ITALIANS ARE WELL PLEASED

Late Victory Has Caused Great Confidence in the Italian Army.

Rome, Nov. 6.—Repulsing Austrian counter attacks with the bayonet, the Italians have further advanced and straightened out their lines on the Carso plateau, opening the way for a new blow, according to an official statement issued today by the war office.

The new successes of General Cadorna's armies have created the most favorable impression here and fresh triumphs are confidently expected.

The Italians are now reaching the heart of the defensive works which have been in the building for months. Trieste, the great Adriatic commercial port, is little more than twelve miles away from the Italian advanced front.

The latest offensive of General Cadorna is taking its natural course. Following his notable gains of last week there has been a temporary lull while the conquered ground is consolidated and the artillery brought up to again blast a path for the infantry.

Already the Italian guns are bombarding the works at Castagnavizza. The Austrian counter attacks which were delivered in the direction of Luratic are said in dispatches from the front to have cost the attacking troops heavy losses.

Today's official statement indicates that the Austrians are bringing up large numbers of reinforcements. Especially active, it is stated, has been observed on the Trieste-Opicina railway line.

View of Military Critic.

The state of mind of the Italian public is well reflected in one article printed today in the Tribuna and written by General Corsi, the military critic of that newspaper. It says:

"General Cadorna's new offensive shows first, method; second, determination, and third, that the Austrians are no longer able to resist our advance."

"Our confidence in General Cadorna grows with each drive forward. For almost a year he has not lost a foot of conquered ground."

"Naturally, up to date our troops have dealt only with the enemy's advanced lines. The hard work begins now."

"We have the tactical advantage and the initiative is in our hands. The enemy is now obliged to accept battle whenever and wherever we want."

"The initiative also proves our superiority in man power and perhaps in artillery. The number of prisoners taken is most remarkable, as the front is short and the Austrian defense was built in a way to permit of hasty retreat. The number of prisoners also shows the aggressive spirit of the Austrian troops is weakening while ours is increasing after every fresh victory."

DEPUTY SHERIFF DIES OF WOUND

Was Member of Posse Battling With I. W. W. at Everett City Wharf.

SHOT THROUGH CHEST

Others Seriously Injured and May Die—Seven Already Dead.

Everett, Wash., Nov. 6.—Jefferson M. Board, former sheriff of Snohomish county and a deputy sheriff in the posse which battled with Industrial Workers of the World at the Everett city wharf yesterday afternoon, died today. He was the seventh man to lose his life on account of the Industrial Workers' effort to enforce in Everett what they term "the right of free speech." Board was shot in the chest.

E. O. Baehner, engineer at the Everett high school, who was shot in the chest, is likely to die, physicians say. He was a member of the citizens' posse into which members of the Industrial Workers fired from the steamer Verona, which had brought them from Seattle.

Athol Gorrell of Spokane, student of the University of Washington who was visiting in Everett and was on the wharf, was shot through the leg and chest, and is in a dangerous condition; as also is Harry Blackburn, who was shot in the chest.

Mayor D. D. Merrill has issued the following statement:

"Two months ago the Industrial Workers of the World commenced to hold meetings in this city, during which time, they expressed sympathy for the striking shingle weavers, and these talks were mild at first, but they soon began to vilify public officials, and became very radical in their utterances. I then gave orders that any such speakers be informed that such language would not be countenanced and on their persisting, ordered the arrest of several of them. I informed them that such inflammatory utterances would not be permitted and told these persons to leave the city and not come back."

Warnings Not Heeded.

"They paid no heed to these warnings and instead uttered threats and sent both Sheriff McLean and myself warning letters through the letters. Drastic action was necessary and we made more arrests and escorted some of them out of town, when one night, following a street meeting of the Industrial Workers, eight workmen were set upon and beaten severely by Industrial Workers. Several street riots followed and Sheriff McLean then met with the Commercial club and the proposition of organized resistance on the part of the citizens was taken up and adopted. Three hundred special deputized officials were organized and these formed a part of the body which met the steamer yesterday."

