

WOMAN SICK TWO YEARS

Could Do No Work. Now Strong as a Man.

Chicago, Ill.—"For about two years I suffered from a female trouble so I was unable to walk or do any of my own work. I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the newspapers and determined to try it. It brought almost immediate relief. My weakness has entirely disappeared and I never had better health. I weigh 165 pounds and am as strong as a man. I think money is well spent which purchases Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. J. O'BRYAN, 1755 Newport Ave., Chicago, Ill.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, and nervous prostration. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the standard remedy for female ills.

POOR PATRICK!

An old but sturdy Irishman, who had made a reputation as a gang boss, was given a job with a railroad construction company at Port-au-Prince, Haiti. One day when the sun was hotter than usual his gang of black Haitians began to shirk, and as the chief engineer rode up on his horse the Irishman was heard to shout: "Allez—your sons of guns—allez!" Then, turning to the engineer, he said, "I curse the day I ever learned their language."—Harper's Monthly.

TORPEDO BOAT RESCUES CREW

Eight Men From the Healdton, One Badly Injured, Raved.

ACCOUNT OF SINKING

All Efforts to Save Nineteen Men in Capsized Boat Fruitless.

THE HAGUE, March 23, via London, 2:25 p. m.—A second boat from the Healdton has been brought to Terschelling by a Dutch torpedo boat, with eight men, including one badly injured. One Dutchman had jumped overboard, losing his life. The third boat, containing 19 men was overturned when the ship capsized. All were drowned, making a total of 20 lives lost out of the crew of 41. Of the 13 Americans on board only six were saved. Two Dutchmen also were among the victims, others of whom were Spaniards, Norwegians and a Finn.

Detailed accounts of the sinking show that the Healdton, after considerable delay at Halifax on her way to Rotterdam, proceeded to Bergen, Norway, where she received orders to resume the voyage to Rotterdam. Nothing of special import happened until Wednesday at about 8:15 p. m. Notwithstanding the electrically illuminated words "Healdton, New York," between the masts, the vessel was bombarded suddenly by an invisible submarine, which first shot away the illuminated masts and the upper works, and then twice torpedoed the vessel. Fire broke out at once followed by an explosion in the machine room and the crew immediately sought safety in the boats, not having a minute to dress or collect any of their belongings.

All efforts to save the 19 men in the overturned boat were fruitless. The boat with 13 men, including the captain, was sighted on Thursday by the steam trawler Java, which had just put to sea but immediately returned to Ymuiden with the shipwrecked men. A number of these survivors were in their underclothes and all were terribly exhausted by the night's fatigue and exposure in the open boat to bitter cold and snow. They had not even enough strength to come alongside the trawler, whose skipper had to apply his best seamanship to approach the boat without running it down. Once on board the trawler some of the survivors fell to the deck in a faint from exhaustion. According to the captain of the Healdton, one of the torpedoes hit his vessel in the stern and the other amidships. Dutch fishermen say they observed the glow of the burning steamship in the distance at first believing it to be the northern lights.

On Border of Danger Zone. In a dispatch from Ymuiden it is said that apparently the Healdton was within, or on the border of the German danger zone, east of the free channel. Nothing could be distinguished of the nationality of the submarine which fired without emerging fully and disappeared immediately. In addition to the illuminated sign, the Healdton's nationality was indicated by the fact that she was flying the American flag and had her name painted on the sides. The Dutch cook was among the four survivors of a ship recently torpedoed.

Six Americans Saved. ROTTERDAM, March 23, via London, 4 p. m.—The six Americans saved from the Healdton are Capt. Charles Christopher of Brooklyn; J. Caldwell of New York, chief engineer, and G. Embury of New Orleans, first assistant engineer, all of whom landed at Ymuiden; O. O. Willerup, chief mate; Y. Swensen, second assistant engineer, and L. C. Johnson, third assistant engineer, who landed at Terschelling.

farms, who have no children dependent on them must go.

Send Back the Infirm. In taking away the fit population the Germans are replacing these persons by sending back hundreds of aged or infirm men and women from St. Quentin and other places behind their new lines, saying frankly that the burden of supporting the old and infirm is thus placed on the French people.

The problem of feeding the liberated people, who have been suddenly cut off from the American relief administered from within the German lines, is being promptly met. The man in charge of the relief work in the Nesle district is a French soldier born and raised in this country, but having a Polish mother and an American father. He has two American brothers living in Chicago who also are interested in relief work.

In most of the villages evacuated the Germans left behind enough American supplies, chiefly brown bread, to last the inhabitants for five days. This seems to indicate that they did not expect to be followed quickly, but, as a matter of fact, British and French patrols entered many villages on the heels of the German rear guard.
