ALONE IN A CROWD.
Cora Temple reached New York tired in body and mind. As she stepped into the vast, blue-voiced terminal a sort of comfort stole over her. The familiar place seemed to say "Welcome home, child. Lose your self in the heedless crowds. Stop vexing your mind with problems that solve themselves better than you can solve them. Find rest in impersonal things. Pick up old friendships among the humbler folk whose lives are complicated with wealth and social ambition. Throw off responsibility. Cease your eternal effort."
Her heart felt lighter. A sense of freedom came over her as if she were a girl again and there was no David and no Wanda Laurence in the world. A girl was telephoning in a booth that reminded Cora to call up her cousin Beth Wonderford. But she felt disinterested for Beth's company. For any company she wanted the luxury of being alone. She had been so much with people and spectacles and duties and the ghosts of troubles she had thought long since laid.

She checked her bag and walked out of the great station and westward along Forty-second street. It was a joy to look once more into the face of the throng, into the windows of shops, up at the tall buildings, into the bright blue sky.
A fashionable woman passed in an automobile. She reminded Cora of Wanda, and a stab of pain shot through her. What was Wanda doing she wondered? What was David saying to her? What was she replying? Were they working and planning together in preparation for the pageant? Of course they were. And forgetting everything but their little world and themselves! Forgetting her! Or, worse still, thinking of her with gladness that she had gone! Were they really in love with each other—perhaps? Wishing she were out of the way.

Oh, the torture of thinking! If she could only forget even for a little while.
Cora found herself at Fifth avenue and climbed to the top of a big green bus. The people, the throbbing life with its apparent indifference to the individual, the sunshine and ever-changing panorama, diverted her thoughts.

But suddenly she looked up to see they were passing the handsome apartment house where Wanda Laurence made her home. The mental turmoil returned with a rush. Round and round again went her thoughts, visions of David and Wanda with love in their eyes love on their lips perhaps!

The fact that she was doing the right thing, the wise and dignified thing, was small comfort to Cora.

"How easy it is to tell a wife in my position not to care to hold up her head and snap her fingers in the foolish husband's face," she thought grimly. "Theoretically, I am free to air. Actually, I am David's prisoner. For I love him. And if I run away a million miles I am still with him, just as I am now, in the midst of this faraway crowd!"

Suddenly into her sick and weary mind flashed a vision of David with Wanda Laurence in her arms. Cora's throat contracted. Her head swam. She signaled the bus to stop and climbed down to the pavement.
"I guess I'll go to Beth's," she thought tremulously. "I feel so terribly alone."

BUNNY SLIPPERS FOR CHILDREN
Bunny slippers for children are juvenile delights, as well as objects of utility. To make them, take felt of white elastic flannel and the ordinary slipper sole used for the conical slippers. Cut the material in the shape and size of the sole. Make two cuts of the cloth and attach just at the front, two to each slipper, so that the ears stand up like those of a real rabbit. Embroider eyes, mouth and nose on the point of each slipper, and add a bit of white down or imitation fur at the back for the rabbit's tail.

STRIPED SCARFS FOR SPORT WEAR.
Broad scarfs and sashes of striped ribbed silk, with knotted and fringed ends are the vogue of additions to the white outfit skirt and shirtwaist. These lengths of pliable silk have the stripes running lengthwise in inch bands of alternating blue and white, red and white, green and white, and brown and yellow. Some have irregular Roman stripes on a cream ground or a black ground. The same scarf, in shorter length and a little narrower, comes for draping the evening hat.

WHEN DOORKNOBS ARE CLEANED.
When doorknobs are about to be washed, take a piece of pastebard or eight inches square, cut a small hole in the center with slits or "notch" sides of the hole, slip it over the knob and the cleaning mixture will be entirely shut away from the surrounding paint.

POTATO AND NUT CROQUETS.
Two cups hold mashed potatoes, two cup bread crumbs, one-quarter cup onion, one-half cup hot meat sauce, one egg. Cook the crumbs, onion and egg until thick, add to potatoes, then add nuts. Shape into croquets. Fry in deep lard.

ADVENTISTS MAKE A GOOD SHOWING
The money paid by the Seventh-Day Adventists into a fund to be used for missionary purposes amounted to seventeen millions of dollars from church members in North America during the last year, according to the annual report of the statistical secretary, H. A. Rogers of Washington, D. C. The report has just been received in Ogden by Evangelist M. A. Hollister of the local church, and handed to the papers.

During 1915 the members of the Adventists church in North America gave $2,542,682.99 for various church enterprises, a gain of $213,931.11 over 1914.

The religious statistics compiled for the Layman's Missionary convention held in Los Angeles March 1st, show that in California Seventh-Day Adventists led all other Protestant denominations in per capita contributions in 1915, the amount being an average of $30.61 for the year for every member in the state.

Adventists throughout world gave during the nine years from 1906 to 1914 $26,100,550, and the sum contributed in North America last year would raise this to $22,643,236, and the total contribution of the last decade will be still further increased when all the returns are in from foreign fields. These are not yet available, as war conditions cause some delay in making complete compilations for the entire world.

Secretary Rogers' report shows that the fifth, or tenth of the income, paid by the church members of North America in 1915 amounted to $1,337,810.20, and that the offerings for foreign missions, known as the 20-cent-a-week fund, total $2,477,711. More than 5,000 new members were added to the Adventist churches in America last year.