I. W. W. Members Persecuted.

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 6.—Jonathan Marber, secretary-treasurer of the Seattle branch of the Seattle Industrial Workers of the World, says that the members of his order are contending for the right of free speech, and that members of the organization had been persecuted in Everett since the time of the Shingle Weaver's strike last spring.

James B. Thompson, national organizer of the Industrial Workers, and the authorized spokesman of the headquarters, left Seattle ten days ago and is supposed to be on his way to general headquarters at Chicago. He is a close friend of the general secretary-treasurer of the order, William B. Hayward and was associated with Hayward in the great Lawrence strike a few years ago.

MURDER CHARGES ARE TO BE PLACED

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 6.—Announcement by Prosecuting Attorney O. T. Webb of Snohomish county, that charges of murder would be filed against all members of the Industrial Workers of the World who could be identified as actually having participated in the gun fight at Everett, Wash., yesterday, marked today's developments in Seattle in the aftermath of the riot at Everett yesterday in which seven men were killed and 50 wounded.

The refusal of Judge King Dykeman in the superior court here, to issue writs of habeas corpus for three women held in jail charged with rioting, and the statement of Herbert Mahler, secretary-treasurer of the Industrial Workers of the World, that his organization would seek to prosecute members of the Everett citizens' committee on murder charges, were other incidents of the shooting aftermath that focused public attention.

Local counsel for the I. W. W. asked Judge Dykema for release on a writ of habeas corpus for Mrs. Lorna Mahler, wife of Secretary Mahler, Mrs. Edith F. Renette and Mrs. Joyce Peters, who were arrested here last night upon their return from Everett. The women are held in the city jail without formal charge, pending further investigation of their activity by the Snohomish county authorities.

Judge Dykeman, however, ordered that the Seattle police produce them in court Wednesday morning and meanwhile see that they are not removed from Seattle. He said he

CIVIL SERVICE FOR POSTMASTERS

President Wilson Writes Letter Favoring Competitive Examination for All Classes.

WOULD ENACT LAW

Recommendations of Postmaster General Meets Hearty Approval—Chance for Promotions.

New York, Nov. 6.—President Wilson declared favoring legislation providing for the appointment of postmasters of all classes through competitive civil service examination, in a letter to the National Civil Service Reform league, which was made public last week. Last week Charles E. Hughes, Republican nominee for president, endorsed such legislation. The president's letter follows:

"I wish to state that the postmaster general in his annual report for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1914, recommended to congress the enactment of legislation which would permit of the extension of the classified civil service so as to include the postmasters at all offices of the third class. The following year he not only renewed this recommendation but asked that the position of postmaster at offices of the second class be included as well, but no action has ever been taken."

MARTIN APPEAL IS BEFORE COURT

Salt Lake, Nov. 7.—Arguments on appeal were heard yesterday by the supreme court of Utah, in adjourned session, in the case of the state of Utah against Joseph Henry Martin, the Ogden blackmailer, who was convicted of robbery and sentenced to life imprisonment. After the arguments were made, the case was submitted.

The case is that in which Martin, who terrorized Ogden for weeks with blackhand letters demanding sums of money from the Eccles family and from other wealthy Ogden people, was convicted of entering the room of and robbing Mrs. McClaren Boyle of her rings and jewelry while she slept.

Briefs on the evidence in the case have been submitted by both sides, and the legal technicalities of procedure were argued to the court yesterday by Attorneys J. G. Willis and David Stine for Martin, while arguments for the state were made by the attorney general, A. R. Barnes.

Martin was convicted of assault with a deadly weapon in another case growing out of an attempt to blackmail Mrs. David Eccles out of $1000 in gold, and is serving a three-year term in the state prison on this charge. He was then charged with robbery for stealing the jewelry of Mrs. Boyle, and on this charge was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment as an habitual criminal. It is this case that has been carried to the supreme court on appeal and which was argued to the court yesterday.

