, Officer William Reast of the local police department solved a mystery that had been puzzling the Ogden postoffice authorities several weeks past. The mystery concerned the disappearance of mail from residence mail boxes in the north part of the city. It was solved when Officer Reast obtained a confession from Allen and Glen Thorsted, aged 6 and 4 years respectively, who admitted that they had pilfered several of the mail boxes and had torn up some of the letters. The little ones thought they were playing a great trick.

According to Assistant Postmaster Rufus A. Garner, who, with Postmaster W. W. Browning, accompanied Officer Reast to the home of the Thorsted boys, complaints had been received at the postoffice a number of days past on the non-deliveries of expected mail. In connection with these, several letters from outside cities that had previously passed through the local office, were found in the mail collected by the carriers, indicating that someone had removed them from the house boxes after they had been delivered and then re-mailed them.

The postoffice authorities called upon Chief of Police W. I. Norton for assistance in locating the pilferers and Officer Reast was put on the job. By questioning a number of small boys in the locality where the trouble existed, Reast got on the trail of the two children and a part of the trouble at least was accounted for. From the Thorsted boys, these were taken in charge by Assistant Postmaster Garner.

The district postoffice inspector has been communicated with and what action will be taken is not known as yet. It may be that the offense, because of the age of the children, will be classed as simply an act of mischief.

SALT LAKE MAN HERE TO IDENTIFY THE REMAINS

Learning of the discovery of a skeleton in the mountains a few miles east of North Ogden, W. F. Ungrecht and his son Daniel of Salt Lake came to Ogden today to examine the body with the view of determining whether it was that of a son and brother, Orson Ungrecht, who left home for Ogden about seven months ago and had not been heard of.

The father said that when his son Orson left home a few months ago, he was going on a prospecting trip in the mountains near Ogden, and that no word had been received from him since that time. The skeleton corresponds with the stature of the son and the father at the impression that it was his boy's remains. A careful inspection of the skeleton, however, convinced Mr. Ungrecht that it is not his son. The teeth contain gold filling in front and there are also a number of false teeth, and Mr. Ungrecht says his son had no false teeth and no gold filling in the front teeth. The stature and color of the hair, however, corresponded with that of his son. The son was 27 years old, 5 feet 6 inches tall and dark complexioned. The father is anxious to learn of his son's whereabouts.

SATURDAY EVENING POST SENDS MAN TO OGDEN

That Ogden and neighborhood, through its farm products and one of its newest industries, is to receive wide publicity in the columns of the Saturday Evening Post, was an announcement made today from the office of the Ogden Publicity Bureau at the Weber club. The announcement followed the arrival in the city of James H. Collins, one of the prominent writers of the Saturday Evening Post, who passed the major part of the day in securing data for a story on the Everfresh Food Products company's local factory and on the farm products in this locality.

He was taken through the factory by Director Norton of the company this morning, making a thorough inspection and securing exhaustive information with regard to its establishment, aims and manufacturing processes. He was also given a good idea of the big field here for the furnishing of raw farm products for home manufacture and for outside markets.

At noon, the visitor was a guest of the Ogden Publicity Bureau at a Weber club luncheon, at which the Everfresh Food Products were served. In conversation with the local people, Mr. Collins expressed himself as surprised and much pleased with the quality of the food products and with Ogden as the center of such a prosperous farming country. This afternoon he is enjoying an automobile ride through Ogden canyon and into Ogden valley as a guest of Director C. A. Wright and Secretary J. D. Larson of the Ogden Publicity Bureau.