WALKER FUNERAL IN SALT LAKE CITY
Salt Lake, Aug. 2.—Hundreds of Salt Lake's well-known citizens from many walks of life gathered at the First Congregational church yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock to pay their tribute of respect and affection to Matthew Henry Walker, prominent banker, capitalist, business and mining man, who died Friday midnight at his home on East South Temple street. The preponderance of those who have passed the summit of the hill of life's highway was a mute yet eloquent tribute, the esteem in which Mr. Walker was held by those who had known him for more than two score years.

So profuse and elaborate were the floral offerings that it would be difficult to convey in brief space an idea of their lavishness and beauty. The choir railing, the tables, were insufficient to contain the many offerings, which included many beautiful set pieces, and one large automobile was of sufficient capacity to convey the flowers to the family plot in Mount Olivet cemetery, where the interment was private.

The lower floor of the auditorium was filled at the hour set for the beginning of the services. Professor John J. McClellan was at the organ, and, as the friends of Mr. Walker assembled, played with fine expression several appropriate numbers, opening with Handel's "Largo," and concluding with the Baritone, "Communion," all being favorites of Mr. Walker.

The Rev. Dr. T. C. Hiff of Deaver, who came from his present home to conduct the services because he was an old-time friend of Mr. Walker and for many years a resident of Salt Lake, read the Ninety-first psalm, an undying expression of confidence in God's goodness and protection. He also read the thirteenth chapter of First Corinthians, the immortal tribute to the greatness of "charity." He then offered a brief and fervent prayer.

Becker's Best

"Better by test than all the rest"

"Say man, here's the real drink for these hot days—puts you on your feet again—makes you forget the blazing sun and the blistering sidewalks—it's the real refreshment." And in the home—it's good for them all! It's a true pure food home beverage.

WOMAN GIVEN TWO DAYS

To Make Up Her Mind for Surgical Operation. She Refused; Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Philadelphia, Pa.—"One year ago I was very sick and I suffered with pains in my side and back until I nearly went crazy. I went to different doctors and they all said I had female trouble and would not get any relief until I would be operated on. I had suffered for four years before this time, but I kept getting worse the more medicine I took. Every month since I was a young girl I had suffered with cramps in my sides and periods was never regular. I saw your advertisement in the newspaper and the picture of a woman who had been saved from an operation and this picture was impressed on my mind. The doctor had given me only two more days to make up my mind so I sent my husband to the drug store at once for a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and believe me, I only took four doses before I felt a change and when I had finished the third bottle I was cured and never felt better. I grant you the privilege to publish my letter and am only too glad to let other women know of my cure."—Mrs. THOS. MCGONIGAL, 3432 Hartville Street, Phila., Pa.

THURSTON FERGUSON IS DROWNED IN LAKE
Salt Lake, Aug. 2.—Word was received in this city last night that Thurston Ferguson, 29 years of age, was drowned while bathing at Lake Shore, on Utah lake, at 7 o'clock in the evening.

It appears that Mr. Ferguson took two of his young brothers out in a boat intending to take a bath while the boys enjoyed the boat ride. When a considerable distance from the shore, Mr. Ferguson dove into the water and did not reappear. The boys waited a long time, rowing about in an effort to locate their elder brother, but their work was fruitless.

Coming back to Lake Shore, they reported the drowning, and immediately officers at Spanish Fork and Provo were apprised of the accident. A party of men immediately went out to search for the body, but a high wind sprang up and darkness set in and the searchers were obliged to give up their task until today.

Mr. Ferguson was an employee of the new sugar factory at Spanish Fork. Officers were detailed by Sheriff Henry East at Provo to aid the Spanish Fork searchers this morning in an effort to recover the body.

MARIAN COLE FISHER

MARIAN COLE FISHER

A National Authority on the Subject of PURE FOODS and the ART OF COOKING.

In an interview on baking powder, Marian Cole Fisher, Chautauqua lecturer and at that time special chairman of the Saint Paul Housewives League and an active member, stated as follows:
"And many, in fact, very many, women woefully uninformed on the subject of baking powder. Evidently the housewife does not appreciate the value of baking powder in her kitchen and in her baking, or she would have informed herself. This is a subject that is quite important."
"A great many of the housewives today have followed their mothers or grandmothers in the use of baking powder, which in some instances is a mistake. There has been just as much improvement in baking powder as in other commodities. I am glad to find that baking powder has kept up with the times."
"Some housewives have been led to believe that the cream of tartar powder are the best goods to use. This is a mistake, resulting no doubt from the constant efforts of the Twenty Million Dollar Baking Powder Trust to create a prejudice against all goods save their own. Their goods should be least desirable on account of the large quantities of Rochelle Salts remaining in the food."
"The other extreme is the cheap and 'Big Can' baking powders, which sell all the way from ten cents a pound to a cent an ounce. These are even less desirable than the high-priced goods. I can say nothing in their favor. They are never economical; frequently leaving the baking bleached and acid; sometimes yellow and alkaline, and often unpalatable. They are not dependable and represent false economy at any price."
"The most simple way for the housewife to class baking powder is by price. The trust goods that retail for 45c or 50c a pound are usually the cream of tartar powders, and are of the old kind that sell all the way from 10c a pound, up to a cent an ounce should also be avoided."
"The last word in baking powder is the happy medium, a combination powder that sells at a moderate price and when properly prepared gives the consumer full value for the money. The result in baking is pure, wholesome food, without any harmful residue. There is no reason why any housewife should pay 45c or 50c per pound. The best baking powder made can be manufactured so as to retail at about 1/2 this price."
On being asked what baking powder she used in her work, Marian Cole Fisher frankly stated that for more than seven years she had used Calumet Baking Powder with the most satisfactory results in every particular.