The court also heard arguments in the case of the state against L. A. Williams, convicted in Millard county of grand larceny for the theft of two horses. His case was submitted.

The case of the state against Joseph Grissolio, convicted of a statutory offense in salt lake county, was also argued and submitted.

The cases heard by the court yesterday were scheduled to have been heard on the opening day of the October term of court, but were continued at that time until the end of the term.

TUMULTY HAS CONFIDENCE

Long Branch, N. J., Nov. 6.—After going over with President Wilson optimistic messages from all parts of the country, Secretary Tumulty yesterday claimed the president would win tomorrow's election and would have 387 votes in the electoral college. He did not give a list of the states on which he based his prediction.

The president spent the day quietly at Shadow Lawn, going out for a short time for a golf and receiving a delegation for a few minutes in the afternoon. To those who saw him he expressed complete satisfaction over the prospects for tomorrow's voting.

The president will be up soon after daybreak tomorrow morning to go to Princeton to vote. He will make the trip by automobile, accompanied by Mrs. Wilson, and expects to be back at Shadow Lawn in time for luncheon. In the afternoon he will play golf. In Princeton he will cast his ballot in an old fire engine house and may spend a few minutes visiting old friends.

Messages from Democratic leaders in virtually every state were received by the president today and tonight, predicting victory for him tomorrow.

Since coming to this country her life was spent at Centerville, where she was well and favorably known.

Mrs. Dewel is survived by an adopted son, Joseph E. Williams of Centerville; a sister, Elizabeth J. Wright of Coalville, and a number of nephews and nieces.

MOTHER LOVE AIDS SON IN TRENCHES

It Brings Relief To Boy Standing His Watch Deep in Mud.

Once upon a time, only a few months after this terrible world war had begun, Private Bailey, a soldier in the ranks, had stood for days in the trenches "somewhere in France." The cold rain soaked him to the skin; the mud was deep. He had had no rest. Worn and aching, with rheumatic pains, he recalled the faith his mother had in Sloan's Liniment. He asked for it in his next letter home. A large bottle was immediately sent him and a few applications killed the pain, once more he was able to stand the severe exposure. He shared this wonderful muscle-soother with his comrades, and they all agreed it was the greatest "reinforcement" they had ever come to their rescue. At your druggist, 25c, 50c and $1.00 a bottle.

Do the people understand that net proceeds of mines are the net incomes from mines?

What other industry of the state besides mining has as a basis of taxation the net proceeds of the business?

Would not the farmer like to pay taxes only on his net income? If this were the basis he would pay less than one-fifth of the taxes he is now required to pay.

The last year has seen valuations of nearly all property assessed at about double what it was assessed at heretofore; in consequence the tax levies have been reduced about half so that the amount of taxes required to be paid is but little if any more than formerly; this is true of all property assessed in the state except mining. Under the constitution as it is now, it is impossible to increase the assessed valuation of the net proceeds of mines hence the mining industry is paying this year but about half as much taxes as heretofore, formerly the mines did not pay a just proportion of the revenues of the state.

If mining companies were assessed for the amount for which their property would sell or as near to it as are other companies and individuals they would pay five or six times the taxes they do now.

The total assessed value of mining claims and mining companies in Utah for the year 1914 was $5,122,235; the value of the net proceeds of mines for the same year was $9,649,932, making a total assessment on the mining industry of the state of $14,772,167, for the said year. The mining industry of the state of Utah produces half as much wealth as all other industries of the state combined and in the year 1914 paid but about one-fifteenth of the revenues of the state that was derived from taxation.

The market value of the stock of one mining company alone is more than five times the assessed value of the whole industry of the state.

The amendment is a step in the right direction but if the mining industry were required to contribute its just proportion of the revenues of the state, instead of multiplying the net proceeds by three it would be nearer right to multiply the net proceeds by ten to arrive at the valuation on which to levy taxes. Do you wonder that nearly all the papers of the state are carrying large type ads, and many if not all the women voters are receiving circulars in the mails appealing to the prejudices of the people to defeat the amendment which if it carries will increase the taxes of the mining companies double, which will then be less than half what they ought to be. The present system of taxing the greatest wealth producing industry of our state is so faulty and the present proposed amendment goes such a short way towards adjusting the abuse that if I thought it would be accomplished I would advocate asking our next legislature to pass another resolution for a more just amendment of the constitution regarding taxation, and call a special election to vote on same next June. I hope that in the event the amendment is defeated the question of taxation will receive consideration by the next legislature.

It is the opinion of the writer that a great deal of wealth escapes taxation and that net incomes should be the basis of taxation of certain kinds of wealth if not the basis on which all revenues should be raised. There are people in our state who pay more taxes to the federal government than to our state.

Votes "Yes" on the amendment it is an improvement over what we now have and is a step in the right direction. (Signed) Joseph Hodges, Logan, Utah.

OBSERVATIONS ON TAX AMENDMENT

Editor Standard: The proposed amendment of Article 13 of the constitution of the state of Utah, is receiving very great attention just now by those most interested, and affected thereby, the mining interests. I am told, and from what I have seen, believe that those interested in the mining industry have put up several thousand dollars to defeat the amendment.

I believe that the people should be informed as to the reasons for the amendment and that information relating to present conditions should be given the people in such a way as to receive attention; therefore I venture to offer a few observations. Why the concern of the mining interests? Is it because they are really seeking to protect and serve the taxpayers by accomplishing the defeat of a measure that the representatives of the people have submitted for their approval? Let us consider a few reasons and facts.

The proposed amendment has been considered pro and con by the state legislature, both in the house of representatives and senate concurring therein. Two-thirds and over of a body of 65 men chosen by the people to make laws for them have, after careful consideration, concluded that the amendment is for the best interests of the people of the state. This fact alone is reason enough, that, before voting against the amendment, the matter should be given most careful consideration and, unless such consideration is given, it is far safer to depend upon the judgment of the people's representatives than it is to harken to the criticism and fault-finding of the representatives of the millionaire mine owners, who, because the amendment provides that they shall bear a more just proportion of the burden of taxation, are making a vigorous campaign against it, and, if by appealing to the prejudices of the people against high taxes and they can persuade and hoodwink the voter to believe the state board whose duty it is to supervise the equalizing of the assessments and the taxes on property is merely seeking more power to raise taxes and can thus accomplish the defeat of the amendment, the mining industry will escape the payment of the major portion of the taxes they should, in justice, pay, if the mines are to bear their proportion of the burden of taxation.

Here are a few reasons why the amendment should be adopted:

The amendment, notwithstanding the opposition advertised by the mining interests, reduces the limit of tax levy for all purposes. IT PROVIDES THAT MINES MAY BE ASSESSED FOR THREE TIMES THE AMOUNT OF THEIR NET PROCEEDS.

It provides that state funds must not be used for private profit.

It provides that state funds must be deposited under the supervision of the state board of examiners, instead of

FIRM TAKEN OFF BRITISH BLACKLIST

Washington, Nov. 6.—The firm of H. Kemper, Galveston, Texas, has been removed from the British blacklist, said an official announcement today from the state department. No reason was given but it was understood the British government is satisfied the firm was not dealing with the enemy. Of the 36 firms originally blacklisted, six have been removed.

Democrats Predict Defeat of Lodge.

Boston, Nov. 6.—Both Republican and Democratic party managers planned today to carry their campaign activities up to the last possible moment before the election. Governor McCall, who seeks re-election, and his Democratic opponent, Frederick W. Mansfield, made their final pleas on the campaign issues and interest in this city and rural rallies, many of them in the open air, were arranged for all parts of the state.
